EDITORIAL NOTES

The Montreal by-law preventing girls from selling newspapers on the street, boys under ten from doing so, and everyone from selling on the streets on Sunday, came into effect on 1st May. The change was a welcome one to many citizens.

While indecency still flaunts itself boldly and publicly in many ways, it is an encouraging fact that there is a manifest trend toward decency in our advertising displays. The International Poster Printers' Association of the United States and Canada has decided that short skirts and tights must be excluded from public posters. Those who are interested in the protection of the young are beginning to feel more hopeful.

The Ontario College of Pharmacy is considering the question of disciplining licensed druggists who abuse the privilege of selling liquor for medicinal purposes. The council of the college proposes to ask the Government for power to take away the licenses of druggists who offend in this way, and also proposes to co-operate with the Government in prosecuting such offenders. Acton is to be congratulated that both our local druggists are in full sympathy with the above action.

In discussing the reports to the recent Brewers' Convention in the United States that notwithstanding the extension of restrictive liquor laws the consumption of liquors last year did not materially lessen, the Globe said on Tuesday: "No one expects a large element of the population to change habits immediately with the enactment of a law. The drinkers will for a time accomplish their ends. But it is just as sure that in time the effect of the restrictions will be asserted and the users of alcohol as a beverage will yield to the pressure of the law."

In view of the fact that the regulations governing immigration into this country have come in for considerable criticism at a recent gathering of interested organizations in England, the Department of Immigration at Ottawa has done well to distribute freely through this country copies of the law and regulations respecting immigration and immigrants. There can be now no misunderstanding as to what the Government has thought fit and proper to require as a standard in the new citizens now crowding to our shores. The higher the average of physical and intellectual excellence demanded, together with due regard to the class of work these people will be called upon to do, the better for the future life of the country.

EQUALIZATION OF ASSESSMENT

Council Purchases a New Road Roller and a New Stone Crusher

THE OAKVILLE BRIDGE AGAIN

The County Council met last week and had one of the longest sessions in many a day. The Warden took the chair at 10.30 and the meeting continued with brief adjournments for dinner and supper until after midnight.

All the members were present.

One of the most important items of the proceedings was the equalization of assessment which was fixed as follows:

Trafalgar, 67500 acres @	$52		$3,514,680
Esquesing, 60012 "	49		$3,231,588
Nelson, 46082 "	50		$2,304,100
Nassagaweya, 44565	34		$1,515,210
Milton			484,467
Oakville			885,358
Georgetown			449,071
Acton			422,205
Burlington			628,064
			$13,433,743

Burlington and Oakville made a strenuous effort to have their assessment reduced by ten per cent. The other members failed to see any justice in such a course and their respective assessments were confirmed without reduction.

A by-law was passed fixing the travelling and other expenses of the School Inspector at $500.00 per annum.

A big deputation from Trafalgar re proposed high level bridge waited upon the Council to press the erection of a new $25,000 bridge on the Middle Road between Oakville and Trafalgar, over the Sixteen Mile Creek.

The matter will come up for further discussion at next meeting.

It was decided to purchase an Aveling & Porter road roller, if, after a week's demonstration, it be found satisfactory.

A committee was appointed with authority to purchase a new stone crusher.

During the day the Council Chamber was thronged with deputations and and agents of good roads machinery.

Council adjourned to meet at the call of the Warden.

THE TROPHY GOES TO WATERLOO

Keen Contests at the Central Bowling Tournament Here This Week

BERLIN ARE THE RUNNERS-UP

The annual tournament of the Central Lawn Bowling Association opened here at 10.30 Tuesday morning.

The clubs in the association are Guelph, Berlin, Brampton, Waterloo, Galt, Hespeler, Ayr and Acton, each of which was represented by three rinks. The lawn was in prime condition and the visiting bowlers were loud in their praise of the excellence of the various greens.

Promptly at 10.30 o'clock President D. M. Henderson of the Acton Bowling Club, called the visiting bowlers together and bade them a very cordial welcome to Acton.

The weather was ideal for bowling on both days and the tournament was one of the most successful in the history of the association.

The keenest competition was naturally for the Seagram Trophy which has been held by Berlin for two seasons. It was thought from the outset that the finals might likely be fought out between Euler, of Berlin, and Chapman, of Guelph, the contestants of last year. Chapman was, however, bowled out by Ruddell, of Berlin, and the finals were between Euler, of Berlin, and Kuntz, of Waterloo, the latter of whom won by a fair margin.

THE DOCTOR WAS RIGHT

"My doctor told me I would have to quit eating so much meat."

"Did you laugh him to scorn?"

"I did at first, but when he sent in his bill I found he was right."

HOME OBSERVATIONS

One of the compensations for the alleged hard work on the Canadian farm is the varied character of its engagements. Each season brings its change of employment, and each branch in turn has many changes of occupation. This is what makes it different to many from factory work which is to the worker more or less monotonous. One of the special branches of farm life in a short train of varied experiences is suggested by the bales of wool we may see on our streets just now en route to Rockwood.

* * *

On a good hot late May or early June day—June this year—the fiat goes forth at noon, "them sheep had better be washed to-day." To the juveniles in hearing, this is good enough news, and one or two willingly scamper to the pasture or lanes, or concession line, to round up the flock. A load of fence rails is probably also required, and after the man for the occasion gathers a few "duds" into a grain bag, the cavalcade—men, boys, sheep and rails—moves off to the spot selected—often a creek by a roadside, anywhere where a good bottom and sufficient depth can be obtained. A coral is quickly improvised with the rails, and the struggling, panting, bleating flock is packed into it. The man of the hour vanishes into a thicket nearby and soon emerges, arrayed, if not like Solomon in all his glory, yet in a costume sufficiently unique of itself. Wading in to the desired depth, and the deeper the better, he proceeds to do the grand act as he collars the first victim which as he pulls is pushed from behind, and soon the resisting animal is overpowered, because overturned, and the muddy water flowing seaward from the scene attests that sheep washing is on. It does not take long, and if the staggering, drenched, and dripping victim does not trip into a mud hole going out so much the better. This is repeated until the flock is disposed of, and by the time the work is done the first may have lain long enough in the dust to discount the value of the washing and the journey home does not help matters. They say that in some cases nowadays the washing of the fleece is done after shearing, but in many an Ontario community these scenes according to traditions handed down have been of constant occurence.

* * *

Like many another farm job this used to be considered one in which whiskey was indispensable, and many a ludicrous and many a sad result followed. One well-attested was the intoxication of the parties so that a yoke of oxen and the load of rails were taken a considerable distance past the "turn in" and the same back so as to get to the source of supply for more. Another, equally verified, was the death of a little boy who secured his father's bottle, unnoticed, and becoming drowsy lay down on the damp ground and became thoroughly chilled. The father's vow of total abstinence came too late.

* * *

The next phase is when a few days later the fleece is supposed to be dry. Again the flock is penned up, and subjected to the great indignity of having to be tumbled around while the winter's suit is taken from them. A barn floor, or perhaps a pen in the pasture where there are lots of mosquitos, is the spot selected and after being stabbed a few times with the sheep shears and some tar put on the nose, the poor victims are released, wondering who's who. The wool is rolled up and put somewhere where it will not get damp lest it might increase the weight. An accompaniment of shearing is often docking the lambs' tails by means of a mallet, sharp chisel and block. A point made in a country school-house debating club, may illustrate the reason for this refined cruelty. The beauties of nature versus art was the topic and the negative speaker, referring to the glowing description of the beauty of the starry heavens, asked, "Who ever admired long tails on sheep."

* * *

The last phase is on the day it is en route to Rockwood—the day, in a sense, for which these other days were made. So numerous are the applicants for this trip that often there is not much room for the wool. But it is understood that there is to be something in the way of "toggery" got out of the wool, and it is a pity there is not a bigger crop and a higher price. The united head of the house generally goes on this trip and as many more as possible—it is a day out. The younger members wish that so much of it did not go for blankets, but there is no use talking, and so after the dealing is done, and a lunch among the rocks, the homeward journey to the four points of the compass is made and for months it is "when I was at Rockwood."

* * *

This wool business is in a queer state just now. Mills erected years ago are idle, others working slack, and yet wool is an article of needed use. When you commence to talk wool politics begin to be mooted, and soon you don't know where you are. Idle mills are pointed to as "Laurier's monument" because the duty is not arranged so that they can be worked. On the other hand, it is claimed in a North West agricultural journal that in a climate such as ours "it would profit the people of Canada to pension off the woollen manufacturers and keep them for life in comfortable hotels in Montreal and Toronto, and give all their employees free homesteads, provided the country was allowed perfect freedom to buy its woollen goods in the open market." So there we are, there are the different opinions. Perhaps a medium might be found—for "two heads are better than one, even if one is a sheep's head." But who wants to think of woollen wear these days?

CONVENTION AT BURLINGTON

Halton Woman's Institute Have Interesting Session and Election

MRS. G. HAVILL RE-ELECTED AS SECRETARY

The district annual meeting of the Woman's Institute was held in the school room of the Burlington Methodist Church, and will be remembered by those present as a most enjoyable day.

The majority of the delegates arrived in time for luncheon, which was served at twelve o'clock.

At 1.30 the district president, Mrs. Emerson, took the chair. On the platform with the President were Mrs. Inglehart, of Palermo, Vice-President; Mrs. Geo. Havill, of Acton, Sec.-Treas.

The meeting opened by singing and prayer, and the secretary, Mrs. Havill, read the yearly report, which was very gratifying. Halton has now 12 branches with a total membership of 561, thus entitling the Institute to the honor of being the "Banner County."

The President's address of welcome was much appreciated.

The Institutes have, during the year, been called to mourn the loss of one whom they were pleased to call the mother of the Institute, the late Mrs. Hoodless. District reports were given by the delegates, which showed all societies were in a healthy condition, with the exception of Moffat. This branch, through some unforeseen cause, has become faint-hearted for a season. Hopes are entertained for its revivication.

The Treasurer, Mrs. Havill, gave the financial report showing the society to be in a prosperous condition.

At the election of officers Mrs. Emerson was unanimously re-elected President; Miss Hagar, of Palermo, consented to act as Vice-President, and Mrs. Havill, of Acton, was re-elected Sec.-Treas.

The next annual meeting will again be held at Burlington.

The meeting closed with singing "God save the King." Tea was then served and a social hour spent. The tables looked beautiful with cut flowers and plants, and heavily laden with all the good things of the season.

Mrs. Havill tendered a hearty vote of thanks to the Burlington ladies for their kindness and hospitality.

Rev. Mr. Hill, pastor of the church, spoke words of welcome to the visiting delegates, congratulating them on bringing the sunshine with them, and hoped they would always be enabled thus to scatter it through life.—Burlington Gazette.

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box. 6

Fergus Wants the County Buildings

The June session of Wellington County Council was marked by two important items of business. The first was regarding the county buildings and the request from Fergus to have the court house, jail, etc., moved to or erected in that village. The second important feature was the raising of the councillors' pay from three to five dollars per day.
