Auto Trip in Northern Ontario

An Expedition with Fishing as Its Objective Proves Delightful as Sightseeing Tour Also

When an editor spends several days on a fishing trip, it is a natural following that what has occupied so much of his time shall bring forth a story of the expedition. It was a party of local notables, and why we were included we have not just fathomed. Councillor C. H. Harrison and Mr. B. G. Arnold, sales manager of the Storey Glove Co. here, and Councillor H. Cleave, of Georgetown, with the scribe of this journal, were a party that set forth last Friday on a fishing trip—with Bundridge as the goal. Conveyance was the editor had never been to Bundridge before, but the others of the party vouched for the fishing and the accommodations, as they had previously made the trip and we returned with unshaken confidence in their judgment.

The route was through Bolton to Hebomberg, where we called on Charlie Pell, and took on a supply of gas; and to Bradford, and on to Barrie for breakfast, at about nine o'clock. And such a country as that to pass through on an early summer's day. It gave a sense of pride in one's Province to see these fertile fields and splendid promise of crops and Mr. Cleave, the representative of Canada's basic industry on this trip, was pardoned when his chest swelled with pride on viewing this evidence of prosperity among his fellow farmers.

And then on to Orillia and Gravenhurst, and Bracebridge, with a call there on Mr. Thompson, of the Queen's Hotel, just to renew acquaintances, and give a chance to get unlimbered from a conglomeration of boots and fishing tackle, sufficient to lure every trout from the north land.

The highway from Bracebridge to Huntsville was not surfaced but, nevertheless good, and this town was gained just at noon. We were going to eat there, and as a source of information called on Editor Rice, because newspapermen are supposed to be the source of all information. The desired information was secured from the genial editor, and, on return to the car it was found that, womanlike, the party had decided to load up with gas and make Bundridge for a late dinner.

On north through Emsdale, Burks Falls and Bundridge, finally at shortly after two o'clock, and the journey was ended at the neat little Bernard Hotel, in that village. Could we get dinner? Certainly! Our host was accommodation personified, and a visit to our rooms revealed the fact that here was a hotel, in a small community of six hundred or so population, with appointments and conveniences of which any centre of much larger proportions might well be proud. It is conducted by Mr. and Mrs. D. Dunbar and family, and we soon were made to feel like members of the family in the home-like surroundings.

But on fishing the party was bent, and a change to very disreputable fishing togs and the improper digestion of a delicious meal, and the party was on the road again—bound for Harry's place. Twenty miles out and over such roads! They were all rock—bottom and top, twist and turn, and through the virgin timber (as our salesman of Storey's pointed out). It was a real ride on the scenic railway. "Keep your hats and hang on to your seat," and deposited, without mishaps, at Harry's, at four o'clock.

One of those typical trout brooks, with its overhanging foliage was where we cast the worms and dangled the hooks for the fish. And the two hours of fishing netted the party seventeen very fine specimens. In order to save argument we will make no comparisons as to size and quantity on any of the catches. We were back in Bundridge in time for a late supper at seven-thirty and instructions to cook the fish for breakfast.

A pleasant hour was spent with Mr. and Mrs. George Dunbar, that evening—friends of the family—and the other section of the party renewed acquaintances in the town and engaged and lost to some real euchre players in the northern community.

And such a cool night as it was for May 30! The northern lights were brilliant and during the night there was a real heavy frost. One of the party averred he saw frost on the wires in front of the hotel and maybe he did. It was nine o'clock before the morning trip landed us back at Harry's creek. And Harry and Freddy, the little boy of the home, knocked off work long enough to say good morning and receive instructions on how to operate one of the Acton Machine Company's luggage carriers. The plan was to not go in for dinner, and oranges and chocolate bars were to be the sustenance in lieu of a meal.

It didn't work and about two o'clock, when the catch only registered 26 for the party, and none of them over a foot long, it was decided to try for a lunch. A new road to Bundridge was also tried out, past Deer and Eagle Lakes and through a further stretch of this rough country, with Councillor Cleave becoming more and more convinced to be contented on his own splendid farm at Georgetown.

It was three o'clock when we disturbed the hotel routine and had a lunch that was almost the equal of a full course dinner. Black Creek, only three miles out, was recommended. The trout were bigger, but the afternoon's endeavors only brought the catch up to thirty-six, and this was all there was to go home with. Oh yes, there were some chubs that gave a thrill of anticipation for a moment, and Councillor Harrison and the editor landed two beautiful suckers, which dwarfed all the trout for size, but for various reasons they were not included in the catch brought to town.

We were almost late for supper again. It was Saturday night in town, and Bundridge is just like Milton, or any of those bustling communities with its Saturday night crowd of shoppers, etc. Bundridge has a private dance hall, and here the sedate town fathers—representative of the Acton and Georgetown communities—would go and trip the light fantastic (but that is hardly a suitable term for men who tip the scales at over the 180 mark).

The hall, the orchestra, the crowd were all typical of a real good country outing. After several square dances, a fox trot was announced, and the orchestra, which had been very fair in the square dances, was decidedly not at home on "The Vagabond Lover." Half a dozen couples struggled through the arrangement, but it was never attempted again that evening. Round dances are not the thing in this northern country, we were informed.

The representative of the glove industry and the scribe were tired and the Councillors having decided to stay until "lights out," the former pair set up guard in the car, and dozed and waited. At precisely 11.55, James drove the contingent back to Bernard Hotel. At the hotel we met Mr. A. Church, who married an Acton girl, and visits Acton, at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. C. O. Plank. He is one of the leading business men of the community and Postmaster of Bundridge. A little social chat with he and Harry Parr, the newspaperman of Bundridge, and to bed.

Breakfast was over, the accoutrements seemingly necessary to fishing were loaded up, and in the remaining room the party of four were deposited, and the start for home made at 9.30. One more call on our friends, Mr. and Mrs. G. Dunbar to say farewell. And oh, what a surprise awaited. Mr. Dunbar had done some fishing since the Friday evening we had seen him and a few hours had resulted in a catch of eight beauties which for size—oh, well, we were quite proud of ours until we saw these. His catch was generously shared and four of the biggest were sent to the folks at home. "A friend in need is a friend indeed!" They made the catch improve a fair percentage, and brought the total up to forty for the home-coming.

The trip back was uneventful and the same route was followed until Orillia was reached. It was decided here by Councillor Harrison that we would be shown the other shore of Lake Simcoe, even if it were twenty-five miles further. Not having seen it were glad of the trip to see fresh scenes. Down through Atherly, Hutton, Keswick and Newmarket was the route. And what a change from the rich farms in this old section of Ontario to those forests and rough lands of the north. Yet all within the boundaries of Ontario and all in a day's travel.

Along the highway north of Toronto Councillor Harrison called on friends. It was a beautiful farm of two hundred acres, level and workable with a tractor. A pleasant half hour was spent visiting here and from thence over to Bolton, where supper was secured. From Bolton to Georgetown, where the party disbanded, was a brief run. Then back to what three of the party averred—all through the journey was the best town in Ontario—Acton—and the speedometer registered a little over five hundred miles on the trip.

It was a fishing excursion and a fair sample was secured. But it was more. It was an excursion through a section of Ontario when the Province would appear at its best. It was a trip with congenial companions and it might be rolled into three terms—education, entertainment and fishing—a real holiday with a clearing away and a refreshing that, when the lethargy of the holiday is worked off, will leave a clearer brain and a better understanding of another part of the Province.

HALTON LEAGUE

ACTON WAS DEFEATED

On Saturday Acton travelled to Milton for the third game of the Halton County League, and were beaten by the score of 3-0. It was an exciting game from start to finish, and was a battle between two good pitchers. For the first few innings it looked as if Chalmers, for Acton, was not going to be effective, and Neil Gibbons got all prepared to go in. But as soon as Chalmers found his range, Milton just couldn't connect, and he had 12 strike-outs to Marsh's 9. The runs that were scored against him were mostly on account of the fielders' inability to get the ball. The Milton team has better support behind their pitcher and if an Acton man got a hit it always seemed to go right into the locals' hands, and they made no mistakes about getting their man out. At one time Acton had three on bases, with none out, and the score 1-0, and they just couldn't score. For five innings the game went scoreless, then Wilson, Milton's first sacker, scored on a hit by Potter, and another run was scored in the eighth when Marsh scored on a hit by Toleska. Leishman, for Acton, showed great improvement in this game, getting the only two-base hit of the game, and also a single, and in the field he caught a great fly ball, after running about 25 yards for it. Waterhouse also made a spectacular one-hand catch, having to jump into the air for it. B. Clements, Milton's left fielder, also made a beautiful catch on a long drive to left field by Kaley.

JOHN McLARTY, Esquesing

The funeral of the late John McLarty, who died at his home in Esquesing Township on Thursday last, took place from his late residence, lot 7, concession 3, Esquesing Township, on Tuesday afternoon, and was largely attended. Interment took place in Boston Church Cemetery, Esquesing Township, the service being conducted by Rev. H. Kaye. The late Mr. McLarty, who was in his 72nd year, had lived in Esquesing Township for many years. He was a member of Boston Presbyterian Church. Two sons survive, James, in the West, and Stuart, at home.

MRS. EBENEZER HESWICK

A saintly character passed away on Sunday evening when Mrs. Ebenezer Heswick died after an illness which extended over many months, at the family residence on John Street, Acton. With Christian fortitude she bore her long period of suffering and weakness. Mrs. Heswick had attained the ripe age of 73 years. She was born in Erin Township, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Vanmatter. She and her sorrowing husband were joined in the bonds of holy matrimony in January, 1869. Surviving are her daughter, Mrs. George Coles, Acton, and her son, Clayton, on the homestead in Erin Township. The following brothers and sister of Mrs. Heswick also survive her: Ira, of Guelph; Pharos, of Athens, Ga., and Mrs. John Paisley, Victoria, B. C. During her prolonged illness the case and solicitude of her daughter Mrs. Coles, and her devoted husband were marked indeed. Mrs. Heswick was an active member of the Methodist Church for many years. She loved her church and the fellowship it afforded, and was never absent from its services when she was able to attend. The funeral service was held in the United Church on Wednesday afternoon, and was conducted by her pastor, Rev. C. L. Poole, B. D., assisted by Rev. Mr. Aikens, of Hallinafad. The pall-bearers were six members of the Official Board of the United Church, Messrs. A. T. Brown, James H. Reed, J. H. Denny, John H. Kennedy, N. P. Moore and Duncan McTavish. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. The following friends from a distance attended the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hiltz and Blanche, Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Hiltz, Mrs. J. C. Willard and son, Val, all of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. George Heswick, of Orangeville; Mrs. A. R. Vanmatter and Pharos, Mr. and Mrs. A. Speight, of Georgetown; Mr. Ira Vanmatter and Mrs. W. M. Near, of Guelph; Mr. Karl Vanmatter, of Milton; Mr. and Mrs. W. Cole, of Eden Mills; Mr. H. Vanmatter, of Kitchener; Rev. N. Waddell, Hamilton, Ontario. The many beautiful floral tributes manifested the esteem in which the deceased was held.

MRS. WALTER J. KENTNER

Our fellow-townsman, Mr. Walter J. Kentner has indeed been sorely bereft the past few weeks. Just three weeks ago last Monday his father, Mr. Alva Kentner, passed away and on Monday of this week his beloved wife died after a brief illness. Mrs. Kentner had been ill for a week or so, but her condition was not known to be serious until this week, and her passing was a distinct shock to the entire community. Mrs. Kentner was, before her marriage, Miss Annie Mae Bingham, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bingham, of Erin Village. She was born in Erin Township, and eleven years ago was joined in holy wedlock to Walter J. Kentner. The young couple settled in Acton and during their residence here have been among our best citizens. Mrs. Kentner was in her thirty-second year. She was a bright little woman, with her interest centred in her home and making the home surroundings attractive for the beloved husband. She was a quiet and willing worker in church activities and always willingly shouldered her part. Besides the sorrowing husband and parents, two sisters, Miss Margaret, at home, and Mrs. Payne at Fairview Alta., remain to mourn her loss. To all of these the deepest sympathy of the community goes out. Mrs. Kentner was a member of Knox Presbyterian Church and the funeral this afternoon was conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. L. Bennie, M. A. A brief private service was held at the home, followed by a service at Knox Church here, which was largely attended. Interment was made in Fairview Cemetery, here. The following floral tributes bore mute tesimony to the esteem in which Mrs. Kentner was held: Pillow, husband; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Bingham and sisters; gates ajar, Mrs. Alva Kentner; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. McIntyre and Arnold; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hiltz; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kentner, Bolsaevain, Manitoba; cross, Mrs. Ichram and Mrs. Henry, Detroit; sprays, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Kentner and Marguerite; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kentner and Mrs. Vance Kentner; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benham, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Kerr, Guelph; Mr. and Mrs. Alger Cripps, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. McCutcheon and Boys; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johnson; Mr. and Mrs. George Ritchie; Norton Motors; Ladies' Aid Knox Church; Mrs. Huffman and Mrs. Gervais; Mrs. Hannah Bingham and Mr. T. E. Bingham.

General Interest News

The New Hydro Power Line

The work of changing the Hydro power line through Acton is proceeding rapidly. The line is now down Main Street and into the Acton substation and Acton is back again on the power from the Guelph distributing system. The line in town has been disconnected and several of the poles are in for the new line along the north side of Corporation Pond and over the railway tracks through Mr. Wallace Lasby's farm. From thence the line continues through private property to connect at the third line and run along the highway to Georgetown. The switches controlling the power coming into Acton and that going on to Georgetown are now located in the grounds at the Hydro station here, instead of on Main Street, as formerly.

A Flock of Aeroplanes

Seventeen aeroplanes from the Selfridge Aerodrome Mount Clemens, Mich., passed over Acton in a squadron, bound for Kingston, to take part in the Eastern Ontario air meet there. They arrived at Kingston before three o'clock. There were originally eighteen planes in the group, but one crashed between St. Petersburg and Kitchener. The pilot landed safely by parachute. His companions, after ascertaining that he was safe, kept on their way. By jumping to earth in his parachute the pilot of the plane which crashed near Kitchener automatically becomes the first member of the Caterpillar Club ever enrolled in Canada. The Caterpillar Club, organized in the United States three years ago, has no officers, and its membership is restricted to those who jump from planes in parachutes in cases of emergency. There are a few British members, but as yet no Canadians.

PRESENTATION OF PRIZES

By the W. C. T. U. for Essays, Posters, Etc., by High and Public School Pupils

For a number of years the ladies of Acton Women's Christian Temperance Union have been actively engaged in encouraging the study of the evils of intoxicating liquors and the use of tobacco, by the pupils of the High and Public Schools. Their laudable efforts have been fruitful, and the competition for prizes has manifested careful study and the formation of strong opinions among scholars respecting these evils.

On Friday evening the annual presentation of prizes took place at a largely attended meeting in the School Room of the United Church. The prize essays were read, scrap books and posters were exhibited, and these were interspersed with a programme of excellent musical numbers. Mrs. A. T. Brown, Secretary of the Society, presided and wisely guided the evening's proceedings.

The meeting was opened with a hymn and prayer by Mr. Alex. Macdonald. A Public School class, under the direction of Mrs. M. R. Moore, sang a charming "Twenty Song." Elwood Johnston recited "Following Father"; Barbara Taylor, "A Manly Man;" and Vera Rawlings, "Father and Son," in the Oratorical Contest. The prize was awarded to Barbara Taylor, with the other two declared a tie on points, by the judges.

Mrs. William Cowdy, of Limehouse, played a piano solo with fine effect.

Prize-winning essays were read, as follows:

Barbara Guthrie, "The Trial of Modern Alcohol Drinking," by Judge and Jury in Court."

Isabel Switzer, "Better Sport to Refuse the Social Class Than to Accept It."

Beth Harrison, "A Dialogue on Tobacco."

Elwood Johnston, who won the prize for a temperance essay in Jr. IV. Class, read an essay showing "Why I have a Total Abstainer Instead of a Moderate Drinker, in Charge of My Car."

Their scrapbooks were exhibited, and the contents explained by Wilmer Davidson, Vera Coxe and May Waterhouse.

Mr. Dan Taylor choirmaster, sang a solo, and two little girls a duett.

Miss Minnie Bennett explained and highly commended the work of instruction on the evils of alcohol and tobacco in the Sunday Schools, and the value of the competition there. The winners were: Norman Gibson, Laura Hall, Teddy Hanson, Harvey Hassard and Lucy MacArthur.

Letters to the Editor

ENJOY THEM ALSO

As a regular reader of THE FREE PRESS, I have been interested in the articles appearing in the two last issues received, i. e., in the "Old Man's Coliffin," referring to Mr. J. W. Leslie, and later the letter from your correspondent in Wisconsin, following up the "Old Man's" article.

We have been residing in retirement in our town for some years. Mr. David Hill, here, tells me that his birthplace was next farm to the McCoown family farm home, that he and Mr. Leslie were boys together, he being one year the younger. I often hand him THE FREE PRESS, which he enjoys. And especially the two articles referred to.

Yours,
