

A beautiful room starts at the top

For anyone who grew up in a home with all white ceilings (which is likely just about everyone), Beauti-Tone is encouraging us to think outside the (white) box and introduce colour where colour is due with ceiling-worthy shades from its new Colour Comes Home paint collection.

Forever it seems, white has been the go-to ceiling colour. But now, people are realizing that colour dancing on the ceiling can make a room, or a whole home really sing. But what is the trick for getting ceiling colour right?

"There are no hard rules in decorating," says Bev Bell, Creative Director, Beauti-Tone Paint and Home Products Division, Home Hardware Stores Limited. "Sure, there are guidelines, but take a cue from Michelangelo. He saw ceilings as a canvas! Some of the most beautiful and most memorable rooms became that way because someone has played with colour."

"The most wonderful thing about adding colour is that it is your home and you can do whatever you want to make it your own," emphasises Bell.

"It takes just a few dollars to transform a room from lovely to WOW," says Bell. When considering a ceiling colour, take everything in the room and the home into consideration, but also give thought to what it is YOU like. "It's like finding a lovely dress," says Bell. "It looks good, but it doesn't look great until you put the whole look together. Don't overlook those ceilings because they really do add a lot to the whole look of your home."
