"GOOD ROADS" MUST REALLY BE GOOD ROADS

There is good reason now to hope that henceforth county good roads will really be what they are designated. The Minister of Public Works frankly informed the convention of County Road Superintendents that if roads are not maintained government grants will not be forthcoming. Very emphatically he said: "When an inspector from the highways department hereafter goes out to look over the conditions of your roads in the country during the fall or any other time of the year and finds that you have neglected to keep up continuous maintenance, we are going to cut off your maintenance grant on any road found in such a condition. I have made up my mind," declared the Minister, "that if system of maintenance must be carried out in all the counties which expect to receive a grant from the government. From what I have seen of the roads in the States, and from reports of the highways in England and France, the macadam roads which carry the traffic are never forgotten for one minute. They keep right after them, and as soon as a rut or depression is noticed it is immediately repaired. We are going to inaugurate that system in the Province of Ontario, and with the assistance of the counties and your road superintendents we will await the results."—Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

POLITELY DISMISSED

"The correspondence of Cladius Clear" in the British Weekly, recently contained a good story concerning Lord Dufferin, showing his polite, and yet effective, way of dealing with impertinence. A very pushing English correspondent was refused an invitation to a reception at the embassy. However, he appeared. The ambassador went up to him and said with a bland smile, "May I inquire, sir, to what I owe this most unexpected honor?" The unhappy man stuttered something, and Lord Dufferin continued with an even blander smile. "Do not allow me, my dear sir, to detain you from your other doubtless numerous engagements." Then, calling Lord Frederick, he added, "Will you kindly accompany this gentleman to the front door, and see that on a cold night like this he gets all his warm clothing?"

QUALITY DOESN'T MAKE AS MUCH NOISE AS INFERIORITY—BUT WHEN THE DOLLARS BEGIN TO DANCE IT LEADS THE GRAND MARCH

YES quality counts. Quality Clothes help to make the quality man. There's no question about that any more. The man who invests in inferior men's wear is interfering with his chances in life. Come to Guelph and inspect our stock of stylish clothing and furnishings.

BETTER SIRES; BETTER LIVE STOCK

Campaign in Halton to Have Pure Bred Sires Crowd out all Scrub Males

"Good live stock is the foundation of all successful agriculture and the quickest way to get good livestock is by the use of pure bred sires of good conformation," says Prof. Wade Toole, of O. A. C., Guelph, speaking at a farmers' club meeting, which was held at Palermo on Wednesday evening of last week. Continuing he said, "Ability to carry weight and finish is a virtue not possessed by the average grade bull. Of the marketings of over 1,000,000 head of stock at Canadian Stockyards in 1919, only 20,000 head, or 2 per cent. were of weights and quality desirable in export beef.

One beef animal out of every twenty-six marketed at public stock yards during 1918 was a bull. One out of every thirty animals marketed was a grade bull.

Nothing is so convincing as actual results and the following case in itself proves conclusively that grade and scrub bulls are maintained at a distinct loss to the men who keep them.

The experience of a London township farmer, Middlesex County, with purebred and scrub bulls shows very clearly the place of the grade bull. Six years ago he had in his herd eight very even pure bred cows, that gave him eight bull calves from a pure bred sire. These were made steers and kept until two and one-half years old, finished on grass and when sold averaged $140 each. The next year the farmer was willing and unable to take his cow a distance to a pure bred bull, a neighbor offered him the use of his grade sire. The progeny from this mating from which five steers were kept, fed and marketed under the same conditions brought $114 each, although there had been a slight rise in price during the year.

This farmer stated that on the five steers he lost $130 in one year, and to the average farmer using a grade bull on ten females the loss would be $260 from a beef standpoint alone. This farmer claims that as soon as farmers keep an accurate profit and loss account the grade and scrub sire will disappear.

Mr. J. Coke, of the Department of Farm Management, O. A. C., also spoke. Using charts he gave accurate figures showing the difference in labor income of farmers where pure bred and grade sires had been used. In every instance quoted, the farmers using pure bred sires had a greater labor income.

In regard to the feeding of cattle he proved conclusively that good breeding had a much greater effect than high feeding.

In dairy districts it was shown that the cost of producing milk was less where the cows were high grades and producers of a large quantity of milk during the year.

In view of all the hard facts presented, we cannot understand any farmer retaining a grade bull at the head of his herd.

A number of farmers in this county are intending to get pure bred sires this spring.

R. R. Fleming, of the Department of Agriculture, Burlington, quoted figures showing that of all the cattle marketed from Halton County last year, only a very small per centage were classed as export cattle. However, he said, "Halton County is much superior to the average county throughout the Province, in regard to good live stock. We have until the 31st day of December, 1920, to clean up the county and we are going to do it."

Mr. Fleming, who is being assisted in this campaign by C. F. MacKenzie, B. S. A., Fieldman for the Ontario Cattle Breeders' Association, is very anxious to get in touch with men desiring to get pure bred sires and either he or Mr. MacKenzie will be very glad to meet these men and assist them in every possible way.
