THURSDAY, MAY 26, 1927

Brief Local News

—At Acton.

—On July 1, 2, 3.

—3 Days of Celebration.

—The trees are almost in full leaf.

—It's blossom time now in this district.

—Every day we're getting wetter and wetter.

—There ought to be a great hay crop this year.

—Most every day brought its showers last week.

—Every little doggie has a string all its own now.

—The twenty-fourth could hardly be called glorious this year.

—Get your decorations in shape for the Diamond Jubilee Celebration.

—Phone your news items to 174. We are always glad to receive them.

—Many there are who love the gospel of give and take—if it is all take.

—Looks as if Government Control was going to be as flat as 4.4 turned out to be.

—Well, we got that warm weather we have been wanting, on Sunday, all right.

—In spite of the failure of G. C. to function this month, May has been very wet.

—Students know that examination time is a trying time in more ways than one.

—Acton's three-day celebration will made an admirable meeting time for former Actonians.

—You can buy a liquor permit now, but just when you can use it is still doubtful.

—May made a new record for high temperature when 80 degrees in the shade was registered on Sunday.

—Hillsburg and Acton played a ball game in the Park on Saturday afternoon. Acton won by a score of 8-7.

—There seems to be no rush for permits to buy liquor. Maybe the customers are waiting for reduced prices.

—Our mailing lists are always changed weekly. If your label shows any month prior to May 27 you're in arrears.

—Acton seems to be the only town in this vicinity that will have three days of celebration at Diamond Jubilee time.

—Isn't it a fine feeling when you can look the label on your Free Press in the face and say you are in good standing.

—The tanneries were closed on Monday and Tuesday this week to enable the employees to enjoy the week-end holiday.

—Wonder if a revival of that song, "It Ain't Goin' to Rain No Mo," would have the desired effect of procuring a dry spell.

—A nice, quiet way of celebrating the anniversary of Confederation is to plant a tree. It is less noisy, but it means more than does setting off firecrackers.

—Owing to the holiday on Tuesday there was no regular session of the Council until Wednesday evening and the report will be published in next week's issue.

—Mr. Eli Mastess, driver of Watson's bread delivery wagon, had the misfortune to fall on the verandah at Mr. S. J. Reid's residence on Young Street, on Wednesday, and break a bone in his shoulder.

—The dog by-law has been significantly effective. Not many dogs have been seen on the streets, unless it was on a leash. Officer McPherson disposed of two ownerless animals in the Park with his revolver.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Application having been made for clemency in the case of William Laing, of Milton, who was sent to the Ontario Reformatory for one year for stealing a widow's chickens, a pair at a time, on half a dozen visits, Police Magistrate Moore has received intimation from the Department of the Secretary of State, at Ottawa, that "His Excellency the Governor-General has had this man's case under review, and will not interfere with the sentence imposed by Magistrate Moore."

The case of a Guelph sportsman, who was detected fishing on an Erin stream on Sunday, and in retaining trout under the legal size of seven inches in length, by Game and Fisheries Overseer O. H. Robinson, of Erin, came up for hearing before Police Magistrate Moore on Saturday morning. The defendant pleaded guilty. He was fined $10.00 and costs, or ten days in jail, a total of $30.85. He admitted having eleven trout under-sized. His equipment was also confiscated by the overseer.

Twelve cases of violation of the Highway Traffic Act were disposed of by Police Magistrate Moore at Saturday morning's sitting of the court.

Entered Into Rest

ADAM COOK

Another one of Acton's old residents passed away on Saturday at his home on Main Street, in the person of Adam Cook, in his eightieth year. A son of the late George Cook, he was born on the old homestead on the sixth line and has lived in Acton and vicinity all his life. Of a family of nine children his sister, Mrs. Fyfe Somerville, is now the only surviving member. Fifty years ago this coming August he married Maria Mullin, who predeceased him two years ago. Five children were born, Wilfred, who died in infancy; Oliver and Rae, who passed away after reaching manhood, and Mabel, whose tragic death occurred in Erie, Pa., a year or so ago. Miss Myrtle is the only surviving member of the family and she has been a great comfort and help to her father in caring for him during those late declining years. He was a member of Knox Presbyterian Church and the funeral on Monday afternoon was conducted by his pastor Rev. A. C. Stewart, assisted by Pastor Baxter of the Baptist Church. Interment was made in the family plot in Fairview among so many of the dear ones who have gone on before him.

JOHN P. DUNN

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn, Main Street, was saddened by the death of their son, Johnnie, who was taken by the grim reaper stricken last Wednesday when their son, Johnnie, was taken by the grim reaper. He had been in ill health for some time and the last few weeks his condition was so critical that in spite of all that loving care and tender nursing could do his spirit took its flight on Wednesday evening. John P. Dunn was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn and was twenty years of age. He was a bright, quiet young chap, liked by his companions, and a great companion and comfort in the home of his father and mother. Two brothers, James, of New Liskeard, and Lawrence, of Acton, and three sisters, Mrs. Chas. Gibbons, of Saskatchowan, and Misses Annie and Irene, at home, are left to mourn the loss of this young life. The funeral was held on Saturday morning, with Mass in St. Joseph's Church at 9.30 o'clock, and was largely attended by citizens and friends. Rev. J. J. Holland, cousin of the deceased, of Ste. Anne's Parish, Hamilton, sang the Requiem Mass and preached the funeral sermon. Father McEnavy, assisted by Father Holland, officiated at the grave. Interment was made at Dublin Cemetery. The pall bearers were: Joe Brown, Omar Sole, Neil Gibbons, John Gibbons, Lawrence Gibbons and Edward Synnott. The mainly floral Cards and floral offerings showed the sympathy and respect of the community. Friends and relatives attended the funeral from Guelph, Toronto, Hamilton and New Liskeard.

MRS. W. A. STEWART

Death came very suddenly to Mrs. W. A. Stewart, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Ruddick, lot 24, concession 1, Esquesing, on Sunday morning. Mrs. Stewart had been in poor health for some time and in order to relieve her of the cares of housekeeping and aid her recovery to normal health she had disposed of her home on Brock Avenue, and a week ago disposed her household effects by sale. She had been about during the week, attending to her business affairs and the last few days was seemingly improved in health. However, on Friday she was taken suddenly ill and passed away on Sunday morning. The late Mrs. Stewart was a daughter of Mr. John Walters, who now resides in Georgetown, her maiden name being Margaret Walters. She was born on the old Walters homestead, near Acton, which in later years has been known as the Bilton farm. About forty years ago she married William Albert Stewart, who predeceased her sixteen years ago. The couple settled on the farm now occupied by Mr. John F. Robertson, on the second line. Five children came to bless the home: John, now of Rochester, N. Y.; Elmer, at Auburn, Alta.; Edgar, at Rochester; Mrs. John Ruddick, of Esquesing Township, and Robert, with the Bell Telephone Co., now at Niagara Falls. She was a member of the United Church, and a worker in its many activities. She was an active woman and since coming to Acton from the busy farm life has tried to assume duties in activities calculated for Acton's best interests. She was also enthusiastic in Women's Institute affairs, and was untiring in her efforts in those activities. The funeral will be held from the home of her daughter on Friday afternoon at two o'clock. Interment will be made at Fairview Cemetery.

MRS. WM. MASON

Mrs. William Mason passed away at her home on John Street on Thursday morning, after an illness of short duration. Although in declining health for the past year or so, it was only the last four weeks that she was taken seriously ill and gradually sank until she was called home on Thursday morning. Isabelle Switzer was the daughter of the late James Switzer and was born at Lisgar seventy-seven years ago. Of a family of thirteen the only surviving member now is Mr. Frank Switzer, of Brampton, who attended the funeral of his sister on Saturday. Fifty-four years ago on April 27, at Georgetown, she was joined in the bonds of holy matrimony to William Mason. The young couple first took up house at Ballinafad and later removed to Acton, where they have resided ever since. Eight children comprised the family, all of whom, with the exception of Frank, who died when a boy of ten or eleven years, survive: Mr. Bert Mason, of Kingston; Mr. Charles Mason, of Kitchener; Reeve Mason, of Acton; Mrs. Joseph Agnew, Mrs. Frank McIntosh, of Acton, and Misses Hazel and Lottie, at home. A brief private funeral service was held at the home on Saturday afternoon, and a service at three o'clock in the United Church, at which friends gathered in large numbers to pay their respects. Rev. Mr. Zimmerman, her pastor, spoke in feeling terms of her life and influence. He was assisted by Rev. A. C. Stewart, and Pastor Baxter. The late Mrs. Mason was a woman of quiet disposition. Her home and her family were her constant concern and it is among these her motherly attention and forethought will be most missed, although her cheery smile and friendly word will be missed in all sections of the community. She was a member of the United Church, and valued highly her connection, and was most regular in attendance at its services. Friends from Richmond Hill, Bearfoth, Detroit, Chicago, Kingston, Kitchener, Streetsville, Lisgar, Meadowvale, Brampton, Toronto and Guelph attended the funeral. Miss Bertie Smith, of Toronto, a friend of the family, by request sang a beautiful solo at the service. The pall bearers were Messrs. R. J. Kerr, M. McLean, John Kenney, C. H. Harrison, Jas. McIntosh, F. Kennedy and H. P. Moore, honorary bearer. Messrs. H. Spelvogel, C. Kirkness, Mac Hymon, L. Waddell and Roy Johnston assisted with the floral offerings. There were many beautiful floral tributes, which were sent by a wide circle of friends, including: The Shipping Department of the Storey Glove Co.; Mr. and Mrs. Ray McIntosh, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Switzer, Brampton; The Family; Acton Citizens' Band; United Church Young People's League; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Yates, Toronto; the Officers and Teachers of the United Church Sunday School; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnstone; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Holmes; the employees of the Mason Knitting Co.; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Harrison; Mrs. A. K. Ostrander; Acton I. O. O. F.; the Public Utilities Commission; L. O. L. No. 467, Acton; Walker Lodge, A. F. & A. M.; Miss Margaret Brown, Toronto; the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Agnew; Mr. and Mrs. P. Kennedy and Miss Lorna; Mr. and Mrs. Reade Davis, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Holmes; the Municipal Council; the United Church Choir and Orchestra; Miss Bertie Smith, Toronto; Kitchener Ladies' Band; Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Zeigler, Kitchener; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Algie, Brampton; Mr. Leslie Waddell, Detroit; Mrs. Geo. Youngman, Detroit.

Acton and District

They All Went to Church.

The Fire Brigade made an impressive showing in the divine service parade on Sunday morning in St. John's United Church, at Oakville. The Oakville Band, under the leadership of W. Williams, headed the procession, which included the town Council and the members of the Board of Education and many citizens. The sermon was preached by Rev. J. H. McIlain.

In Accident with Motor Trucks

After colliding with a truck owned by the C. A. Ward Company, of Toronto, on the highway near Port Credit on May 24, Leo Hill, of 66 Robbins Avenue, Toronto, evidently lost control of his car, and it crashed into a second truck, which had been following behind the first. F. Connors and C. Connors, both of 24 Hemlock Avenue, Toronto, were passengers in Hill's car and received injuries about the head. They were treated by Dr. Chisholm, of Oakville, and later returned to their homes. Hill was placed under arrest by Constable Hunter, of Clarkson, on a charge of reckless driving and was later admitted to bail by Magistrate Davidson.

Boy Injured in Fall from Bridge

Robert Brush, 12-year-old son of Robert Brush, Jr., of Milton, met with a serious accident on Tuesday afternoon. With some companions he was playing on the C. N. R. bridge north of the station, at Milton, when he fell off, struck the stone abutment, and rolled down the embankment into the Sixteen-Mile Creek, from which he was rescued. The boy was carried home, where it was discovered that although no bones were broken, he had sustained internal injuries.

Little Lad Severely Burned

Robert Snider, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lance Snider, of London, formerly of Acton, whose presence of mind in running for the assistance of his father, downstairs, when his clothing had caught fire as he lay in bed in an upstair room, saved him from death by fire, was reported as resting comfortably in Victoria Hospital on Saturday, with chances for his recovery bright. The lad suffers from severe burns along the right side of his body. The accident occurred in the Snider home about nine o'clock on Friday evening. The clothing of the bed in which he lay caught fire when it was ignited by a box of matches with which he was playing, according to reports of the mishap. The youngster, his nightdress aflame, ran downstairs and his father extinguished the blaze which threatened to envelop him. The fire in the bedroom upstairs was also subdued by the father, who summoned Dr. V. A. Callaghan. The child was later removed to Victoria Hospital, where his burns were treated.

CONFEDERATION AND AFTER—SIXTY YEARS OF PROGRESS

The Fathers of Confederation

The Fathers of Confederation bear somewhat the same relation to Canadian history as the Signers of the Declaration of Independence do to the history of the United States. Like the latter, they are all venerated collectively, but individually certain names stand out above the rest—the master minds that made the great movement a reality. Just as Washington, Jefferson, Adams, Madison, and two or three others were the guiding spirits in drafting the terms of the Declaration of Independence and putting it through the Continental Congress, so Macdonald, Cartier, Tupper, Galt, Brown and McGee were the real leaders in the movement that resulted in the merging of the weak and scattered colonies of British North America in the Dominion of Canada. At the same time, while honoring the memory of these outstanding Canadians it would be unjust to forget the very real services of the other seventeen men who with them made up the Fathers of Confederation, or who in other words represented the legislatures and people of their respective colonies at the Quebec Conference in 1864.

At that Conference, Canada (which then embraced what we know to-day as Ontario and Quebec) was represented by Sir Etienne P. Tache, John A. Macdonald, Georges E. Cartier, William McDougall, George Brown, Alexander T. Galt, Alexander Campbell, Oliver Mowat, Hector L. Langevin, James Cockburn, Thomas D'Arcy McGee, and J. C. Chapais; Nova Scotia, by Charles Tupper, W. A. Henry, R. B. Dickey, Jonathan McCully, A. C. Archibald; New Brunswick by S. L. Tilley, John M. Johnson, Peter Mitchell, Charles Fisher, Edward Chandler, W. H. Steeves, John H. Gray; Prince Edward Island, by John H. Gray, Edward Palmer, W. H. Pope, George Coles, T. H. Haviland, Edward Whelan, A. A. McDonald; and Newfoundland, by F. B. T. Carter and John Ambrose Shea.

Nearly all of these men had taken part in the Charlottetown Conference that paved the way for the momentous meeting at Quebec; most of them were instrumental in steering the Quebec Resolutions through their respective legislatures; and, with the exception of the Newfoundland delegates, practically the same group met again at Westminster in 1866 to prepare the final draft of the British North America Act—the Constitution of Canada.

Newfoundland, after some hesitation, finally decided not to join the new Confederation. In 1895 delegates were sent to Ottawa by the Ancient Colony to discuss terms of union, but unfortunately the negotiations fell through, and have never since been resumed. Prince Edward Island took several years to deliberate, but finally came into the Dominion in 1873. In the meantime the Red River Colony had joined the Union as the Province of Manitoba; and the following year British Columbia also became a member. Saskatchewan and Alberta became provinces in 1905.

As each of the thirty-three Fathers of Confederation had been political leaders before the creation of the Dominion, so after Confederation each of them took an active part in the public life of the country, some as members of the federal cabinet, the Senate, or the House of Commons; others as members of the various provincial governments or legislatures; others again as lieutenants-governor of provinces, or members of the judiciary. By a curious coincidence two unrelated John Hamilton Grays sat in the Quebec Conference. One had been premier of Prince Edward Island, and the other became a judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia.

ROCKWOOD

Last Sunday, Hydro linemen were busy changing the high power wires on to other poles on Jolliffe's hill, prior to alterations being made in widening the road, also the wire fencing in front of Edgar Harris' and Wilbert Guild's premises moved back to allow for cutting down the bank. One fine maple tree had to be sacrificed to make way for the road allowance. Thus it is that time brings its changes as the years go by, and old ways must give way to the new. Also, at Mrs. Annie Harris' place, further down the hill, improvements are being made to a great extent on the site of the late Robert Pasmore's Store, which was taken down recently, and a good-sized evergreen tree cut down adjoining Wm. Burns' place.

Some of the week-end and holiday visitors who were here: Ross Patterson, of Montreal, who is now with his brother, Alden; Miss Jean Torrance, of Hincon; also John Gray and others of Kincardine passed through the village Sunday noon going east.

Mrs. Isabel Hewat went to Minico to spend the holiday with her son Rutherford.

Mrs. Robt. H. Henderson is visiting at Lucknow for a few days.

Mr. Richard Hewat and wife, Johnston were away for the week-end and holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, of Toronto, spent Sunday at Mrs. A. J. McAlear's.

Elwyn Locker, of Toronto, was up for the week-end and holiday.

CONFEDERATION AND AFTER—SIXTY YEARS OF PROGRESS

Canada and Her Big Neighbor

It is not necessary to remind ourselves of the Hundred Years of Peace to realize that the relations between Canada and the United States have been on the whole remarkably friendly and even cordial since Confederation, and probably they have never been more so than they are to-day. Many things have contributed to that fortunate situation—one not so common between neighboring nations as not to excite surprise. Canadians and Americans should, of course, be able to get along well with one another. They speak the same language, have what is practically a common literature, obey (or otherwise) much the same laws, and have much the same democratic point of view toward social and political problems. They move backward and forward across the international boundary freely enough to know each other, and find life on the other side very similar to life at home. Also, probably chiefly due to the kind of government is a degree or two better than that of his neighbor, but that is perfectly natural and inevitable, and does not make for bad feeling. And, to crown other reasons, many of us on each side of the line have friends and relations on the other.

Looking back across sixty years one finds the two countries engaged in many controversies over questions in which they were mutually interested—some of which, had they arisen in Europe, would almost certainly have led to war. Here they resulted in nothing more serious than such temporary irritation as the supporters of one hockey team feel for its successful rival. A case in point was the Alaska Boundary question, and in that case Canadian indignation was directed not so much towards the United States as towards the British representative who by voting with them decided the case against Canada. No one who knew the character of the man believed for a moment that he had acted in bad faith.

The question of reciprocity has been a fruitful source of negotiation between the two nations. The old Reciprocity Treaty of 1855 had been of great value to Canada, but for one reason or another it did not suit the United States, and in 1866 it was abrogated at their instance. For many years after that Canadian statesmen made proposals for a renewal of the treaty in various forms. Sir John Macdonald, George Brown, Tuper and Cartwright at various times made proposals to the Americans, but without result. The United States preferred to build a high tariff wall around the country and keep within it. Then when they were inclined to let down the barrier, public sentiment had changed in Canada. Whether the two countries will ever reach common ground in trade reciprocity remains to be seen.

The inland and sea fisheries, the Bering Sea seal question, the privilege of taking goods through one country or the other in bond, the question of copyright on books, the matter of extradition, and innumerable other problems affecting the relation of Canada and the United States have come up from time to time, and have been disposed of without any serious difficulty.

Various commissions have been set up to deal with particular or general questions in which the two countries were interested. One of these was the International Joint High Commission of 1898, which met at Quebec and later at Washington. It discussed a number of questions but did not come to any definite agreement on any of them. Another was the International Waterways Commission, appointed in 1903, which investigated and reported upon a large number of matters, and made certain recommendations which among other things led to the creation of the International Joint Commission, a permanent body which has been in existence since 1911 and has been of very great value to both countries. Still another is the International Boundary Commission, created in 1892, which has had the important duty of surveying and marking the international boundary between the Yukon and Alaska and between other parts of Canada and the United States. Finally the Diamond Jubilee has been fittingly marked by the appointment of a Canadian Minister at Washington and an American Minister at Ottawa.

AN IMPERIAL CHICKEN-FANCIER

It may be interesting to owners of chicken farms to know that a genuine enthusiast in the pastime of poultry-raising lived and flourished as far back as the year 410 A. D., when Alaric the Goth was busying himself about the sack of Rome. The Rev. Dr. George Hodges' "Saints and Heroes" is the authority for the story.

Only the Roman Emperor seemed unmoved by this tremendous calamity. He was in a safe retreat at Ravenna when the news came. It is remembered of Honorius that there were only two matters in which he was ever known to show interest. One was the safety of his own imperial person, the other was the raising of hens, in which he was very successful. His favorite hen was named Rome.

"Your majesty, Rome has perished!" they came crying.

"Why," he said, "only an hour ago she was feeding out of my hand."

And when they told him that it was the capital of the world which had been destroyed, he was much relieved.
