Anderson—Bell

The marriage of Ann McCulloch, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, and the late William Anderson of Liverpool, England, and Mr. George H. Bell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Bell of Newcastle, England, took place on Saturday afternoon in St. George's Church, Georgetown. The Rev. F. H. Wase officiated and Mrs. W. Bradley, presided at the organ. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Arthur C. Robinson of Georgetown. Mrs. Bessie McKay was matron of honor and Mr. John McKay was best man. After the marriage the reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Robinson, uncle and aunt of the bride; only the immediate families and friends of the couple were present. After a wedding trip the bride and groom will reside in Toronto.

THE STAGE AND THE TALKIES

George Bernard Shaw, given to snap judgment, recently gave it as his opinion that the theatre was about to disappear, to be replaced by the talkies. But now comes one of the leading theatrical papers of the United States with the information that the stage is getting recruits from the talkies. Hollywood it appears, has a surplus of good material, with the consequence that some excellent actors are trooping back to the stage. Names given to support the statement are those of the Barrymore brothers.

Nor is there much other ground for believing that Shaw is going to be right. There is no doubt about the art of the talkies, about their great improvement over the silent films, of their growing triumphs over early imperfections. Those who saw George Arliss' "Disraeli" or Cyril Maude's "Grumpy" must realise this. But, admitting all of this, there is still no sufficient ground for believing that the time will ever come when any real number of educated theatre-goers will prefer the talkies to the legitimate stage. No illusion produced on a canvas, no matter how perfect within its limitations, can ever appeal or entrance like living flesh and blood on a stage. To argue otherwise is to argue against nature.

Mr. Shaw admits that the theatre may survive as a place where people are taught to act, and it is certainly difficult to imagine any other school. The stage provided the original training ground for most of the successful screen stars, and it has continued to develop sound actors and actresses, despite the tremendous competition it has been exposed to in the past twenty years. Without at all detracting from the part the talkies have come to play or without doubting their much greater future, the stage, we feel, will go on; will go on not merely as the school for acting, but as something which supplies a need which the talkies can never fill.—Ottawa Journal.

BALLINAFAD

The Young People's Society of the United Church opened their autumn activities with a corn roast at the home of Mr. Robt. Shortill, on Friday evening last. Though these are busy days on the farm there were about sixty in attendance and soon the fire was started and the kettle boiling. While waiting for the corn to cook the company engaged in games, but when the call come "Corn's ready," all gathered around the fire and enjoyed the feast of good things which the ladies had provided. After some community singing and a vote of thanks to the host and hostess the party broke up, all agreeing that the evening had been a most enjoyable one.

Rev. Mr. Waddell paid a flying visit to some of his friends on Saturday afternoon. He is looking remarkably well after his holiday at the sea shore.

Rev. Mr. Aitken addressed the Harvest Home service at Glenwilliams on Sunday evening.

The Rally Day service on Sunday morning was entered into most enthusiastically by the children and every part taken was well rendered and enjoyed by all.

Miss Bessie Binnie of Toronto spent the week end with her parents.

At their regular meeting last week the Women's Missionary Society made arrangements for their Autumn Thank Offering which will be held in the near future.

BUSINESS SUMMARY

Under date of Sept. 23rd, the Bank of Montreal has issued the following business summary for Ontario:

"While showing a slight improvement wholesale business in general continues quiet, and in reduced volume as compared with a year ago. Retailers are not carrying heavy stocks, and are pursuing a cautious buying policy. The tourist traffic has been below last year's total, and, with restricted spending, a reduced movement of retail merchandise resulted. Collections are slow to fair. Manufacturing conditions show some improvement. The furniture industry is fairly well employed temporarily on special orders, and there is a slight upturn in employment in the textile and knitting industries. Boot and shoe manufacturers report an increase in sales, as do also rubber factories of footwear production. Automobile factories and agricultural implement plants continue to operate with reduced staffs. Conditions in the tanneries are dull. Domestic trade in the milling industry is satisfactory, with a slight increase in the export demand. The lumber industry is quiet. The harvesting of the grain crops was effected under favourable conditions, and threshing operations indicate satisfactory yields of good quality."

Hints to Villages and Towns

The following correspondent to the Toronto Globe gives a small town ratepayer's opinion as to the action that should be taken in regard to expenditure of money for the benefit of the unemployed. We wonder if Georgetown ratepayers would be agreeable to such a scheme:—

To the Editor of the Globe: Even the villages of Ontario are beginning to feel alarmed over unemployment, and wonder what to do for the coming winter. As our towns and villages must face the matter, why should not many of them take up the improvements needed in these places, and thus give work to the unemployed? And when the Federal Government is so willing and has promised to assist so much in finding employment for the people, let it give a good percentage to all places where this work is done, and this will be a real benefit to all concerned: (1) By letting the unemployed have work at his home, where he can live much cheaper than in the large centres; (2) it will scatter the employment all over the land; (3) it can be attended to by the Councils of each town and the labor will be procured at a reasonable rate, and there will not be any extra expenses in looking after the matter; (4) the towns and villages will be encouraged to go on with many very needed improvements, and thus brighten up Canada.

While it may raise our taxes somewhat in villages and towns to give this employment, think what a help it will be to the needy ones and the improvement it will be to our towns and villages.

A. M., Elora, Ont.
