INAUGURAL SERMON OF REV. CLARENCE L. POOLE

Made a Fine Impression Upon His New Congregation on Sunday

With a most happy manner, an appealing smile, an innate sense of dignity and devotion and an incisive, though clearly-flowing method of address Rev. C. L. Poole, B. D., the new minister of the United Church, made a thoroughly favorable impression in his first services on Sunday morning. Mr. Poole had already come in from Grimsby on Saturday and enjoyed the celebration proceedings of the afternoon and evening, as well as meeting a number of his parishioners, so that it was not an altogether strange congregation he faced in the service.

His appreciation of the friendly spirit in Acton was expressed in his introductory words when he spoke of the pleasure he had experienced in noting the strong community spirit of the town. Appreciation was also voiced as to the newly-decorated church.

REV. C. L. POOLE, B. D.
The New Minister of the United Church, Actin

Coming more directly to the folk of the church, he urged that the members of the congregation would feel like calling at the Parsonage and ask him for anything he could do in the way of helpfulness.

In Mr. Poole's first sermon may be taken as an index the United Church folk are not likely to be wearied with long discourses. Getting into his theme directly he followed a clearly-analyzed line of thought and was through inside a twenty-five minute period, though, it may be said, he left a materially deeper impression than has been imparted in many an hour's discourse.

In speaking of the adherence of Jesus to the constant and true things of life, he noted that there was little of the abiding in our lives and suggested that we recognized progress more particularly by the things we pass. From the ordinary point of view, he suggested, Jesus' life was a failure, since He evidenced very little of the spirit of adventure, of interest in invention, or in literary or cultural achievement, such as is ordinarily presumed to be the important part of life's achievement. He improved the fact, however, that Jesus did preserve more clearly and consistently than other man an adherence to the great principles which ultimately count in life. Rather an unusual thought was suggested in the idea that we see the development of gardens, of cities, of great industrial works because man has come to understand the idea of God, and of His power. If this is so, how much more must it be true in regard to conditions of the spiritual world? Jesus understood this, suggested the preacher, and so He uplifted humanity, as if it were some thing to remain, to be concerned about.

An interesting picture was drawn in the idea that the remains of the castles of the mediaeval period and the forts of the period of the feudal system, show us that we have passed from an older age. This is evident frequently in the realm of history. The same is true of the church where our conceptions of God and of man's duty in serving him have materially changed—not in the fundamentals, but in the incidentals. The workman passes, was suggested, but the work remains. If the designers and architects of the great cathedrals have passed on but have left a contribution, a part of their work for the benefit of humanity, of the future. In the same way the great literary lights have gone on but have left something of value for us in their work. Thus our homes, our schools, our churches, our social institutions are from the same conception, simply scaffolding surrounding the real building of lives, to which they make their contribution.

In closing, Rev. Mr. Poole noted simply but effectively that he was coming to Acton in the hope of helping to what extent opportunity was offered him in building strong character and the real things that abide.

The choir very appropriately rendered Kipling's "Recessional," with tenor obligato by Mr. Grierson, of Guelph, and Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory," marking the patriotic nature of the day.

Rev. Mr. Poole returned to Grimsby for a day or so, but will be in the Parsonage with Mrs. Poole and their son, George, early in the week. An induction service will be held this (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock, when Rev. H. A. Graham, of Guelph, and other ministers of the Presbytery, will take part.

CELEBRATION NOTES

Lindbergh came after all—but he didn't stop.

The street lighting certainly gave a fine appearance and added much to the decoration scheme.

Acton citizens were loyal to their town again and patronized the home-town attractions.

There wasn't anyone busier than Reeve Mason. His multitude of capabilities seemed to make him essential at all places at all times.

The horses came back to their own in the parade. There seemed to be as many horses as cars.

Acton was indeed fortunate with the weather during the whole three days—not a drop of rain.

The Halton Regiment showed their loyalty to the County by taking part in the various celebrations in various places within its borders.

Canada's Diamond Jubilee Was Fittingly Observed Here

The Proceedings of the Entire Three Days Were Most Enjoyable And Were Largely Attended

Friday Morning

Memorable indeed will be the proceedings which inaugurated the three days' events in connection with the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of the Confederation of the Dominion of Canada.

The first auspicious event of the series was consummated at Acton Park, commencing at ten o'clock on the morning of Friday, July 1. Acton Citizens' Band, under the leadership of Reeve Mason, paraded to the grand stand in the Park, followed by a goodly concourse of citizens.

After the National Anthem, and explaining that the object of the three days' celebration was intended to bring home to all—and the people of Acton as an unit of Canada—the significance of the sixtieth anniversary of the confederation of the Canadian provinces, Reeve Mason requested Councillor Holmes, as the oldest member of the Municipal Council of Acton, to take charge.

Mr. Holmes said that as the opening proceedings of the Diamond Jubilee were being held in the Park it seemed fitting that the re-opening of this fine utility of the town should form a part of the programme and called upon ex-Councillor Parker and Mr. R. J. Kerr, two of the most active members of the Park Improvement Committee, to address the audience. Both of these gentlemen made capital speeches, spoke of the fine spirit of co-operation which had been manifested, and recommended a continuance of this fine quality of the community, not only for the accomplishment of further improvements of the Park, but for the upbuilding of the town as a whole. Mr. Parker spoke of the significance of the Diamond Jubilee Celebration, and the great heritage the people of Canada have for which to be thankful. Mr. Kerr called attention to the attractive new entrance to the Park, the oldest and grandstand, and the artistic granite pillars which were constructed by our townsman, Mr. Walter Lamb, and which are equal in beauty of appearance to those found in similar position anywhere in Canada. He also spoke of the importance of the great Dominion-wide celebration in which they were engaged.

At this point the Junior Daughters of the Empire took a unique part quite in keeping with the spirt of co-operation, which had been emphasized, and the carrying out of which by communities everywhere throughout Canada had resulted in the prosperous country of which we are so proud. Mrs. G. H. Musselle addressed the Municipal Council in eloquent and very appropriate words, presenting a fine new flag on behalf of the Junior I. O. D. E., and ending her splendid address with the patriotic stanzas:

"You may call it a small bit of bunting;
You may call it an old tattered rag,
Yet thousands have died for its honor,
And shed their best blood for this flag."

Miss Lorna Kennedy and Miss Emma Robinson presented the unfolded flag to Reeve Mason, amid the applause of the audience. Most of the members of the Junior I. O. D. E. were present.

After the Band had played a selection to the flag, the Chairman called upon Mr. A. E. Nicklin, J. P., ex-Reeve.

Mr. Nicklin read the message of His Excellency, the Governor-General, to the people of Canada, extending his congratulations on the wonderful prosperity which had been achieved since confederation sixty years ago. He followed, in an admirable speech, recalling vividly the events of the celebration in Acton at the inception of confederation sixty years ago, when he was a lad of ten years living in his home here. He referred to his old teacher, Robert Little, and the interest he took in inculcating upon the youthful minds in his care the importance of the confederation of the provinces of Canada. He spoke of the great prosperity of our country and the position she occupied among the nations. He hoped the young people of to-day would fully appreciate the significance of the Diamond Jubilee occasion.

Dr. T. D. J. Farmer followed in a rousing speech on Canada's splendid position to-day; her limitless natural resources, the fine moral character of her people; her splendid laws and equitable administration of them, and her loyalty to the British crown. In impressing Canada's status as superior to that of numerous other countries he had visited, especially in the administration of justice, concrete cases were mentioned. The Doctor prophesied a great future for this Dominion.

The Band then played "O Canada."

H. P. Moore, J. P., Police Magistrate, in a speech of local and general reminiscences, held the audience with manifest interest as he addressed them. He said that like Mr. Nicklin he, too, was a lad in Acton in his tenth year, when confederation was inaugurated. He remembered well the celebration in this town on the first of July, 1867, and recalled the part taken by old Company 6 of Halton Battalion, under command of Captain Allan. Rendering this more vivid Mr. Moore held up the identical red tunic worn by Corporal John Cameron, — who, by the way, was present,—on that occasion as well as the year before when the memorable Fenian raid of 1866 as in progress.

Mr. Moore read the message of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, and said that it gave him especial pleasure to be allotted this part in the programme, inasmuch as his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John King, of Berlin, had been personal friends of Mrs. Moore and himself. The Premier said in his message: The Dominion of Canada, as it came into being on July 1, 1867, was the outcome of an endeavor by men of diverse temperaments, racial relations, religious and political faiths to serve the ideal of nationhood. The vast territories and the silent spaces that sweep northward into the unknown speak more eloquently than words of boundaries still undefined in a land that is limitless in its possibilities of further development and growth. Such is the Canada we now know, just sixty years from the day of its birth!

He was most anxious that the young people of to-day would be fully impressed of the importance of this Diamond Jubilee, and that they should carry on the torch that had been lighted, realizing the standing Canada enjoys, and determine, by co-operation and upright character and conduct, to maintain and improve their heritage.

In a brief speech, full of fruitful expression, Dr. J. A. McNiven made the closing address of the morning. In the Canada of to-day he saw a great nation of industrious, contented, moral men, free in name and in fact, men capable of maintaining in peace and if necessary in war, a constitution worthy of such a country. He was proud of the fact that Canada was loyal to their connection with the British Empire, and looked forward to a Canada in the future enjoying greater prosperity than ever before.

This memorable gathering concluded with the National Anthem, led by the Band.

Promptly as the Post Office clock chimed the hour of twelve noon the factory whistles sounded, the church, school and town bells peeled forth and the Band, which had assembled in front of the Post Office, played "God Save the King," and "O Canada." It was indeed a fitting climax to the patriotic service of the morning.

Friday Afternoon

The afternoon was devoted to giving the kiddies a real good time. The school children lined up at the Town Hall at 1.30 and, headed by Acton Citizens' Band, paraded to the Park. Here they were each presented with the medal commemorating the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. Then an afternoon of sports and races followed. Friday Evening

The evening of Friday was given over to the street carnival and dance. It was Acton's first attempt at such an affair and it proved an experience. When the jazz band formed up on the closed section of the street the block was filled with spectators and dancers. It was well nigh impossible to clear the space or separate spectators from dancers and a last minute conference decided on changing from the Ritney dance plan to a straight charge for all dancers. The section was packed all evening with merry-makers and an enjoyable time spent by all. A seven-piece local orchestra provided splendid music.

Residences and business places about town were decorated profusely and artistically. The silver cups for the best decorated business places went to Dr. H. A. Cuse's garage and Revoir's Novelty and Dry Goods Store. For the best decorated residence, Reeve Mason was awarded first and Mr. R. M. McDonald's home second.

Saturday Afternoon

Saturday afternoon was a real day of sports and fun. The parade formed up at the head of Mill Street, at the C. N. R. tracks. Halton Rifles, headed by the regimental band from Milton, led the procession. Mr. George Lantz was the marshall in charge, decked out in all the regalia of his office.

The Acton Fire Brigade followed with a fine contribution, depicting the history of fire-fighting apparatus since 1867. The bucket brigade of 1867, with their pails, were on the first float. The 1887 era was represented by the old hand pumper. The 1907 period brought in the steam fire engine and apparatus, and the modern 1927 appliances were exhibited on the new fire truck.

Cars and floats of all descriptions followed. The Junior and Senior I. O. D. E. both had attractively decorated cars. The U. F. O. and the U. F. W. P. O. had fine floats, demonstrating the progress of farm life since 1867, and individual cars were numerous.

Then the ever-present leaders in these movements, Acton Citizens' Band, in real calithumpian attire, headed the parade of calithumpians and pedestrians. There were entries from all stations and ages of the citizenry in this parade and they truly

Calcium Chloride to Be Put on Streets

Gravel, Lights, Cement Curbs and Many Items Occupy Attention of Council

Councillors Holmes and Atkinson were present at the Council session on Tuesday evening, Reeve Mason presided.

The fourteenth report of the Finance Committee recommended that the following accounts be paid:

Frank Scriven, care of Memorial Plot and flowers	$ 10.00
D. B. Nunn, gravel for streets	120.00
Evan Jones, teaming	3.00
	$133.00

The report was adopted.

The Clerk was instructed to write a letter of appreciation to Dr. T. J. D. Farmer, Dr. McNiven, Mr. A. E. Nicklin and Mr. H. P. Moore for their assistance in the Dominion Day ceremony.

The Chairman of the Cemetery Committee recommended a change in the scale for digging graves. The new charge is $6 for graves in the old portion and $8 in the cemetery grove.

The Clerk was instructed to order twenty-five drums of calcium chloride for use on the streets to alleviate the dust nuisance.

The Clerk was instructed to prepare a by-law regulating the laying of cement curbs on streets in town.

The Council instructed the Street Commissioner to put gravel on Main Street, near the Highway Garage.

An additional light was ordered for Bower Avenue north, near the Acton Machine Co. plant.

The Clerk was instructed to write a letter of appreciation to Mr. Cheevers for his kindness in changing the street signs from Bower Street to Bower Avenue and Knox Avenue. The Council appreciated the willingness he showed in complying with their request.

Another letter was ordered to be written to Mr. J. B. Mackenzie, telling him he must comply with fire by-laws in connection with his shed, recently erected, and have the same attended to immediately.

CELEBRATION NOTES

The Post Office decorations were indeed elaborate. Mr. Jas. Anderson, the caretaker, had the building and surroundings arrayed in style truly befitting a Dominion government building on the Dominion's Diamond Jubilee.

The street dance proved a bigger affair than was anticipated. If it was not as big a money-maker as expected it gave a lot of experience, anyway.

The children were given a good time on Friday and they seemed to appreciate it, too.

A. O. DeForest was again a prize-winner in the calithumpian parade. The old gentleman always gets a real comic entry in the parade and this year's was no exception.

The booths did a flourishing business. Thirst quenchers and coolers were much in demand.

Mrs. S. Duffield, Eramosa, spent a couple of days with Mrs. W. F. Jiggins and other friends in Acton last week.

Mrs. A. D. Bridges, Leslie and Louise, of Cranbrook, B. C., are visiting at her mother's, Mrs. Robt. Johnston's, Knox Avenue.

Magistrate Faulkner, and Alderman Arnott, of Shelburne, made a pleasant visit with Magistrate H. P. Moore on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Doughty and family, of Toronto, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton during the celebration here.

Mr. Herbert E. Matheson and Miss Edith Follett, of Toronto, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hall on Sunday.
