NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Summer has slid out of the world as quietly and uncremoniously as if saying good by caused never a heartache or a pang, and the lovely lingering evenings and warm tints of the afterglow have become a memory which shivers at the thought that it will soon be time to get out the family snow shovel and poke up the furnace.

The result of the exhaustive investigation of influenza epidemic in 1889-92 is a Government report setting forth that the disease is communicated from person to person, not by the general atmosphere. The figures show much more fatal results in the rural districts than in large towns, but no conditions have yet been discovered of site, soil, climate or sanitation to explain the ravages of the disease.

Mr. Gladstone is calm over the greatest victory of his life, the passing of the Home Rule Bill through the House of Commons. It is only, he says, another step, though the greatest of all steps, towards the end in view. None sees more clearly than the aged pilot that in weathering this cape he has not entered a harbor, but has only brought into sight new rocks and new breakers which are not calculated to lessen greatly the tension with which he clings to the wheel and the eagerness with which his eagle eye still looks forward.

The Minister of Education has issued a circular calling attention to the following amendments to the regulations in reference to the Entrance Examination in High Schools. The examination on history will be in Canadian history alone. No questions will be set in British history. The Inspector shall see, however, that the subject is taught orally. Physiology and temperance are compulsory and shall take rank with the other subjects. The new text book will not be ready until October. The work in drawing is limited to Book No. 5, in writing to Book No. 6.

The British Board of Trade emigration returns for the seven months ending 31st of July, were published on the 4th instant, subject to correction in the annual statement. The total number of emigrants of British origin for the period was 130,655 as against 123,199 for the corresponding period of 1892. Of these 80,260 were English, 14,098 Scotch and 36,297 Irish. The destination of the emigrants were as follows: United States, 97,054, British North America, 16,959, Australasia, 5,565, Cape of Good Hope and Natal, 6,286, other places, 4,791. Of the 97,054 who went to the United States, 54,472 were English, 10,808 were Scotch and 31,774 were Irish.

American and European tramps were never before so carefully classified and described as they are in the August Forum by Prof. J. J. McCook, the sociological expert. The gist of 1,349 tramp autobiographies he condenses into a few vivid pages, showing that more than half of the tramps questioned have trades, 75 per cent are under 40, only 8 per cent are in "bad health", 56 per cent are Americans, nearly all can read and write, and the daily newspaper is one of the items on which they are most likely to spend money. The 45,845 tramps in the United States, Prof. McCook estimates, cost the community about $20 a year each, or a total of $8,169,000 "a half more than the cost of the Indian department and one half the cost of our navy."

The news from England regarding the cholera epidemic at Grimsby is serious and alarming. Steps have been taken to cut off all traffic between it and other British ports, but the dread plague often laughs at boundaries and goeth where it listeth. The Dominion Government has not yet awakened to the necessity for establishing a thorough quarantine for Canada and for putting a stop to the practice of some steamboat companies of using this country as a gateway for immigrants to the United States. It is a great many years since Canada was visited by the plague, but the horrors of it are still strong in the memories of many, and the Government should not delay in taking effective preventive measures before it is too late.

Articles dealing with cholera are again making their appearance in the monthly periodicals. Most of the writers, if not all of them, express the opinion that the best means of checking the spread of the disease is through better sanitary regulations. Mr. Ernest Hart, chairman of the National Health Society of England writes in the North American Review the experiences of European countries with cholera, and in conclusion urges every responsible authority in America to at once put their houses in order and to secure purity of water especially, but also of air and of habits. This is, he says, the only successful weapon, wherewith to protect ourselves against cholera. He is convinced that polluted water is the cause of almost every great epidemic of Asiatic Cholera, and it has been observed that when the use of the defective water has been abandoned or cut off the epidemic has ceased. The use of boiled water for drinking purposes during the prevalence of an epidemic or when there is reason to apprehend that the water supply may be contaminated by cholera germs is recommended. Review of Reviews.

THE SARNIA SAFE IN PORT.

QUEBEC, Sept. 1. The steamer Montcalm, from Montreal, towed to anchor, late in the harbor early this morning the steamer Sarnia, which she picked up adrift in mid ocean. All the passengers on board the Sarnia are well and the cattle are uninjured. The Sarnia sailed from Montreal July 29. On August 4 she broke her thrust shaft. All efforts to repair the damage were fruitless, and for days the vessel drifted helplessly. As the weather remained calm, the passengers experienced little physical inconvenience, although they suffered keen anxiety after two weeks had passed without the sight of a sail. On August 25 the Montevidean was sighted. She took the Sarnia in tow about 1,000 miles from Cork. The rest of the voyage was uneventful.

PROBABLY FORGERY.

O. H. Ryder, Formerly of Acton, is the Accused.

Last week our unusually quiet town was thrown into a state of consternation on learning that a former resident of Acton was accused of forging the names of three of our citizens, and two others, who have not resided here for the past couple of years.

Last Tuesday William Newhouse, of Brampton, came to town and presented several notes to a few parties here, asking them if they recognized their own handwriting, to which they replied that it was, not theirs. On returning to Brampton, Mr. Newhouse informed the constable of the state of affairs, and they immediately drove to a farm a short distance from that place, and arrested Oscar Herman Ryder, as the man who forged the notes. At a preliminary trial in Brampton, Friday, before Justices Graham and Main, the prisoner was sent down for trial, which comes off at the sessions this month.

O. H. Ryder went to Chingucousy from Acton some four or five years ago, and while there he married a highly respected lady, Miss Percy, daughter of Mr James Percy, formerly of Albion Township. Last spring Ryder went to Elk Crawford and rented a hundred acre farm on the east side, terms $300 for the year in advance, and managed to put up $60. He was not possessed of a princely fortune and his prospects were not the brightest, however he was an honest looking man and having married with such a highly respectable family his credit was fairly good for the necessaries of life. But he required money to go on with his farming enterprise and visited Mr Newhouse to whom he offered several notes against parties here which Mr. Newhouse agreed to cash for him provided he (Ryder) would pay Newhouse's expenses to Acton to satisfy him as to their worth. This however Ryder objected to do but offered to give a chattel mortgage for the amounts, with the notes as collateral security, and agreed to pay Newhouse 12 per cent per month for the loan of $300. This was agreed upon, but lately Mr. Newhouse became dubious as to the validity of the notes and interviewed several men here, against whom the notes in hand, were drawn, and ascertained that the notes were not made by the parties purported, but were forgeries. The prisoner was convicted on the charges preferred against him and is now awaiting trial.

His goods and chattels were sold at a bailiff sale last Monday, to satisfy the claim of his landlord.

The names of those forged are Jno Worden, $100, Thos. Gamble, $50, David Bell, $100; Mr Chisholm, $50, and Mr Smith, $50, total aggregating about $400.

The prisoner is well known here, having run a tailoring business where Mr Archie McTavish has his shop. When here Ryder was charged with attempting to burn down the place, but succeeded in clearing himself. The prisoner claims that he did not forge the notes but they were taken by him in a business deal from another party and he supposed them to be genuine. Much sympathy is felt for his young wife in their trouble.

LITERARY NOTES.

Of General Lew Wallace's new novel, The Prince of India, just published by the Messrs. Harper & Brothers, the author lately remarked to a friend that he might say that he was sent to Constantinople to write that book. President Garfield, who was a great admirer of Ben Hur, suggested to General Wallace the idea of another historical romance, with Constantinople as its scene. Naturally the period most brilliantly capable of literary development in a story is that tragic one in which Mohammed II overthrew the Eastern Empire, shattered the Greek Church, destroyed Constantinople, and trumpled in the blood of the last Emperor and of his devoted subjects. The new romance is the result of President Garfield's hint, and of the great facilities afforded General Lew Wallace in the Turkish capital, as well as of his increasing interest in developing the book.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

The Seventh International Convention At St. Louis 2,000 Delegates Present.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 2. The great international Sunday School Convention opened here on Wednesday. It consists of a registered delegates not only of the Sunday School workers of this great continent, but also a large degree of Great Britain and the continent of Europe as well. Seldom have so many active Christian workers been drawn from a wide an area. From almost every great city in this continent, were assembled a band of earnest souled, warm hearted, well trained Sunday School workers, lawyers, bankers, merchants, statesmen, teachers and preachers, to devise wise methods and liberal measures for carrying on God's work in the world.

The convention so far has been a most harmonious and successful one. It meets in the great hall of the St. Louis Exposition.

The chairman elect of the convention is Lewis Miller of Akron, Ohio, a veteran Sunday School worker, who, by the way, is father-in-law of the Wizard Edison.

Arrangements are being made for a great six week's work, especially in the south, where a special colored agent will probably be appointed. Nearly $20,000 were spent in this aggressive work, in the last three years, and $30,000 more are asked for the next three years.

The Sunday School army in the United States is 11,000,000, for Canada the number is 642,370.

The second world's Sunday School Convention met on Saturday, with delegates from the United States, England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, Canada, Africa, New South Wales, India and other countries. Dr. Phillips of India, historically sketched the work in India, appealed for a missionary in Japan, and George Edwards, of London, spoke of the work in Europe, saying the Sunday School scholars there had increased 500,000 in three years.

Many conflicting claims as to who originated the Sunday School idea have been put forth, and it is hard in the light of the facts that have been disclosed of late years to decide as to whom the credit is due. Robert Raikes, a printer and publisher of a small newspaper in Gloucester, England, was undoubtedly the first whose work attracted general attention and imitation. He got his idea, however, from Mrs. Bradburn, who had been a teacher in a Sunday School established in 1763 by Hannah Ball. Raikes started his first school in 1780, and in 1783, 210 years ago, he wrote an article about the school which was published in the Gentleman's Magazine, and once the plan and its success as conducted by him were made known to the churches in general it was extended with marvelous rapidity.

It is a fact, however, that as early as 1560, schools somewhat similar to that of Mr. Raikes were established by the Kirk of Scotland, and a somewhat similar form of school was authorized by the church of England in 1603. Among the earliest Sunday Schools in America were those established at Roxbury, Mass., in 1674, and Norwich, Conn. in 1695. But the work of these schools not being published to the world, as was that of Raikes, their influence was only local.

The total number of Sunday School teachers in the world, not including those of the Roman Catholic Church, whose statistics are not available, for the entire total of the Protestant Episcopal, is 2,051,679. They teach in 130,575 schools, which are attended by 18,026,916 pupils, making a total of 20,078,195 teachers and pupils. There are now organized Sunday schools in every country of Europe save Turkey, Greece and a few of the small southeastern principalities, in nearly every country in South America, in nearly all the isles of the sea, in Africa, in China, India, Japan and Persia. The United States leads all countries in number of schools, teachers and pupils, its totals being 105,949 schools, 1,143,340 teachers, 9,629,141 pupils. England and Wales come next with 39,983 schools, 666,911 teachers and 5,733,325 pupils.

A number of changes in constitution were recommended.

Peterboro was selected as the next place of meeting.

SISTERS OF PROVIDENCE.

AN INTERESTING CHAT WITH THE SECRETARY OF ST. MARY'S.

She Explains Why the Sisters and their Pupils are so Healthy—Due to Strict Rules of Hygiene and the Medicine used in the Home—Information of Value to Everybody.

From the Terre Haute, Ind., Express.

Four miles to the northwest of Terre Haute, lies the beautiful and picturesque village of St. Marys. This is a Roman Catholic Institution which has attained something more than national celebrity. Fifty years ago it was established by six sisters of Providence who came from the shores of France to lay the foundation for this great charitable order. It now consists of the home of the Sisters of Providence, known as the Providence House, a large female seminary, one of the finest church in the United States, and a Rectory in which the priests make their home.

A reporter of the Express while being shown through the establishment recently asked sister Mary Ambrose if there was any apparent reason for the good health which which the sisters and their pupils are blessed.

The answer was that particular attention is paid by the sisters in charge to the health and happiness of the students. "Bodily ailment," she said, "cannot help but have its effect on the mind. In order to keep the mind bright and active and perfectly clear at all times, the student's condition must be as nearly perfect as possible. Some time ago there was more or less ailment noticeable among the sisters and students, which was probably due to atmospheric causes, though of course I do not know just what its origin really was. Shortly after this became noticeable a friend highly recommended a medicine called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and so urged upon me to give them a trial that I ordered some of them, and they have been used in the institution ever since. A few days ago the manufacturers wrote me for an opinion of Pink Pills, and my reply was as follows:

"RESPECTED SIRS,—In answer to your kind request for our opinion of Dr Williams' Pink Pills, we are pleased to say that these pills were so highly recommended to us that we were induced to try them, and we think that our repeated orders for them are sufficient evidence that we find them all they are represented, a good blood builder and an excellent nerve tonic.

"Yours very respectfully,

SISTER M. AMBROSE,
Secretary for Sisters of Providence."

Medical scientists concede that weak blood and shattered nerves are the fruitful cause of nearly every disease to which human flesh is heir, and if Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is, as Sister Ambrose says they have found it, "a good blood builder and an excellent nerve tonic," the source of good health at St. Mary's is easily traced.

Sister Ambrose said they are never without Pink Pills, and that now they order a gross at a time.

This is certainly a very high recommendation for the medicine, for there is probably no class of people that pay more attention to the physical health and welfare of its members than the Sisters of Providence, and they would not use anything in which they did not have unbounded faith.

Dr Williams' Pink Pills are truly one of the greatest medical discoveries of the age. They are the beginning of a more healthful era. Every day brings reports of remarkable cures that have resulted from the use of this wonderful medicine. In many cases the good work has been accomplished after eminent physicians had failed and pronounced the patient beyond the hope of human aid. An analysis proves that Dr Williams' Pink Pills contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration, all diseases depending upon vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale or sallow cheeks. In the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry or overwork of whatever nature.

These pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, of Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundredth) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr Williams' Medicine Company, from either address. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

Have you tried Minard's American sugar cured bacon? If not, call and see them. He has a lot of other goods to show you.

A few days ago Mr. Vanwyck was greatly annoyed on finding that a fat beast which he had fastened in the slaughter house, was missing. However, on instituting a search he found the animal returning to the farm where he had purchased it. It was for the Saturday market, and Mr. Vanwyck says he has strong suspicion as to who turned the steer out.
