THE GEORGETOWN HERALD

WEDNESDAY EVEG, MAY 10th, 1916

ONE OF THE WORST PIECES of road that we know of is that portion of the 7th line between Stewarttown and Ballinafad. It is one of the main arteries of the good roads system, but work on it, for some reason or other, has been side-stepped, until at the present time it is a disgrace to the community. Ratepayers in this end of the township are heartily sick of excuses offered for delay in constructing this piece of roadway, and we would again call Supt. Wilson's notice to that fact. We have been assured that it would be attended to year after year; now the ratepayers want some one to get busy and see that the work is carried out without further delay.

THE REBELLION in Ireland has been crushed but after many valuable lives lay lost. The rebellion was instigated by Germany with German money and German arms, making use of a lunatic in the person of Sir Roger Casement, and a lot of others whose hatred of England and dream of an Irish Republic led them to betray their own country and wreck the fair capital of one of the fairest islands on the earth. There is already talk of leniency in dealing with these rebels but, while the rank and file might be dealt with mercifully there can surely be nothing but death for the leaders. Germany sought to make use of the discontented in Ireland to establish a base from which to cripple England, and had the plot succeeded it might have changed the aspect of the war

MOTHER'S DAY is celebrated on the second Sunday in May, chiefly in the United States, but also to some extent in Canada, and the observance has spread even to Australia. A white carnation, used as the emblem of the day, was selected because "its whiteness stands for purity, its form for beauty, its fragrance for love, its wide field of growth for charity." It is urged that everybody on Mother's Day show by some tribute his (or her) love and respect for his mother—if living, by a letter; if absent from home, by a visit or gift; if dead, by some kind deed to another. The celebration owes its existence to the efforts of Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia. Her mother died in 1905, and the daughter resolved that on that anniversary she would observe the day in her memory. It occurred to her others might feel the same appeal, and she wrote to editors, clergymen, and men in public affairs, and received pledges of assistance.—Let's not forget mother next Sunday.

ONE HAS OFTEN OCCASION to think that the scene of the most outrageous manners is the coach of a steam railway. On the street cars there are occasional examples, but it is on the railroads that selfishness, amounting to boorishness, is most noticeable. You have often noticed, as I have, the many occasions where people who have all the appearance of respectability and good breeding, will sit with their feet on the seat in front of them, a satchel beside them, and a suitcase beside their feet and hog the whole of four sitting places, while mothers lugging children, old folks and young folks will wade through the aisle looking for a place to sit. Ever notice their studied, close attention to their magazine or paper, or their interest in objects out of the window? If you ask them if the seat is taken, some will grudgingly remove the suitcase; others will barefacedly lie and tell you the occupant is in the smoker. Instances could be multiplied where the conductor had to be referred to to enable a passenger to obtain a seat [illegible] of these satchels. Sometimes [illegible] like picking the [illegible] pieces [illegible] that.

Barrie's Farewell to 76th Batt.

Lieut.-Col. Ballantine Thanks Citizens for Kindnesses to the men—Standard of Colors will be forwarded to Batt. in Eng.

After a five months sojourn in Barrie the 76th Battalion headquarters, with "C" and "D" companies, left Barrie last week, carrying with them the good wishes of the entire community. Schools were dismissed for the afternoon and the stores and factories closed down for a couple of hours. The men marched from their barracks to the station, preceded by the R.C.I. cadet corps. The battalion "stood easy" in the station grounds for some time, during which the citizens passed through the ranks, saying good-bye to relatives or acquaintances. Many had husbands, sons, or sweethearts in the ranks. Others said good-bye to boys from distant places with whom they had become acquainted in a social way during the stay of the battalion in town. There were strange women in the crowd, who said a tearful good-bye to husband, some having lived in town for the most part of the five months, some coming to Barrie during the last week or two.

CIVIC FAREWELL.

At the farewell concert given by the battalion, Mayor Craig occupied the chair and gave the civic farewell to the battalion. His Worship referred to the new conditions and trying circumstances under which the men have to fight, but knowing the 76th Batt., as did Barrie people, he was sure the men would uphold the honor of the Empire and the traditions of Canada's army. He congratulated them on their conduct during the stay in town and doubted if it were possible to assemble another 600 men that would conduct themselves in as proper a manner as the 76th Batt. The band was thanked for the excellent music heard during the winter; also to Lieut. Reynolds and his associates were words of appreciation for the [illegible]

P. S. Inspector E. Langham referred to the regrets of the Teachers' Association that they were not able to provide the battalion with the stand of colors owing to delay in the making. He promised the battalion that their flags and go across the ocean with Lieut. McClelland, who at present is convalescing.

Lieut.-Col. Ballantine, in thanking the citizens of Barrie, said no community could have treated a battalion of men better than his men had been treated. He hoped that when the war was over and they returned to Canada, the 76th would hold their reunion each year in Barrie.

Sunday morning Mayor Craig received a telegram from Lieut.-Col. Ballantine as follows:—

"Kindly accept cordial thanks of 76th Bn. for hospitality while with you and loyal send-off when leaving."

This message was communicated to the various ministers in town and announced in the churches at the evening service.

Mayor Craig acknowledged the telegram as follows:—"Your kind message of appreciation received. Will tell our people. (Signed) J. F. Craig, Mayor."

Lieut.-Col. Ballantine has the honour of being the first commanding officer to go over seas for the second time in this war. Major Ballard and Capt. Kirkley have also been over and are now on their way again. This honor goes to few men, and it shows a spirit that is commendable.

ARRIVED IN ENGLAND

Four troopships, carrying 14,501 Canadian soldiers and nurses, have arrived safely in England. Among the battalions are the 70th from London, 76th from Barrie, and 81st and 83rd from Toronto.

Correspondence

The following letter has been received by Mrs. James Cowan, relating to her husband's death in Belgium:—

Belgium, April 11th, 1916.

Dear Mrs. Cowan:—

Before this reaches you, you will have received word that your husband has been killed. I am very sorry indeed to confirm the news. He was one of the best men in my platoon, very reliable and painstaking and a good soldier. It was his first time in the trenches. About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Germans started shelling our trench with big shells. We immediately took our men out of the locality. Your husband was on his way out when a shell landed right beside him, of course he couldn't escape. The same shell killed two more of my men and wounded ten, one of whom will not likely live over to-day. It is little consolation, Mrs. Cowan, but "Killed in Action" is the epitaph of which to be proud.

Very sincerely yours
K. C. Nicol, Lieut.
58th Batt.

Dickens's Humor.

"I was introduced by particular request to Mrs. Wyndham Lewis, a pretty little woman, a dirt and a rattle—indeed, gifted with a volubility I should think unequaled and of which I can convey no idea. She told me she liked "silent, melancholy men." I answered that I had no doubt of it.—Letter of Benjamin Disraeli to His Sister.

Different Effects.

"The same thing will make entirely different impressions on different readers," remarked the man who writes.

"Quite so," replied the lawyer. "Letters which bring tears to a girl's eyes frequently make a jury laugh."

Paraguay Lace.

Lace making was taught the natives of Paraguay by missionaries two centuries ago. Today in all towns of 8,000 inhabitants many of the men and nearly all the women and children make lace.
