EDITORIAL NOTES

APPROXIMATELY 40,000,000 bushels of wheat are yet to be delivered to market out of the prairie provinces. This fact will help to maintain railway traffic earnings until the new crop is ready to market.

IT IS significant that Dr. Hodgetts, the superintendent of the Canadian Red Cross activities in Europe, has advised the Red Cross organization of Canada that supplies have been sent forward in such generous quantities that no further shipments of surgical appliances will be required for some time. He advised the knitting of socks and the making of housewives hospital shirts and pajamas, but no more surgical appliances.

MR. N. W. ROWELL, the Liberal Leader, has gone to England where he will make a special study of advanced legislation along the line of social and moral reform. Mr. Rowell intimates that the abolition of the bar had removed the greatest obstacle to a genuine social advance, and set forth a number of important reforms which were urgently needed. Such questions as that of providing for the full and healthy development of our children; sickness and unemployment insurance; old age and widows' pensions; tax reform; and the care of the feeble-minded, featured as outstanding social reforms deserving the most careful consideration on the part of the people of the province. With his customary zeal and energy, Mr. Rowell has no sooner achieved the consummation of his aim to do away with the evils of the liquor traffic, than he at once devotes his attention to a study of the best methods of combating the other evils in our midst. Whilst in England the Liberal Leader will also investigate the means employed there in organizing the resources of the country, with a view to reporting on his return to the committee appointed at the last session of the Legislature to secure better organization of the resources of Ontario.

"I'M THINKING OF YOU EVERYDAY."

A SOLDIER'S LETTER

I haven't had time to sit down and write,
And thought perhaps you might like;
So I send you this card just to say I'm alright,
All getting along "real fine."
When the Empire's Call for more men to fight
For her Honor—it me caused a thrill;
I felt I must or else I should "bust,"
So I'm at Niagara Camp—hard at drill.
The work it is stiff, we're "at it" all day,
And sometimes half of the night;
But we're hardening to it, getting quite fit,
And thank goodness for "Boots" we're alright.
My duty calls me as you very well know,
To the Front where the fighting is done;
And when our heads get a grip on the foe
There's no letting go till they've won.
So cheer up, my dear friend, tho' parted we are,
And though I'm not far away,
My loved ones are ever first in my thoughts,
I'm thinking of you every day.

A BATTALION'S HIGH IDEAS

Every Officer a Total Abstainer and Every Man Enlisted a Clean, Moral Soldier

Some fathers and mothers have been heard to say within the past few months that while they would otherwise be proud to see their sons get into khaki and take a share in the Empire's great struggle, they were hesitant about finally agreeing to this step because they felt that their boy's moral character was not yet finally settled and they were afraid of the results if he were allowed to come under the sometimes not-too-helpful influences of the ordinary overseas unit. There's a place for just such boys in Col. E. W. Hagarty's 201st Battalion in Toronto. The 201st is being recruited largely from Y. M. C. A. men, clean, sturdy young fellows who are not only anxious to be straight and clean themselves but also to hold the other fellow. Some idea of this may be gained from the fact that every officer of the battalion, without exception, was known to be a total abstainer before he was even considered. These, by the way, include at least two senior officers who have seen overseas service and who have been invalided home are anxious to get into the big scrap again with a battalion embracing such clear-cut ideals. No parent need hesitate about sending his boy, provided he has reached the specified military age, to the 201st.

LETTER FROM PRIVATE J. D. SMITH

Describes the Journey from Toronto Until he Boarded the Transport at Halifax

Mr. C. Woodhall has kindly handed the FREE PRESS the following letter from Pte. J. D. Smith, who was for five or six years a resident of Acton, and who enlisted at Toronto last year:

Dear Friends: We had a good trip down from Toronto to Halifax. I had to do guard duty for a day on the train going down. We were fed fairly well. Had hot dogs for breakfast, bread and cheese for lunch, and a late dinner of stew, spuds with their jackets on, society style, and rice pudding.

We had a little kid on the train, a plucky little chap who used to sell papers around our quarters at the Exhibition Park in Toronto. How he got on nobody knows. He declared he was going over seas with us.

We got a good send off at Toronto, but in our short march through Moncton, N. B., we never raised a cheer. At Halifax we boarded the Olympic, one of the largest ships afloat. The meals are pretty good, but we have to clear up after our meal, and do quite a lot of other fatigue work on the boat. We have over 7,000 men on board.

I am writing this on the first of June and hope it reaches you alright.

Very Sincerely,
J. D. SMITH

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. At any drug store.

Scott & Bowne, Toronto, Ont.

PTE. BILL ALGER WRITES

After Engagement in Which he was Slightly Wounded

Mrs. Thos. Alger, Georgetown, received the following letter on Tuesday from her son, Pte. Bill Alger:

Dear Mother:

Just a few lines to let you know I am getting on fine. I am at a rest billet and will be for a week or so, then I'll be back with the battalion.

I guess you heard of us and the Pats and 49th going to it with bayonets. I came through with just a slight shrapnel wound in the leg. Am nearly as well as ever now. The shells dropped around us like rain and the Imperials who were there said it was like the battle of Ypres. The Germans came over in droves with full packs and blankets, as though they had come to stay. But we let them remain only long enough to get settled. Then we started forward and retook the bush. The sight was enough to unsettle any one. The dead were piled three deep in many places, mostly all Germans.

I remember a big Prussian Guard coming at me with his bayonet, then I knew nothing more until I woke up just as it was breaking day. I was lying on top of two dead men. I shook them but both were gone for good. I crawled into a shell hole until I could see where I was. I soon saw a trench and climbed into it. Two men halted me, then told me our battalion had just been relieved, so I beat it down the trench to the road where I got a transport lorry and got back to camp.

I am still worth twenty dead men, and will soon be back in the trenches.

I guess the 164th will soon be here now. Be sure and not let Vic join. If all goes well I'll be home before Christmas as I think Fritz is about all in.

The parcel with chocolates and chewing gum came all right. I get the FREE PRESS and Jack Canuck every week.

Love to all,
BILL.

A NOTE FROM TOM

Dear Mother:

I am staying at a convalescent camp at Boulonge, but am getting on all right. I got blown up in the air and was buried with a shell. There is nothing to worry about, as this is a splendid place and by the time you receive this I will be back with the battalion again.

I had a great surprise after getting buried. I suddenly saw a lot of Germans coming across the field and thought we must be in the German lines, but I soon saw a lot of our fellows prodding them behind. They were prisoners.

They all think the war will end soon and the Germans seem to be all in.

Write again soon.

With love to all,
TOM.

OBITUARY

MRS. H. R. CAMPBELL

The funeral of Mary Margaret Landsborough, beloved wife of H. R. Campbell, took place on Tuesday, July 4th, from her late residence, 202 Emerald Street North, Hamilton. The pall bearers were her three brothers, William of Acton, Thomas of Kerwood, Edwin of Galt, and three brothers-in-law, Frank Wickins of Galt, Fred Babcock of Milton, and W. R. Campbell of Hamilton. The large number of beautiful floral designs paid silent tribute to the high esteem in which she was held by a wide circle of friends. She is survived by her husband and one son, Ronald.

STUART BLAIR MORTON

The home of Mr. Thomas Morton is greatly saddened to-day through the death on Tuesday evening of Stuart, the bright thirteen-year-old son. Stuart was the victim of diabetes. Although he suffered a great deal he was able to be about until the day before his death. His parents did everything in their power to save the dear lad's life, and took him to Toronto to a specialist on Monday. Stuart was a boy of very fine qualities. He was very lovable, always respectful and a favorite everywhere. His teachers found him an exceptionally bright scholar. As a newsboy he was ever courteous and obliging and as an errand boy faithful, straightforward and honest. Stuart will be missed very much about town. The memory of his splendid young life will always be a comfort to his sorrowing parents, who will have the sympathy of all in their great bereavement. He was named for two fine men of this county, Rev. Dr. Blair and Dr. Stuart, now of Guelph. The funeral will take place this afternoon at three o'clock.

LETTER FROM CORP. GEO. HYNDS

Was in Heavy Engagement in France in Middle of June

Reeve Hynds received two letters this week from his son George, dated June 15th and 18th. The following items are of interest:

Glad to be able to let you know I am all right. I would have written sooner, but have not had time. I have just come through a hot engagement and am all right, except for a few bruises and scratches.

I suppose you have seen in the papers reports of the big fight we have been in. I don't know how I came through it without getting hit. We made the charge through deep mud, but we gave Fritz a dose he will remember for a long time.

I received parcels and socks and other good stuff all right. The box of cigars from Charlie Matthews came through all right.

Have just had a bath but it will take a week to get all the mud off.

Love to all,
HYNDS.

ANCIENT ANESTHETICS.

Nepenthe and Other Agents Were Used by Old Time Surgeons.

Those who imagine that surgical knowledge began with later generations and that the discovery of chloroform revolutionized the science should read an article published by Dr. J. de Fentos in the South African Journal of Science.

Various anesthetizing media and methods were well known both in antiquity and during the middle age. Homer mentions the anesthetic effects of nepenthe; Herodotus states that the Scythians obtained similar effects from the vapors of hemp produced by throwing hemp seed on hot stones. A Chinese physician of the third century, B. C., gave his patients a preparation of hemp to make them insensible during surgical operations.

The most important anesthetic of ancient and medieval times was, however, wine of mandragora, the use of which is mentioned by a great number of early writers and is referred to by Shakespeare. More recently, in the year 1700, the German surgeon, Weiss, better known as Abbinus, amputated the foot of Augustus III., king of Poland, while under the influence of mandragora.

Two other anesthetizing agencies were employed in very early times, arterial compression and hypnotism.

BIG LOAVES OF BREAD.

In France They Are Made From Four to Six Feet in Length.

The biggest loaves of bread baked to be eaten are those made in France and Italy. In the case of the pipa bread of the latter country the loaves are between two feet and three feet in length and occasionally even longer, while the French people make their loaves in the shape of very long rolls of bread, ranging from four feet to five feet and in a few instances even to six feet in length.

Bread in Paris is distributed almost exclusively by women. These go to the various bakehouses at 5:30 a. m. and spend about an hour in brushing the long loaves with special brushes. When their load is cleaned of grit and dust the portions de pain goes the round to the customers.

Customers who live in flats have their loaves propped up against the doors of their apartments. Shopkeepers, restaurateurs and other customers who have entrances to their premises in the street find their portions of the staff of life leaning against their front doors when they take down the shutters. The wages of these bread carriers vary from 2 shillings to 2s. 6d. a day, their work being generally over at 10 or 12 o'clock in the morning.—London Tit-Bits.

When Pigs were Cheap

IN your grandfather's day—ask him about it—you could buy a dressed hog for three dollars; a nice big pig. And a live pig would cost you no more.

Everything in those bygone days was cheap—that is, the things of common use.

Clothes, boots, milk, bread, beefsteak, eggs, butter, lumber, farm labor, domestic servants — they all cost a good deal less than they do to-day.

It cost less to live—and less to be born—and less to die fifty years ago.

And it cost much less to publish a country weekly fifty years ago than it does to-day—very much less.

Yet you paid—or your grandfather did—just a dollar a year—the same as you are paying to-day.

But the dollar rate must yield to the pressure of necessity. We must do now what we ought to have done years ago—raise the price of the FREE PRESS to $1.50. The tremendously increased cost of paper, ink, supplies, and the more-than-doubled cost of living have made us "furiously to think." And so the price of the FREE PRESS will be $1.50 a year, at a date this year to be announced.

Good Readers All

If you were in our place, and knew all we know about the higher costs of publishing, you would wonder how we didn't make the advance long ago. We trust you to meet the new rate with a smile. Not for 50 cents a year will you say "Stop my paper."

BUT IT IS OUR DUTY TO LET YOU KNOW NOW WHAT'S COMING
