"What is your age?" asked the magistrate.

"Twenty-one years and some months," replied the woman witness.

"Just how many months? You know you are on your oath?"

"A hundred and twenty."

Some Americans on board a liner were talking to an Irishman, and decided to pull his leg, told him that once when the vessel was a thousand miles from land a man dived overboard and got on board again when it reached port.

"Did any of ye know the man?" asked the Irishman.

Nobody did.

"Did any of ye ever see the man?" Nobody there had ever seen him.

"Well," said the Irishman, "I'm the man."

At a meeting of the Georgetown Hydro Commission last week, Mr. J. R. Gray of Inwood, was engaged as Superintendent of the local Hydro System in place of J. H. Forster, resigned.

Buy Farms for Country Estates

Farmers in the surrounding county near Orangeville are capitalizing on the rainbow and speckled trout that abound in their streams, by selling the land to Toronto men to be converted into country estates. Ten farms in Melanchton and Mulmur townships have already been sold, and this spring will see improvements ranging from $25,000 to $40,000 spent on buildings and landscaping.

Fire Sunday Evening

What might have been a serious fire was discovered in time to prevent serious damage, when an overheated stove caused the woodwork to ignite in Ready's Store on Sunday evening about 8 o'clock. The firemen were called out but a number of young men who happened to be in the cafe next door used buckets of water and aided materially in subduing the flames. The damage done was principally by smoke and water.

Alcott—Ditchfield

A quiet wedding took place at St. George's Rectory on Thursday last when Miss Edith Ditchfield became the bride of Mr. Ernest Alcott, of Georgetown. Rev. W. G. O. Thompson performed the ceremony. Mrs. Kerchaw, sister of the bride was bridesmaid while Mr. Floyd Varey was best man. After a short honeymoon in Toronto Mr. and Mrs. Alcott have taken up their residence in Georgetown. Their many young friends extend congratulations and wish them a long, happy and prosperous life.

Band Concert Enjoyed

Owing to the inclement weather there was not as large an attendance at the Lorne Rifles (Scottish) Band concert, as otherwise would have been on Sunday evening. The program was up to the usual high standard and opened with one minute's silence while all stood in memoriam to our late King George V., and the band played 'Abide with Me.' Besides the splendid numbers by the Band, there was a vocal solo by Miss Joan Hale and cornet solo by Master Joe Wilcox. Mr. Harold McClure was chairman of the evening.

Two Children Seriously Burned

Falling against a red hot kitchen stove, two small daughters of George Brown, Sheligrove farmer, were seriously burned last Friday night. Coming back from the barn after doing the evening chores, Mr. and Mrs. Brown found Laura, three, and Mary, the six-month-old baby, lying near the stove moaning with pain. It was believed Laura had been carrying the baby and had stumbled, throwing them both against the stove. After receiving medical treatment, the children were removed to the Peel Memorial Hospital at Brampton, where their burns are regarded as serious.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tyndall of Toronto spent Sunday with Mrs. Wm. Tyndall.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ruddy and children of Holder, Texas, arrived in town on Sunday after a motor trip of 1600 miles. Mr. and Mrs. Ruddy have been seven years in Texas, but still think well of Canada and the old home town.

Group Meeting W.A.

Group Four of the Woman's Association of the United Church held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Richardson, on Monday evening, Feb. 3rd, with Mrs. Mahl presiding. After the regular opening exercises, a business meeting was conducted in which a number of problems were satisfactorily solved. Miss Betty Speight rendered a lovely solo which all present enjoyed. A social half hour followed, and after tendering Mrs. Richardson a vote of thanks for her kind hospitality, a most enjoyable evening was brought to a close.

Farm Home Destroyed With Heavy Loss

Fire starting in a storeroom, completely razed a large frame house owned by Fred Packer, Limehouse, early last Friday afternoon, in spite of neighbors who were given a telephone alarm.

The neighbors managed to remove the greater part of the furniture before the house was razed, and the loss of the house is partially covered by insurance. Packer had been employed by the late Mrs. Robert Brown before her death, which occurred four years ago, and he was deeded the property as a token of appreciation for faithful service.

Packer, with his sister, Gladys, and two brothers, had been living there since the former owner's death. It was Gladys who discovered the fire. The flames were confined to the house, and did not harm the barn or stock. Damage is estimated to be between four and five thousand dollars.

ANNUAL REPORT OF GOODYEAR OF CANADA

Profits Higher and Excellent Liquid Position Shown for the Past Year

Toronto, Feb. 10—An increase of $16,362.32 in net profit, an earned surplus of $7,457,590.14, a high ratio of assets to liabilities, and an excellent liquid position were revealed in the financial statement of The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada, Limited and subsidiary companies for the year ending December 31st, 1935, presented by the president, C. H. Carlisle, at the annual meeting here to-day.

Current and working assets, with inventories entered below prevailing market prices, stood at $8,913,597.02, as against current liabilities of $429,769.97. Cash on hand totalled $684,379.64, and the total of cash, call loans and government bonds was $3,639,545.68, equivalent to 8.47 times the total current liabilities. Total working capital, after deducting all current liabilities including accounts payable and tax reserves, amounted to $8,483,827.05. This represents a decrease of $1,299,671.93, largely accounted for by the fact that during the year 7% preferred stock to the par value of $7,187,500.00 was redeemed and only $6,000,000.00 of the new 5% preferred stock issued.

Profits for the year after charging all manufacturing, selling and administrative expenses and income taxes, but before providing for depreciation, were $2,025,105.32. Depreciation allowance was $579,906.61, leaving a net profit of $1,445,198.71, an increase of $16,362.82 over the net profit for 1934. Profits include the profit on export business for 1934, but are before taking into account the accrued profits on export business for 1935. Dividends of $333,553.75 on the 7% preferred stock were paid prior to June 17th, when the outstanding 7% preferred stock was redeemed; and dividends of $150,000.00 were subsequently paid on the 5% Preferred Stock issued June 30th. Dividends of $643,150.00 were paid during the year on the Common Stock.

The net earnings on the Common stock amounted to $1,061,604.96, which is equivalent to $4.12 a share on the 257,260 shares of new Common stock now outstanding, or $8.35 a share on the former 128,630 shares of stock in comparison with $7.19 a share in 1934."

COUNTY SEED FAIR FOR HALTON

Plans are now under way to stage a County Seed Fair and Convention in Milton on March 6th and 7th, states J. E. Whitelock, Agricultural Representative for Halton. The event is being financed and sponsored by the Acton, Esquesing, and County of Halton Agricultural Societies. It is anticipated that it will be an annual event with the 1937 fair going to Georgetown and 1938 to Acton. The primary objective of the Seed Fair is to stimulate an interest in better seed and at the same time facilitate the marketing of surplus seed available in the county. All farmers in the townships of Erin, Eramosa, Esquesing, Nassagaweya, Nelson and Trafalgar will be eligible to compete. The practical value of the fair is to be stressed we understand and to this end only those who have seed to sell will be eligible to compete and furthermore the seed for sale must be of the same quality as that exhibited. The committee in charge is planning to secure two outstanding speakers for the afternoon program of the second day. The executive committee is made up of representatives from all three Agricultural Societies and is as follows:

President—Edwin Harrop, Milton.

1st Vice-president—Tom Brownridge, Georgetown.

2nd Vice-president—J. E. Pearen, Acton.

Secretary-Treasurer—J. E. Whitelock, Milton.

Directors—Cecil Chisholm and George Leslie, Jr., Georgetown; G. W. Murray and A. Swackhammer, Acton; Ernest Readhead and A. E. Woodley, Milton.

GLEN WILLIAMS

Notwithstanding the bad roads, and severe cold, there was a good attendance at the regular meeting of I.O.I. No. 346, on Monday night. W.M. Bro. R. Norton gave P.D.M., Bro. James Fox the honor of presenting his brother, Bro. John E. Fox, with his Past Master's Jewel. Lodge reports show an increase in membership, and prospects are bright for 1936.

Moral for the Immoral

57

By JOHN E. DE ROSI

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

FRANKIE AMORY had never been in love. He did not believe in love. He said there was no such thing. At least, not for him. He was right.

For Frankie, alas, was a professional gentleman, a gigolo—a genteel swindler, clever at the precarious art of blackmail. He could not afford to believe in love. It would not be wise.

But Frankie, despite all his wisdom, had erred, and the police were after him. He had made the sad mistake of pretending to make love to a police commissioner's wife, a very wealthy woman. Unfortunately, however, her husband happened to be a remarkably perceptive man and in a short time Frankie was very hurriedly leaving the city.

Frankie alighted at a summer resort high in the mountains. He took a room at the leading hotel and slept through most of the day. That night at a costume masquerade he met Mrs. Winters, a wealthy middle aged divorcee. Frankie immediately went to work.

That week-end he was a guest at a house party in the great white castle in the inaccessible that was the Winters' mansion. And there he met Stephanie. He had been strolling among the guests with the possessive and almost girlish Mrs. Winters and they had come upon a large group at one end of the drawing room. Mrs. Winters playfully grasped one of the men by the sleeve.

"This is my bad, bad nephew Lyle," she said to Frankie smiling broadly. "Lyle, this is Mr. Amory."

"Lyle has brought a charming young thing for the week-end," said Mrs. Winters. "I hear he has been paying a great deal of attention to her in the city." She smiled insinuatingly.

Frankie could catch only an occasional glimpse of the shoulder of the girl beyond Lyle. She was almost entirely screened by the men about her. Lyle turned toward her. "Oh, Stephanie."

The girl emerged from the circle smiling. Her eyes met Frankie's.

Frankie gasped. His heart seemed to stand still.

* * * * * * *

The next morning he sought out Stephanie. "I must talk to you," he implored. "Can't we walk somewhere?"

She nodded gaiety, her eyes very bright, very innocent, very young. "I'll get a jacket." She touched his arm in a gesture of confidence—"I won't be a moment!"

He watched as she hurried away. She was so sweet!

They followed a little path up the mountainside and sat for hours in a cleared space overlooking the broad, far valley below.

After dinner they went for a drive. In the gradually gathering darkness they drove slowly up the mountain road. Passing a smooth stretch of gravel Frankie accelerated the car, and the wind whipped about them. Stephanie laughed, moving close to him. He laughed with her. His arm, in an unconscious motion, dropped over her shoulder. She leaned her head against the soft pad of his coat.

Farther on they stopped and watched the moonlit valley below. They sat there a long while. Once Stephanie said, "Oh, Frankie, isn't it grand! Couldn't you just stay here forever and ever?"

He looked at her. Everything within him seemed to fall away and leave him limp and lifeless. He took her hand. "Stevie," he whispered, "you're adorable!"

She looked shyly up at him. She said nothing, but he could feel her move to him. She held her eyes to his lips. "I like you, too, Frankie. . . ." She came very close to him. The moon's light was silver on her moist, parted lips, luminous from her night-shadowed eyes.

He drew her to him, tight, tight. He could feel her soft fingers over his face, tracing the line of his lips, his chin. His words were lost in the silken cascade of her hair, but she heard them—"I love you, Stevie. I love you. . . ."

* * * * * * *

Lyle Winters slumped down in a chair with a shrug of resignation. Stephanie came across the room drawing on her gloves. She was a different Stephanie. There was an alien air of icy briskness about her. She spoke calmly to the man in the chair, but her tone was brittle. "Well, did you get the dough from your aunt?"

Winters nodded. He reached into an inside pocket and brought forth a neat parcel of currency. "Got the letters?"

"Yeah." Stephanie opened her handbag and produced a packet of envelopes. "Let's have the dough."

Envelopes and money changed hands. Winters sighed with relief. "Why the big rush, anyway?" he asked. A horn tooted outside.

The girl nodded toward the window. "The fish are biting."

Winters rose and went to the window. "Amory?"

The girl nodded. "Yeah." She crossed the room and paused by the door. "Well, so long." She smiled. "And say, never write love letters to girls you don't know anything about." And she was gone.

Winters saw Stephanie head over and kiss Frankie. He watched as the car slid down the driveway.

"Well," he murmured, half aloud, "I wonder how much she'll get out of that sucker . . ."
