

Georgetown's Olon Industries launches new line in the U.S.

Olon Industries, manufacturer of mouldings and components for the cabinet making and furniture industry, announced a new strategic partnership with Wilsonart, world-leading producer of HPL and the Fessenden Hall Inc. distribution network in NE USA.

This partnership allows Olon to further extend its reach into the U.S. market where there is a growing need for fresh, new construction materials that can satisfy the trendiest and most traditional of styles.

NEXGENTM Signature door components and accessory mouldings allow kitchen and cabinet manufacturers' access to laminate five-piece doors, design trends and performance characteristics that out perform hardwood in true designer Wilsonart colors.

"The Wilsonart Colour Collection is highly sought after by commercial and residential designers alike," explains Steve Hubbard, Product Manager, Wilsonart, "with Olon producing this complete moulding program, 100 per cent matching five-piece doors, crown mouldings, light shields and baseboards — everything is now available to complete your Wilsonart HPL and TFL panels for kitchen, bathroom, closet or any other design project."

"The accessibility to the marketplace is as critical as the products themselves," states Ryan McKenzie, Senior Territory Manager, Olon Industries, "Fessenden Hall in the Tri-State area was a natural fit. They are a distributor that believes in providing quality, green and innovative products to their customers. It's a win-win situation especially for the end-users and cabinet makers." (More information on Fessendenhall and their locations can be found at www.fessendenhall.com.)

This Wilsonart door and accessory moulding program is 100 per cent made in the U.S. out of the Jeffersonville, IN facility. Olon is very committed to growing the local economy and offering quality, American made product. Olon facilities are located in Georgetown, Geneva, IL, Washington, IN and Jeffersonville, IN.
