Three Killed; Three Injured on Saturday

Three dead and three seriously injured was the toll of a level-crossing accident at Crombie's Crossing, four miles south of Shelbourne on the C. P. R. on Saturday. The party, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Graham, their son, William, their daughters, Mrs. Thomas Burnside and Mrs. Geo. Beatty, and the latter's nine-year-old daughter, Irene, had left their homes at Campania, near Grand Valley, and were on their way to Orangeville. As they approached the crossing they expected the morning passenger train was about due to pass, and failed to notice the Owen Sound way freight coming from the opposite direction.

Acton and District

Cattle Killed in Last Week's Storm

When a tree under which they were standing in the middle of a field was struck by lightning, six cows and two young cattle were instantly killed during the heavy storm last week. The cattle, the property of Edgar Ellington, of Moffat, were standing beneath the spreading branches when the bolt struck, running down the trunk and instantly killing the beasts.

Shattered Lighting Fixture

Last Thursday morning a Chevrolet car was proceeding along Mill Street when a bolt of the steering wheel became loose and the car ran against the electric pole at the corner of Mill and Frederick Streets. The electric light fixture was broken and the trolley former loosened from its hangings. The pole was so badly shattered that it had to be replaced. Fortunately no one was injured beyond being badly shaken up.

Wellington County New Humane Inspector

After seventeen years' service as Humane Society inspector of Wellington County, Rev. Amos Tovel is relinquishing his duties to J. C. Fraser, who has been appointed to the office. The change is being made as a result of the decision reached by the Guelph society to carry on its work separate from the Children's Aid organization. Mr. Tovell will continue in the capacity of superintendent of the Children's Aid Society.

Guelph Will Soon be Supplied

Announcement was made of the appointment of Alfred Watson as liquor vendor for Guelph at a salary of $2,400 per annum. R. S. Cull, former men's clothing merchant, has been named as his assistant, and Howard Sloan, for many years prominent in insurance circles, as cashier. Work on alterations to the Willoughby Building, Carden Street, where the liquor shop is to be located, is well under way, and it is expected the Guelph depot will soon be opened.

Trafalgar Citizen Injured

R. E. Hall, a prominent citizen of Trafalgar, a member of one of the oldest township families, suffered a serious accident when he fell down the stairs in his home. His condition remains very critical. The occurrence caused great regret to a large connection gathered at a family re-union at the old Hall homestead, which had been established over 100 years ago. Descendants were present from Toronto, London, Kitchener, Brampton, Orangeville, Guelph and other points.

To be Presented at Acton Council Chamber, England

The Acton Gazette of June 3, just received from England, says: "The presentation of a silk Canadian flag from Acton, Canada, to Sir Harry Brittain, will take place in Acton Council Chamber at 6.45 p. m., next Wednesday. The presentation will be made by Rev. T. Albert Moore, D. D., of Toronto, who is visiting Europe as a representative of the United Church of Canada, to attend Wesleyan Conference at Leicester, Dublin and Londonne. Dr. Moore is a brother of H. P. Moore, J. P., Police Magistrate of Acton, Ontario, and former editor of The Free Press of that town. The flag is in return for Sir Harry's recent gift of an heraldic shield to the Canadian Acton."

Home-Coming was Disastrous

Melville Williams, a negro, who made a successful bolt for liberty from the Hamilton police a few days ago, when Charles Morgan, his alleged accomplice in a burglary, was arrested made a mistake when he headed in the direction of Guelph. He went to the city in his flight and visited his old home, the Ontario Reformatory, where his former cellmates were playing Rockwood in a baseball game. He sat in the bleachers, and rooted heartily for the home team. As he was leaving the eagle eye of Sergeant Maguire spotted him, but not in time to catch him before he got away. The sergeant phoned the city police, and then collaborated with them in a city-wide search. In his own car he scoured the south end of the city. He spotted the fugitive on Gordon Street and picked him up. Williams was taken in charge by a Hamilton detective.

Annual Report of Acton Women's Institute

In the annual report of the Acton Women's Institute many items of interest of their activities were brought out. Money was raised by a strawberry festival, a booth at Acton Fall Fair, making an autograph quilt, having a dental clinic and by collections at meetings and donations. Money was disbursed by giving the Band a donation, also helping with the rest room, and helping give cheer to the sick. A booth was built in the Park, complete with cupboards, tables and painted, which makes a very nice addition to our much improved Park. A donation to the school was formerly given to help with equipment for sports and music, had to be curtailed this year, the use of the booth at their Field Day was allowed the school in lieu of not giving the usual grant. A real year of progress was reported in all fields.

THE PERIL OF BAD COMPANY

Jim is not a sheep-killing dog. In fact so scrupulous is he, owing no doubt to his training and to his coming from a long line of sheep-herding ancestors, that he will not eat mutton even though his master offers it to him. Yet for several days Jim has been limping on a bandaged foot—shot at as a sheep killer.

It was a stray half-breed hound that started the trouble. Jim was under a tree asleep on the lawn when the stranger appeared. A few minutes later the two were crossing the meadow together; then they were in the woods, barking. Before long they had treed an opossum. Jim was enjoying himself; you could tell that from the way he barked.

Later a neighbor saw the two dogs in a stretch of woodland two miles from home; three other dogs had joined them. Before long two more joined the band, which was led by the irresponsible hound.

Five miles from home the leader led his pack into an open field where sheep were grazing. Straight for the innocent creatures he rushed. Jim stopped, and the other dogs swept by him. It was wrong for him to kill sheep. It was wrong for any dog to kill sheep!

In a flash the strange dog had a lamb down. Then Jim ran straight at the cur and, springing, seized him by the throat. At that instant a rifle cracked near by, and the mongrel went limp in the sheep dog's jaws. The rest of the pack scattered, and Jim started for the woods. He had almost reached cover when the rifle cracked again, and he limched sidewise. Fortunately, the undergrowth was thick, and he managed to escape.

It was a dejected and humiliated dog that returned home late the same day. But it was not the pain in Jim's foot that caused his head and his tail to droop—no, it was the way in which he had received the injury: shot at as a sheep killer! There is no doubt that the faithful dog had learned his lesson: to "shun evil companions."

A NOTABLE EXCEPTION

The thing that most impressed Margaret on her first visit to the Old World was the tombs of noted people who had met a violent end. Kings, queens, princes, princesses, lords, ladies, soldiers and priests—all, it seemed to her, had been poisoned, stabbed, beheaded, drowned, or burned at the stake. In Paris most of the celebrated dead had been beheaded, and after a few days in that city the little girl began to be really depressed by the list of horrors which she deciphered from various tombs and monuments. One day, says the New York Tribune, she was taken to Napoleon's tomb, and soon became plunged in deep thought.

"Was he a nice man, papa?" she asked, at length.

"Yes—that is—well—on the whole, he wasn't so very bad."

"And he did lots, didn't he?"

"Of course—he led armies—and was made Consul of France and finally Emperor, but Waterloo finished him, and then—"

"Did he die?"

"Afterwards—but first they sent him to St. Helena."

"What I meant was, did he die plain, papa? Oh, just tell me that he died plain!" and Margaret clasped her "Perfectly 'plain,' I'm happy to say."

"Oh!" said Margaret, unclasping her hands and drawing a deep breath of satisfaction.

The Quick, Easy Way To Make Better Jams and Jellies

—By Elizabeth Palmer—

If you want your jams and jellies this year to give you a real thrill of pride, make them by the new short-boil method with Certo.

You've no idea how easy it is and what an improvement it makes in color and flavor. "My strawberry jam tastes enough like fresh berries to use in strawberry shortcake," says one delighted woman who uses Certo.

Certo is a pure fruit product—the jellying substance of fruit refined and bottled. When you use Certo you do not have to "boil your fruit down." One or two minutes' boiling is all it needs. It cannot fail to jell.

This short boiling time with Certo preserves the natural flavor and color of your fresh fruit, and gives you more jam or jelly, because you save the juice which used to boil away.

The Logical Choice of the Two-Car Family

THERE are many reasons for the choice of a Chevrolet in the two-car home—its dependability in all weathers and under all conditions—its quick response, ease in handling, and its irresistible beauty appealing to the finer tastes. The many improvements first introduced in low-priced cars by Chevrolet and the striking beauty of design and color make it a car worthy of service to those who also own the costliest of cars. More and more the owners of big cars are now turning to Chevrolet for a second car.

The Most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet History with its Fisher-built Body—its Duco color—its loads of mechanical refinements including oil filter, air cleaner and many others—it selling at new, low prices, the lowest for which Chevrolet has ever been sold in Canada.
