Helium To Be Used In Airliner Tires

Pneumatic tires on a forthcoming giant airliner will be filled with 26 pounds of helium instead of 180 pounds of air which would normally be required for the job, says Business Week.

The net weight (not pressure) saving of 154 pounds will increase the available payload of the craft by exactly that amount.

Helium, being an inert gas that no known chemical affinity for natural or synthetic rubber, should provide an extra dividend in a long tire life.

Huge Plane Could Carry 750 Soldiers

The world's largest airplane—a flying boat—of such size that it could only be exhibited in sections, has had its first preview and left the previewers astounded.

The plane is being built at the Howard Hughes plant, Culver City, Calif., and has been named the Hercules. Here are some statistics announced by the company:

Cost: In excess of $20,000,000.
Weight: 425,000 pounds.
Wingspread: 320 feet.
Hull: 220 feet long, 30 feet high, 25 feet wide.
Engines: Eight in all, each of 3,000 horsepower capacity.
Gasoline capacity: 14,000 gallons.

The Hercules, begun in 1943, will not be ready for flight tests before next January. There are no plans for duplicating the monster ship.

The Hercules will be able to carry a 60-ton tank with full complement of armor and men. Or, it can carry three light tanks and equipment. It can become a mobile hospital, with 350 patients on stretchers, surgery facilities and plenty of doctors and nurses. And it could, engineers say, carry 750 soldiers equipped.

The Hercules will have a top speed, engineers say, of about 218 miles an hour and a cruising speed of about 175 miles per hour.

Diamond Drilling Now In Full Swing On Company's Bourlamaque Property

Following an extended program of surface exploration, a program of diamond drilling under the supervision of the Company's consuting geologist, Mr. E. K. Fockler, is now underway. The property comprises approximately 100 acres and adjoins the producing Sullivan Consolidated mine. To the east—see accompanying map—are the producing Sigma and Lamaque mines.

Events during the past few months throughout the fast-growing Bourlamaque camp—East Sullivan, Aumaque, Louvicourt Goldfield, Lavalie and others—highlight the tremendous possibilities inherent in Valdina's current drilling campaign, planned to thoroughly test the interesting surface disclosures uncovered in recent work.

British Post-War Car Reaches U.S.

A British Austin, said by the Austin Motor Company, Inc., to be the first British automobile to have gone into post-war production, arrived in New York last week for exhibition.

"England is anxious to export the cars," said David O. Alber, public relations representative of the Longbridge, Birmingham, firm.

Shipments to the United States will reach 2,000 a month by the beginning of 1946, he said, and added, "This marks the resumption of trade, and the cars will establish dollar credit for England."

He said the rapid reconversion to the car was possible because its chassis was the same as the British jeep. The car will sell for about $1,600.

TO WASHINGTON?

Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, above, British ambassador to Moscow, is considered a likely choice as ambassador to Washington, should the present envoy, the Earl of Halifax, relinquish the post to return to politics, as has been reported.

VENUS IS HOME

An Allied soldier, one of the first visitors to the Louvre after the Paris museum reopened its door to the public, gazes up at the statue of Venus de Milo, back on its pedestal after six years of exile. After long interment in an excelsior-padded crate, hidden in a vault of a Valençay chateau, only wartime "damage" Venus suffered was a smudge on her classic nose.

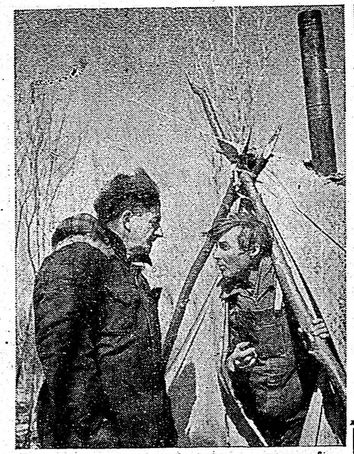
A TINY RADIO

Pretty Lola Dean here tunes her new pocket radio which isn't much larger than a cigarette case. It weighs 12 ounces, is complete with batteries and four tubes and has an ear piece speaker of the hearing aid type.

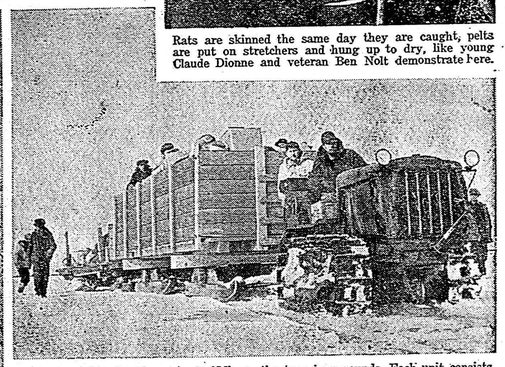
Canada's Muskrat Trapping, Long Inactive, Becomes Big Business

A muskrat trapper spreads his day's rat catch on the ice before he takes it back to camp for skinning. Behind him is the muskrat "house" where he sets his traps and catches as many as five at a time, then resets the traps for further catch.

Rats are skinned the same day they are caught, pelts are put on stretchers and hung up to dry, like young Claude Dionne and veteran Ben Nolt demonstrate here.

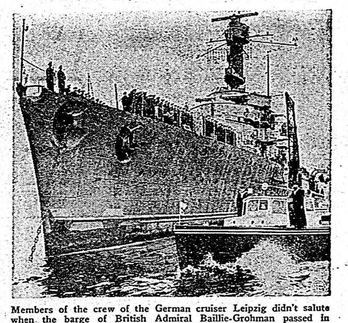


Dave Perry, veteran muskrat trapper, emerges from his tent to chat with Game Guardian Norman McKenzie who is on one of his regular tours of inspection.



Commissioned by the Department of Mines and Resources, tractor trains like this carry men and equipment from The Pas to the trapping grounds. Each unit consists of a tractor and three sleds. Usually it can make the trip in eight or ten hours.

FORCES SULKING NAZIS TO SALUTE



Members of the crew of the German cruiser Leipzig didn't salute when the barge of British Admiral Baillie-Grohman passed in Kiel Harbor. So next day, Admiral Baillie-Grehman, sent to escort the captured warship to England, ordered the German captain to assemble the crew on deck, sailed his barge past and was paid the proper honors as picturzd above. It was a disciplinary measure, designed to bring home to the sulking crew a realization of their defeat.

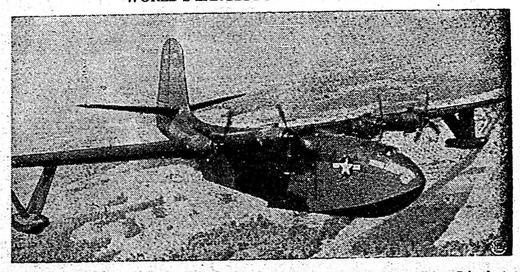
PRAYER BY CANDLELIGHT

In a tent chapel, somewhere in the Western Pacific, Seabees bend their heads in prayer during a holy communion service. All carry lighted candles, whose soft glow make the dramatic photograph above.

THESE MEN WILL RULE BERLIN

These four generals—Berlin's "kommandantur"—took over government of the bomb shattered capital of Germany. Left to right they are: Maj.-Gen. Floyd L. Parks of the U. S., Col-Gen. Alexander V. Gorbadov, of Russia, Major.-Gen. L. O. Lyne of British and Maj.-Gen. Geofrey DeBeauchesne of France. The four will rotate as head of the board, serving 10-day terms in that capacity.

WORLD'S LARGEST FLYING BOAT



Big enough to transport eight jeeps at a time, the huge "Hawaiian Mars," world's largest flying boat, soars over Genn L. Martin seaplane base at Baltimore. The ship has a wing span of 200 feet, weighs over 72 tons, and has a cruising range of 7,000 miles. It will see service as a Navy transport.
