OBITUARY

SAMUEL JOHNSTON

In the death at his home, 157 Wright Avenue, Toronto, on Tuesday, of Samuel Johnston, many of the older residents of this community feel that they are personally bereft of a long-time friend. Mr. Johnston had been confined to the house for several years. He was ministered to with loving solicitude and attention by his daughter, Mrs. R. E. Saul, and was visited almost daily by his three sons, Dr. Samuel Johnston and Messrs. William and John, all of whom were untiring in endeavoring to give their father comfort and pleasure. Several weeks ago Mr. Johnston took to his bed and gradually failed, until he peacefully passed away on Tuesday. Deceased was born at Huntley in Carleton county, on December 6, 1840. In early life he removed to Erin where he was a successful and influential farmer. Up on retiring from the farm he settled in Acton. Here he and Mrs. Johnston and their family spent many happy years. Twenty years or so ago they removed to Toronto. Mr. Johnston never lost his love for Acton, and was always delighted to meet Acton friends. About a year ago the writer spent a very pleasant hour with him, and his enquiries for old friends were numerous and interesting. Mrs. Johnston, who was a real mother in Israel, passed away about four years ago. She was greatly beloved not only by her family, but by all who knew her. Mr. John was a member of the Congregational Church, Churchill, for years, but after leaving the farm, usually attended the Methodist Church. He was very proud of his family and had great cause to be. His son Samuel, who attended school in Acton, is the senior anaesthetist to Toronto General Hospital, and is regarded as the leading physician in his specialty in Toronto. His two sons William and John C. are members of the wholesale clothing manufacturing firm of Randall & Johnston, Toronto, who do a dominion-wide business. In the death of Samuel Johnston Canada loses one of nature's noblemen. The funeral will be held this afternoon at two o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

A New Anaesthetic "Ethylene"

Dr. John Macdonald Closely Identified with It

Discussing the anaesthetic discovered six years ago by Dr. James Cotton, Spadina Avenue, which is known as ethylene, and which is now claimed by Chicago men, Dr. John H. Macdonald, 687 Pape Avenue, who confines his practice to surgery, told The Globe he had insisted upon the use of ethylene by anaesthetists for the past three years.

"I have had the anaesthetic used in my work for the past three years, and it is all that is claimed for it. In fact, nothing else will be used in my cases. I am now gathering data from patients upon whom the anaesthetic was used to substantiate the claims regarding its effectiveness and its properties," stated Dr. Macdonald.

Like other physicians and surgeons who have been interested in the Cotton process, Dr. Macdonald's interest in the discovery made by Dr. Cotton was renewed with the newspaper despatch from Chicago to The Globe a few days ago, that Chicago medical men, who commenced preliminary experiments in 1918, were able to announce the success of an anaesthetic named "ethylene."

Dr. Macdonald was in town on Thursday last visiting professionally one of his former patients, who retains his services since his practice in Acton. He also met other friends during his visit.

A Happy 65th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James Matthews Receive the Felicitations of Children and Friends

It was a notable and very happy anniversary which Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Matthews celebrated last Saturday, on the occasion of their sixty-fifth wedding day. Both were enjoying a large measure of health and vigor, and none enjoyed the event more fully than they.

They naturally are exulted because they are old, and still spared to each other in their old age. The world in general bows down to age, gives it precedence, and listens with deference to its opinions. Who can deny that such reverence is soothing to the human mind, and that it affords compensation for the loss of pleasures which are peculiar to you.

The respect of friends and neighbors is gratifying to the aged; but the respect of their own offspring yields heartfelt delight.

It was a matter of genuine pleasure that on this sixty-fifth wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Matthews were surrounded by children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Mrs. Maddock and her son, Fred, and her granddaughters, Gwendolyn and Doris, were there; their sons Charles and Chester, and the latter's son, James; and their grandson, C. A. G. Matthews, and Mrs. Matthews, and their son, "Billy," of Toronto, were present.

Could there be a more pleasing sight than such a venerable and revered old couple, surrounded by children and grand-children and great-grand-children, all of whom were emulous of each other in testifying their homage and affection.

During the day numbers of friends and citizens called to extend their felicitations and altogether the day was a memorable one to this esteemed couple who have been continuous residents of Acton through a period of three generations.

—"Plant trees or freeze" is the very catchy phrase that has been used of late to bring home to people the necessity of looking for a locally produced fuel to take the place of American anthracite.

—Kicked on the head by a horse, as he was driving home from school, sitting in front of the dashboard, because the cutter was crowded, Noah Snider, aged 15 years, died Friday in Kitchener Hospital.

—Send The Free Press to that distant friend of yours. It contains more news of the town and vicinity in one issue than you are likely to write in a year, and much that you would forget to write about at all.

—Woodman, spare that tree, used to be a well-known refrain. Nowadays to it we would add: Teamster, spare that lawn. It takes many years to make a good lawn, but a careless teamster can spoil it in five minutes.

—Some of the boys about town have become possessed of rubber catapults. These are dangerous playthings. The constables have been instructed to confiscate them wherever found, and lay charges against the boys who repeat the offence of having them.

—The cry of the boys peddling buns a decade or so ago: "Hot X buns, hot X buns, one a penny, two a penny, hot X buns," is out of date now. You can't get one for a penny, let alone two, now. "One a nickle, two a nickle," would be nearer present demands.

—All wool made-to-measure Men's Suits, neat patterns, any style. Satisfaction guaranteed. $27.50 up. George Wallace, Tailor.

On Friday Wm. Reid, clerk of the Hotel McGibbon, slipped and fell on a piece of ice. One of his legs was broken. The fracture was an exceedingly bad one and the bone protruded through the flesh about eight inches. Mr. Reid was taken to Guelph General Hospital.

On Friday night a debate was held at Mt. Nemo. The subject was "Resolved that Increased Immigration is a National Benefit." The affirmative was taken by Mr. Miller and Mr. Spencer, of Mt. Nemo, while the negative was taken by Joe Willmott and Amos Newell, of Milton. The judges, Rev. Cranston and Miss Bowman, of Nelson, and P. D. Shorey, of Milton, gave the decision to the Milton boys.—Champion.

The 71st anniversary of the Milton Methodist Church was celebrated on Sunday and Monday. The special preacher for Sunday's services was Dr. E. W. Fallis, D. D., of Toronto, Book Steward of the Methodist Church, who delivered two appropriate and eloquent sermons. Rev. W. M. Mackay withdrew the evening service in the Presbyterian Church, giving his congregation an opportunity to attend the anniversary, which drew exceptionally large congregations. On Monday evening an "At Home" was held and an address given by Dr. Fallis.
