Cardno—Mackenzie

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell Cardno of Seaforth was the scene of a quiet, but pretty wedding on Wednesday, February 19th, when their only daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, became the bride of Samuel John Mackenzie of Georgetown. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. A. C. Peast before an attractive arrangement of spring flowers. The bride becomingly gowned in a jacket frock of white suede lace over satin, with hat to match and carrying a bouquet of mauve orchids and lily of the valley, entered the living-room on the arm of her father to the strains of the bridal march played by Miss Jean Mackenzie, sister of the groom. Miss Margery Mackenzie, sister of the groom acting as bridesmaid, wore a yellow lace dress, trimmed with brown velvet with hat and accessories to match and carried a bouquet of talisman roses and freesias. Mr. Nelson Cardno, brother of the bride, acted as best man. After a buffet luncheon, the bride and groom left on a short wedding trip. On their return they will take up residence in their new home in Georgetown.

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, Feb. 25th.—The Liberal party shows signs of being vigorously alive and even in a state of mild revolt. Last week the government received as many jolts from its friends as from its opponents. "Gerry" McGeer (Liberal) locked horns with the authorities on shipping subsidies. Jean Francois Pouliot (Liberal) sought to introduce a bill on the Gatineau bureau over the expressed opposition of the Secretary of State. W. A. Tucker, Liberal of Rosthern faced right up to the Minister of Finance on the monetary question, and was warmly applauded not only by the South east corner where the Social Credit and C.C.F. members sit, but from radical fringes of the Liberal benches as well. All in all, it looks like a fighting session, with the impatient and radical members of the Liberal party, jabbing the military from within, while the official opposition jabs it from without. Liberals profess to believe in free speech, and so general the ebullition this week is regarded as a healthy sign. A fighting parliament wouldn't be a bad idea in these days when so much is wrong and cries out to be set right. Mr. Mackenzie King, being a democratic leader, is prepared to move forward just as fast as the rank and file demands. He sees no value in being miles ahead of the party, doesn't see the use of reforms if the country and the party are not solidly behind them. The present Liberal party has a lot more fire and fight than the representation in the 1926-30 parliament appeared to have.

A Fine First Effort

The government policy on public works as a cure for unemployment was defined with much clarity and eloquence early in the week by Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, in a speech which won general commendation, although scored by one member of the C.C.F. party. Mr. Rogers disposed of the idea that this was a government of supermen, all-wise and all-powerful. He disavowed any notion that without help this or any other government could cure unemployment. The government realized he said, its profound responsibility in the matter; and the expectations of the people. It would not shirk its responsibility. But it believed in enlisting the support of all possible agencies in the provision of work. The government was satisfied that an orgy of government spending did not offer a way out of the depression. On the contrary, if permitted in, it would bring about chaos.

"It is taking a short view or the duty of the government to the people of Canada to assume that we can continue with unbalanced budgets and at the same time expect the co-operation of private and corporate enterprise in supplying more employment to this country. I do not believe public employment through a vast scheme of public works is anything more than a palliative for our present economic ills. I believe that ultimately it would create far greater economic distress than that which now exists," the Minister said.

Students who are curious as to the probable course of this government in the next year or two will probably find the kernel of the matter in a statement of the British government made in October, 1934, and quoted with approval by the Minister of Labor:

The Liberal Attitude

"The expansion of normal activity will most surely and rapidly be brought about by the creation of confidence by steady policy—in particular, financial confidence by a balanced budget, the lowering of rates of interest with resultant cheap and plentiful capital and, in so far as government action is possible by the creation of facilities for and the removal of hindrances to trade."

That theory is to be tested by the Liberal government. It will be assailed as timid, as undramatic, as unimaginative. But the indications are that it will be adhered to closely as the demands of democratic government, the cries for freer spending and elaborate programs of work will permit. The Ministry will probably set their faces hard against any extravagant spending programs of any sort. The test will come in a year or two, when the employment rolls are counted. The government knows that its fate in the country will not depend on the debates it wins or loses in the House of Commons now; but on the employment and general prosperity of the country when its policies have had time to take effect.

Judging by the remarks made by chief counsel at the beginning of the textile inquiry, it is going to be a humdinger. The government considers that the whole textile industry is on trial; and must now justify the protection it enjoys in terms of workers wages and consumer costs.

The government announced that an adjustment to wheat farmers who received less than 60 cents a bushel for their 1930 pool deliveries would be made; it is unofficially estimated this will cost $6,000,000.

GLEN WILLIAMS

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robson and babe of Guelph were visitors at Mrs. Norton's on Sunday.

Mr. Lindley Beaumont spent the week end at Ancaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Preston were visitors with Mr. Joseph Beaumont over the week end.

On Monday evening the Young Men's Bible Class of the United Church were guests of the Young Women's Bible Class. There were about fifty young folk present. A progressive crokinale party was held the winners being Mr. W. Bennett and Miss Marion Schenk. Lunch was served by the ladies and Mr. George Taylor, president of the Men's Class moved a vote of thanks to the ladies for the enjoyable evening.

The H. W. Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. W. J. Hill on Wednesday afternoon. A very pleasant time was spent playing crokinale and in sing-song, after which a dainty lunch was served.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Alban's Church held their annual bazaar on Tuesday. The event, despite the bad weather conditions, was quite a success. The following ladies, under their president, Mrs. Merryday, were in charge: sewing table, Mrs. J. Eaton, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Arthur Beaumont; home-made baking, Mrs. Hadley, Mrs. Preston, Mrs. Heaton; supper table, Mrs. Wagstaffe, Mrs. Gugot, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Hepburn, Mrs. George Preston. The winners of the three draws were: quilt, Miss Fannie Weaver; roast of beef, Mrs. Heaton; tea pot and cosy, Mrs. Herb. Preston.

"Look here," said the commercial traveller to the small town hotel keeper, "don't you know that roller towels in hotels have been prohibited in this state for three years?"

"Sure," replied the hotel keeper, "but that towel was put up before the law was passed."

Halton County Live Stock Improvement Association

It is years ago that an open farmers' meeting was held in the Gregory Theatre in Georgetown to discuss the desirability of starting a Live Stock Improvement Association in this county.

The Georgetown Board of Trade, realizing that prosperous farmers are synonymous with prosperous towns, bore the brunt of the necessary expenditure. Mr. MacVannel, who was Agricultural Representative at the time, explained in detail what such an Association could do for the improvement of live stock and Dr. MacGilvray, Principal of the Ontario Veterinary College, gave an interesting address about infectious diseases in cattle. Mr. A. G. M. Bruyns of Limehouse in the chair.

The meeting unanimously decided to form an association, elected an executive and passed a resolution of appreciation for the broadmindedness of the Georgetown business men, expressing the thought that a closer co-operation between town and countryside organizations could do much to better conditions in general.

Since its inception the officers of the Association, R. G. M. Bruyns, president; Duncan Campbell, vice-president; Edwin Harrop, treasurer and Mr. MacVanhel, secretary, have first of all intermediated between the Provincial Government and those farmers who wanted to profit by the Government Purebred Bull Policy, have thus brought many purebred bulls where they never were before.

During the past year or so much work has been done in the eradication of bot and warble flies in horses and cattle, and most herds in the county were treated last year to prevent these pests. The Association has organized a staff of township chairmen and keymen all over the county to get and to keep a closer contact with all farmers. Many meetings have been held to discuss several projects of improving the quality of livestock, and it seems worth saying that all the work, all the travelling and canvassing has been done without any direct or indirect remuneration.

The efforts of the Association to make this county a tuberculosis free area, after a referendum of all cattle owners in the county had been held, have been so successful, that according to notice received, the Veterinary Inspectors will begin testing all cattle in the county, and a compensation for all reactors will be paid by the Dominion Government.

HAPPY TO OBLIGE

Two Englishmen in India spent their leave shooting bear. Their first day they had no luck until sundown, when one got a chance of a shot and killed. It transpired, however, the victim was an old native woman, and no bear. As they were discussing the matter the headman of the village appeared. They pointed out how sorry they were such an accident had happened, and offered to make a reparation. The headman suggested the sum of 200 rupees—or just over $60. Three years later they went to the same district again shooting bear. They arrived at the bungalow at night, and once again the same headman appeared. He made a simple request. "If your zahibs have another 200 rupees, I have another old woman for you to shoot."

CHICKS SHIPPED BY DOG SLEIGH

10 Below Zero . . . All Alive on Arrival

ONE of the earliest shipments of Bray chicks, this year, was made to Mr. A. M. Lambert, at Connaught, in Northern Ontario. This was the middle of January. On January 28th Mr. Lambert wrote the following letter:

"Dear Mr. Bray: The chicks arrived safely, all alive. Finished the last three and a half miles by dog sleigh at ten below zero. They sure look a fine healthy bunch and am well pleased."

—A. M. Lambert.

If Bray chicks will stand that kind of trip, without loss, it's a pretty good indication that Bray chicks should be vigorous and healthy when delivered to YOU. They are sturdy and strong when hatched, and they are packed right for shipment. With reasonable care, they live, grow and thrive—and give a splendid account of themselves in the laying house.

The secret of this inborn vigor and vitality of Bray chicks lies in our rigid selection of breeding stock; our programme of blood-testing; our careful selection of hatching eggs; and our methods of incubation. Come in and let us give you complete details. Chicks for immediate delivery. Free feed or cash discount on orders booked now for later delivery.
