Campbellville Fire Ravages Apartment Friends Rally to Assist 10 Homeless

Fire, which struck a three-apartment house in Campbellville just before suppertime Saturday, caused an estimated $8,000 damage and left 10 people, including seven children, homeless.

Friends and relatives in the Campbellville area have rallied to aid Alf Turner, widower, and his children Sandra, 16, Bert, 12, and Betty Lou, 10, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Tompkins and children Tony, eight, Susan, six, Christopher, four, and Penelope, eight months. The Tompkins family is presently living across the road from their gutted home with Mr. and Mrs. James Bayton. The Turner family, left motherless just over a year ago, has been spread throughout the community with relatives and friends.

According to Milton Fire Chief A. E. Clement, it is believed the fire started in the middle apartment, occupied by the Turner family. Chief Clement said it is thought Sandra Turner was preparing supper when a small bowl of grease on the stove either broke or spilled. He said that according to reports of those who had been in the house, the whole room was suddenly ablaze and indicated grease was instrumental in the fast spreading of the flames.

The fire quickly spread upstairs, he said, and when firemen arrived the house was a raging inferno.

Meanwhile, Campbellville residents formed a bucket brigade and the village's fire extinguishers were brought out of storage. The flames were blown away from the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Peacock on the North side, but endangered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott a few yards away on the South side.

Volunteers removed all the furniture from the Elliott home, but later in the evening it was replaced in the unscathed house.

The Tompkins family had a chance to remove all their belongings, except for bed and bedding, from their rear apartment. The Turners lost everything they had. A third family was to have moved into the vacant front apartment this week.

The house, a total loss, was covered by insurance, reported owner Mrs. C. A. Elsley. The contents of the Turner apartment were also covered by some insurance.

Ironically, the Tompkins, who saved most of their belongings, carried no insurance on contents.

For the Milton firemen, it was a tough night. The call was placed at 5:20 Saturday afternoon, before they had a chance to eat their supper. Water had to be pumped from Olan's pond by gasoline engine to the trucks where the pressure was boosted for the blazing fire.

Neighbors who watched firemen battle the flames in below zero weather in heavy coats covered with ice, brought out trays of sandwiches and coffee. Firemen stayed at the fire until after 12 o'clock that evening. Coats had to be pried off them and the water used on the fire formed a river down the street.

The company of firemen which was at the fire was the group responsible for that evening's bingo. Those firmen who were off duty volunteered to look after the bingo, and when it was over, they drove to Campbellville to relieve the half-frozen company.

Frozen hose was spread all over the fire hall floor when the truck returned, and firemen spent two hours Sunday cleaning, drying and unclogging hose in preparation for any emergency. Several lengths of hose were still being dried Monday.

Deputy-Chief George Bundy conducted the brigade in the absence of Chief Clement.

Christmas Greenery Background For Bottomley-Coles Marriage

Christmas decorations formed the background in St. Joseph's church for the marriage of Mary Denise Coles and Terrence Bottomley. Christmas trees, a creche and flowers were at the front of the church with evergreens and white satin bows marking the pews for the guests.

The bride, a member of the public school teaching staff, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Coles of Brampton. The groom, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bottomley of Bradford, England, is with the Royal Canadian Air Force stationed at MacDonald, Portage la Prairie.

Father V. J. Morgan officiated at the wedding and Father R. Mac Dougall celebrated the nuptial mass.

Miss Irene Mulholland played the wedding music. Mrs. Gwen Davidson of Brampton sang Panis Angelicus, On This Day and O Lord, I Am Not Worthy.

The bride's gown was fashioned of ivory brocaded satin, styled with a buttoned bodice, tiny pointed collar and lily pointed sleeves. The hooped skirt fell in a scalloped panel, the bustle back flowing into a chapel train. Her circular embroidered veil fell from an ivory satin headdress to shoulder length. She carried a small spray of white stephanotis with baby red roses.

Her father gave her in marriage.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Pat Coles of Brampton. A friend, Miss Cay Laughlin of Guelph, was bridesmaid. Both wore ballerina length gowns of blue and silver brocaded satin featuring large bows at the shoulder, feathered headdresses and matching shoes. They carried red roses and white carnations.

A niece and nephew acted as flower girl and page boy. Miss Marianne Coles wore an ivory taffeta dress with a scalloped lace bodice and skirt and lace headdress. She carried a nosegay of baby red roses and baby white carnations. Master Timothy Coles wore an ivory suit with a blue satin bow.

Hartley Coles, the bride's brother, was groomsman. Ushers were Terry Coles, a brother, and Billy MacColl, a cousin.

Wedding breakfast was served in the Y.M.C.A. which was decorated with pink and white streamers. The tiered wedding cake featured a musical top; the base was entwined with white tulle and blue bows.

Mrs. Coles chose for her daughter's marriage a dress of pink faille taffeta with a collar of mink and a pink shell hat. Her corsage was of white mums.

The bride and groom left on a trip to the northern United States. For travelling, the bride wore an avocado wool jersey dress with bloused back and sheath skirt. Over this she wore a muskrat jacket. Accessories included natural doeskin gloves and a hat banded in gold with sequins and pearls, and a corsage of bronze mums.

Guests were present from Port Huron, Michigan, Penetang, Guelph, Toronto, Brampton and Georgetown.
