Preserving the Dignities

An Oakville Councillor Objects to Smoking During Business Hours

The Milton Reformer says: "We notice in an Oakville exchange that at a recent meeting of the Town Council there, when they were discussing the question of licenses, Councillor Caven said that if it would prevent smoking in the Council Chamber he would favor a fee of $100. He said if he was going to sit at the Council board he wasn't going to be made sick.'

Councillor Caven is right. No one has a right to fill a room with tobacco smoke if by so doing he is annoying other occupants of the room, who do not like tobacco smoke. They don't do it in the Milton Town Council, we are glad to say.

There's nothing criminal about the habit, but it shows a might inconsiderate spirit on the part of those who indulge, that's all.

There is need of a Caven in the County Council, where members, during the sessions, do precisely the same thing as he protests against in the Oakville Town Council. So far as the County Council is concerned, the innovation of members smoking during the transaction of business was inaugurated some years ago by a representative of Burlington, and it has been kept up ever since, to the annoyance of some members and the people who have occasion to attend meetings of the Council."

A Day in Police Court

Magistrate Moore Held Sessions at Georgetown and Milton on Friday

At ten o'clock last Friday morning Police Magistrate H. P. Moore held a court at Georgetown for the trial of Robert Scott, who said he came from Toronto. The charge against Scott, who was an elderly man, was that at the town of Georgetown on the 14th inst., he did unlawfully and by false pretense obtain from Isaac Clark the sum of $200 with intent to defraud.

It seems that Scott, who, by the way, registered at the McGibbon House as "William Carter, Acton," presented a cheque to Isaac Clark, Georgetown, on the Bank of Hamilton, Toronto, on Tuesday. Clark cashed the cheque at Georgetown. When the cheque was sent to Toronto it was reported there was no funds. In the meantime Scott had gone to Kitchener. There he was arrested on Thursday and brought back to Georgetown and locked in the cells. Most of the money received for the cheque was found on him and this was restored to the bank.

When called before the Police Magistrate on Friday morning he pleaded guilty. The sentence given was nine months in the Ontario Reformatory.

The second sitting for the day was held at the Court House, Milton, at two o'clock. This was a charge of theft preferred by W. O. Brownridge, a tenant of Robert Stark, of lot 9, con. 4, Esquesing. Brownridge and Stark live in the same house, and certain disagreements had arisen. Brownridge charged Stark with appropriating certain farm tools and implements belonging to him. A search warrant was executed and a pair of clevices and a chain were found in a room in Stark's part of the house. Their value was about $1.50. Stark said he did not know the clevices were in the house. His wife swore she had taken them in thinking they belonged to her husband.

The Magistrate regarded the matter as a very trivial one and dismissed the case, with costs on the complainant.

—Palermo has been determined to have electric light for some time, and the Hydro not materializing, the progressive residents decided to secure light from Brome, and have already erected poles for the new system.

—Oshawa is inaugurating a tree-planting campaign as a memorial to soldiers killed in the war. Seventy Oshawa men fell and it is proposed that one tree shall be planted to the memory of each soldier, the tree to have a proper guard around it on which will be placed a plate bearing the dead soldier's name.
