PORRIDGE

Restaurant

sufferers, Harry Stewart, and John Fortune, were Victoria Hospital, where, alarmed grave anxiety. ever, some ground for hop- attacked will recover. Oatmeal was confiscated and it submitted to Dr. Bacteriologist, who presence of germs. The examined the oatmeal unknown fiend in Mace has A fiend which makes dis- Revenge against him is Revenge against him is purchased a quantity of oatmeal, and has been used. What oatmeal in his possession

Dean for It?"

I happened to hear the to a family and the three of the unfortunate man." Mac

ST WANTS WOOD.

to be Much More Serious than Expected.

WAY WHALE.

is Having a Success of Season.

Mr.

GE OF WOMEN.

Children Dragged Out and Lake.

CLEAR FIND.

Left with Provisions in Lake.

NA SHOP.

the Rear and ver.

the pavement, and aris- a china store. The lat- stocked with glassware, but the animal ran the shop, breaking only and leaped through a rear, and then continued river. Quite a crowd the deer was too fleet, anced its pursuers.

THE SACRIFICE;

—OR—

FOR HER FAMILY'S SAKE.

house, close by the city gate. It was not a luxurious abode, for it consisted of only three rooms and a tiny kitchen. But the rent was low, and the lodging offered inestimable advantages. In the first place, it possessed a balcony, on which there was just room enough for the stand of the parrot and the Frau Fischer's armchair and, moreover, it looked down upon the wonderful shady Fischer garden of Frau Elizabeth Bechler, and, in the second place, Aunt Melitta could see every person, every carriage, and every extension chair in the quiet street in which the house was situated, and, in the third place, was a matter of no small importance, with of course, the fourth place, it was cheap.

[illegible] Lora [illegible] Bechler [illegible] the balcony [illegible] Aunt Melitta [illegible] Lora [illegible] Kate [illegible] Lora [illegible] Kate [illegible] Lora [illegible] Kate