SOME people imagine that well bred persons do not carry bundles or parcels on the street except when it is absolutely necessary. That's just where they confound well bred persons with snobs and flunkies. A well bred person carries a bundle when he has one to carry. A well bred man can take his stuff home on a wheelbarrow and his breeding does not suffer a bit. No honest employment hurts any man's breeding.—Exchange

SENSATIONAL.—A "fishy" story from Bozeman, Montana, was published in the daily papers last week and quite a number of our rural exchanges were "taken in" as well. The rumor was to the effect that one Dutton, an Irish man, had called at the office of W. J. Stevenson, a notary, and made his declaration that he was the person who murdered the man Williams and his wife, near Brampton, Ontario, and therefore Mc-Whirrell was innocent. It turns out that Stevenson was the originator of the "yarn."

IT'S A DAISY.—Mr. Fred Sarjeant, the butcher, is one of Markdale's progressive and popular business men. Last year he erected a commodious brick shop and put therein a plate glass front, and thus kept abreast with the many improvements on Main Street. He is now prepared for the coming hot months. Having first secured a full supply of ice he has completed his shop by putting in a handsome refrigerator which was manufactured by the Eureka Refrigerator Co. of Toronto. This addition to this new building is indeed an ornament as well as being useful. It is finished in oak, with sand and glass, so that the contents may be seen at a glance. Fred. is one of our enterprising young tradesmen and deserves a share of the public patronage.

It appears that the practice of writing on the margin and in some cases of enclosing a slip which answers the purpose of a letter, has been growing, and the post office department defrauded. THE Rev. M. M. Goldberg preached his farewell sermon in St. James church last Sunday evening. The service was largely attended not only by members of this own congregation but by those of sister churches as well. Mr. Goldberg left for his new field of labor at Markdale accompanied by his family, on Monday. Mr. Goldberg is an able, earnest and forcible speaker and we hope that success may crown his efforts at Markdale.—Hanover Post.

BORN 103 YEARS AGO.—Thos. Harris, of Salem, near Elora, celebrated his 103rd birthday on Easter Sunday. He was born in the county of Kerry, Ireland, in 1791. For over 40 years he followed the life of a sailor, acting as pilot along the Irish coast. He came to this country in 1850. Notwithstanding his great age, Mr. Harris has scarcely known a day's illness until about 18 months ago when he injured himself by falling from an apple tree. Even this accident has not prevented the performance of his ordinary duties. He always acts as doorkeeper at the municipal elections in his township.

God Save the Queen.

Figs and Thistles.

(From Rab's Horn.)

Every man is serving some kind of a master.

It is hard to understand how a grateful man can be a stingy one.

Labor is never drudgery to the man whose heart is in his work.

There is no blinder man than the one that thinks he has no faults.

There is no resurrection from the grave in which men bury their talents.

Gratitude is the fire in which the incense of praise is kept burning.

Many a man looks solemn in church because he is afraid he wouldn't be considered religious if he didn't.

Where there is no settled determination to do right, an evil course is more than half decided upon.

There is no more dangerous disease than wanting to get rich in a hurry.

Some people think that the sermon is the best which misses them and hits everybody else.

Gets Lost and Dies.

OWEN SOUND, April 7.—Word of a death under the most distressing circumstances in the township of Sullivan reached here to-day. Willie, the 5 year-old son of Mr. Gottfried Belich, strayed away from his home on the fifth concession on Wednesday forenoon. He and two younger brothers went to the bush shortly before noon. The younger ones returned home about 1 o'clock. Willie, it seems, thought the younger ones were on the wrong road, and started home another way. He evidently did not strike the right road, as he was afterwards seen at Leonard Maxwell's, and again passing through the fields of a man named Goulding on the fourth concession. After waiting a few minutes his father started out to search, but by succeeding the entire neighborhood was aroused. All that night the country was scoured, but without success. Late in the afternoon the body of the little fellow was found in a field 11 miles from home. He had toddled on and on until exhausted, he fell, where death overtook him. The event has cast a sadness over the entire community.

A Piano In It,

A case of general interest was ventilated yesterday p. m. before Justices Rae, Richardson and Struthers in this village.

A piano agent named Latimer called on Mr. Wm. Dickey, a well-to-do farmer of Euphrasia, and arranged to put in a piano as a sample—so says Mr. Dickey—the instrument to remain there for four months, and an agreement that if four other pianos could be sold in the neighborhood in the four months that Mr. Dickey was to have a commission of $120 on each sale, which would cover the price of his, and he (Dickey) would thereby have his piano free. The following day another man—Mr. Vanderpool—came along with the piano and some assistance for unloading, together with a livery rig, and placed the instrument in position. Then a settlement was demanded, and as Mr. Dickey states being somewhat confused, and rather than be put to law over it he gave his notes for the piano, $480, still expecting to receive the commission above mentioned in due time. He came out to Markdale the same day, Tuesday, and his suspicions that all was not right developed and a charge entered against Mr. Vanderpool for fraudulent conspiracy in obtaining above notes. The sale of the piano had the appearance of a put-up job all through, nevertheless Dickey is responsible for the notes. The trial lasted from 2 p. m. until after 10 when Vanderpool was committed, bail being fixed at $400 which was furnished. L. B. Lucas looked after the interests of Mr. Dickey while P. McCullough looked after the interests of the accused.
