DIED

DICKSON—In Georgetown, on Thursday, August 16, 1917, Marion Rodger, widow of the late William Dickson, in her 83rd year.

THE GEORGETOWN HERALD

WEDNESDAY EVE'G, AUG. 22, 1917

FARMERS' BANK shareholders and depositors are not to get any relief through Government Legislation. This announcement was made in the House of Commons on Thursday.

THERE IS WARNING in the automobile accidents that occur frequently, particularly at railway crossings. Of these dangerous crossings there are several bad ones in Halton county, that really should not go unprotected.

IT WAS ANNOUNCED in the British House of Commons that 9,749 lives were lost on British merchantmen from the opening of the war to June 30, 1917, as a result of enemy action. Of these 5,928 were passengers, the remainder being officers or seamen.

THE BREAKING of political party ties seem to be the order of the day. This is not to be wondered at in a time when world changes are in progress, and where men are thinking more independently than ever before. So far as Ontario is concerned, it is true that all the people desire to make the winning of the war the very first consideration.

SPEAKING OF THE crop prospects there will be wide spread regret that there is to be a great shortage in the apple yield. This is particularly true of Western Ontario, but east of Toronto there is a great failure as well. One apple association near Oshawa reports a prospect for only 1000 barrels where formerly the output reached as high as 15,000. And really there is no adequate substitute for apples.

EVEN THE INDIANS of the northern part of British America are giving the slackers of Quebec a lesson in patriotism, loyalty and devotion to the Mother country in the serious conflict that Britain and her allies are now engaged. Last week one hundred Indians from the Peace River district arrived at Camp Borden and wished to enlist in the Foresters Battalion. They had to walk several hundred miles before they were able to reach a railway and secure transportation to their destination. They were forwarded to Toronto to be outfitted. Captain McCarthy of Toronto left last week for James Bay, the southern extension of Hudson Bay, to bring down another party for the Forestry drafts. He has a list of 75 members of one tribe, who are anxious to join the colors. It is said that the James Bay Indians are of a fine physique and very athletic, the chief drawback being that a slight percentage show a tendency to tuberculosis. Those having symptoms of this will be sent back by the mobilization medical board.

WHEN YOU SEE A MAN discontented with the world, a sour expression on his face, and a general don't-care appearance, you can rely that his wife is away from home. By looking around you can tell at a glance all the men who have sent their wives away for a little outing. Fortunately for the man the woman usually takes the baby with her. Before she goes away she cooks a large quantity of victuals so that he will have no trouble in the way of cooking. Sufficient bread is left and all he has to do is boil the kettle, make his tea and drink it. This much he generally accomplishes, but when it comes to washing dishes he is 'out.' 'Hang the dishes!' is a common exclamation. 'This teacup will do again, and I don't see much wrong with the plate; they'll do the supper, anyway,' and when supper is over he puts them to one side for a surprise party for the wife when she returns. He never thinks of making his bed, no matter if she is away a whole month, and tries to persuade himself that he is perfectly comfortable. During the first two or three days he gets along in good style, and for the life of him he can't see that women need complain—they have such an easy time. By and bye, however, he begins to miss little things his wife was wont to attend to, and within a week he writes for her to come home. A husband never realizes what an immense amount of labor is performed by his wife until she leaves the house on his hands for a few days. Then he finds out, and sends for her to come home.

Our Nightly Task

A Pen Picture from the Front

By Pte. Montague Merryday, No. 775589 Canadian Corps, Salvage Co., B. E. F., France.

The night air blew soft and warm across the trenchland. Here and there were groups of men crouching. The vigilant silhouette of a sentry broke at intervals the long, monotonous line of parapet. The men listened in silence to the noises of the night, the quaaking of rats, the whizz of flares, the steady crunch of pick and shovel, the distant boom and show crescendo of an occasional shell, like a phantom express screeching across the heavens, and in a lonely traverse wrapped in a shroud of khaki, lay a huddled figure.

There crept around the bend a little body of men, silently they raised the the dead body of their Comrade. Crouching low, the cortege moved slowly across the shell-torn ground behind the parados, while the thunder of the guns as though stilled by the hand of Fate, died away into silence.

A yawning shell hole had been fashioned into a rough grave. The body of the dead man was laid beside the upturned earth. Two men jumped into the cavity. For an instant the remainder of the party lay prone on the ground, as a yellow flare traced an arc of light across the sky, glinting on steel helmets and pale faces. When the ghostly radiance had given place to obscurity they lowered the body into its resting place. The two men in the grave guided it into position.

The white face of the dead man with the pathetically bandaged head stared up at them. He seemed to be mutely expressing his thanks. Reverently they folded his arms across his body. His attitude betokened peace.

The little party gathered round, removing their steel helmets, they stood with bowed heads. The smell of freshly turned-up soil and the unmistakable odour of decay waited across their senses. Through each man's mind flashed the unspoken question, "my turn next." In that brief instant all the shams and petty deceits of their lives were torn from their eyes. They were face to face with eternity. They saw the unseen.

A N.C.O. muttered a few words of prayer foreign to his lips. He mentioned their comrade's name. The familiar appellation of what a few hours ago was living sounded grotesquely out of place as applied to the dead.

The burial party shovelled the earth over the body till the grave was filled up. On the mound they placed a little wooden cross made from the lid of a ration box. It recorded simply the number, rank, name, and regiment of the dead.

As though to remind them of the stern realities of the present, a distant gun reverberated deeply; a machine gun spluttered out a sharp rat-tat-tat, and the funeral rites terminated abruptly. Quickly the burial party scrambled back to the shelter of their trench.

It was left to the bursting shells to sound the requiem. The German bullets crooned a mournful funeral song over the last resting place of the CANADIAN SOLDIER

Presentation .... to Pastor

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Rose Honored by their Congregation.

On Friday evening last the congregation and friends of Boston Presbyterian Church, met at the home of Mr. Neil Gillies to greet their pastor Rev. W. G. Rose B.A. upon his return from vacation, and especially to welcome Mrs. Rose their minister's bride. The reception was held on the lawn. Rev. R. F. Cameron of Georgetown was in the chair and addresses of welcome were given by himself, Rev. Mr. Martin of the U.F. church, Wm. Hampshire jr., and Neil Gillies. These were interspersed with musical numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Nickel, and vocal selections by Miss Violet Ruddy, Miss Hampshire and Mrs. Peter Fisher. At the close of the program Mr. and Mrs Rose were called forward, and in the name of the congregation Mr. Farrington read the following address and Mr. Stuart Murray presented a well-filled purse.

To the Rev. W. G. and Mrs. Rose.

We the members and adherents of Boston Church, Esquesing, have met together tonight for the purpose of welcoming you back from your honeymoon. We could not allow this occasion to pass without showing our appreciation of you Mr. Rose as our minister. During the four years you have been with us we have learned to trust and love you; you have faithfully preached to us the living truth which has encouraged and strengthened us, and your ministrations in our homes in times of trouble and sorrow have been fraught with sympathy and helpfulness. We cannot overlook your unselfishness and kindness.

And, Mrs. Rose, this gathering is even more intended for you. You are coming into a strange land and among a strange people. Our purpose is to welcome you to Esquesing and if possible to take away the feeling of strangeness. We appreciate the great change in surroundings to you but we earnestly hope that the change may not mar your comfort but that the new relationship may be congenial and profitable both to yourself and to us.

We congratulate you both upon the event which has just transpired and our prayer is that you may long be spared to be a help and a blessing to each other.

And now we ask you to accept this purse as a slight token of our appreciation of you, and ask you to think not so much of its material value but rather of the spirit which prompted it, and which we believe to be much more valuable than money.

Signed on behalf of the congregation.

Alfred Farrington,
James Murray,
Wilfred McDonald,
Goldie Gillies.

Mr. Rose, on behalf of himself and his bride, thanked the congregation and expressed the hope that they might be worthy of the confidence placed in them.

Military News

Lieut R. T. Mellish, R. F. C., who was severely injured while making a flight at the Toronto Golf grounds on Civic Holiday, is convalescing at the home of his uncle, Mr. Elmer C. Thompson, Maple Ave.

Pte. Edward Pinar who was invalided home from the front, arrived in town on Friday evening last and was given a hearty welcome by a number of relatives and friends.

Pte Harry Lewis of the 58th Batt. was doing up Paris on July 28th, as the following on a [illegible] card leased to receive from him indicates:

"Hello Mr. Moore — Just up in this town seeing the sights after seventeen months up the line, and it goes pretty good too. This is a fine city. There are quite a number of Canadians here and we are all enjoying ourselves.—Harry Lewis.

The 164th Batt. Band is making quite a name for itself in the Old Land. The boys had the honor of being chosen to play at a grand reception to returned soldiers one day last week.

Effective Danger Sign.

A contractor who has observed that pedestrians pay little attention to signs has evolved a new plan to guard against accidents to "innocent bystanders." A steam shovel working many feet below the surface of the street attracts scores of persons daily. They stop, lean over the board railing around the excavation and stare. Sometimes the crowd gets so large that there is danger of the railing giving way and plunging them into the excavation. "Danger" signs don't worry them; hence the new idea of the contractor. He has smeared the top of the railing with tar and grease. Now persons who never shudder at the "danger" sign flee from the grease menace as if it were poison.—Philadelphia North American.

Fanny Crosby's Memory.

The blind hymn writer, Fanny Crosby, who immortalized herself with "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," was capable of the most amazing exhibitions of "inability to forget."

On one occasion she contracted to supply a publisher with ninety hymns. She composed forty-five of these, simply storing them in her memory without committing a word to paper. When she had finished the forty-fifth she began to dictate them, going right through without a pause. She then did the same with the other forty-five.—London Answers.

Quite Possible.

"Here's an account of a man's death which said he was in perfect health a few minutes before he expired. Now, that's ridiculous."

"Not at all. He might have smoked too near a gasoline tank."

Valued Testimony.

The Mistress—Does this hat make me appear younger, Mary? The Maid—Yes, mum. When we went to market together yesterday they took you for my daughter.

Its Endurance.

"Does your wife always insist on having the last word?"

"Yes, and it lasts all right too."—Baltimore American.

One grain does not fill the granary, but it helps its companions.—Portuguese Saying.

ITALY APPEALS TO CANADA IN RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

Goal of $100,000 Set for Southern and Western Ontario District.

Chevalier L. Zunini, Royal Italian Consul-General, to Handle Fund.

Italy's magnificent fight in the Alpine mountains of Austria is costing hundreds of thousands of brave Italian soldiers' lives. An appeal is now being made by the heroes, sponsored by the youthful Crown Prince Umberto di Savoia, to meet pressing needs.

CHEVALIER L. ZUNINI,
Royal Italian Consul-General to Canada.

Government of Italy to the people of Canada through Chevalier L. Zunini, Royal Italian Consul General, Montreal, for the Italian Red Cross and orphans of her fallen heroes.

In answer to this appeal, Southern and Western Ontario have fixed a goal of $100,000 to be raised by popular subscription during August and September. Royal Italian Consular Agent Giovanni Danovaro at Welland has been appointed official representative of the Italian Red Cross in this division. L. F. Shumway and L. Forter Moore, of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. of the United States, and associated with the War Council, American Red Cross during its recent successful drive for $100,000,000 in the United States, officially represent the Italian Red Cross as divisional directors and campaign organizers. Their headquarters are at Brantford.

Through Colonel Noel Marshall, chairman of the Central Executive Committee, the Canadian Red Cross has pledged its support and that of all local units is asked for the Italian Red Cross campaign. "Every dollar that is given will make its bond between Italy and Canada. Let us show our Italian friends within our borders that we hold in grateful regard the land that gave them birth; that we appreciate her tremendous sacrifices in the great cause for which we fight, and that we cannot regard with indifference her noble contribution to the success that it yet to be ours and hers," is a recent editorial comment on the Italian Red Cross campaign in Canada.
