MRS. AGNES YOUNG, BALLINAFAD CELEBRATED 104th BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Agnes Young, Ballinafad's grand old lady, celebrated her 104th birthday at her home on September 1st. A century of life has failed to spoil her taste for life and she does not accept her birthdays merely as milestones to mark her great age. There is pleasure in the anticipation of a birthday and pleasure in the voices of the friends who greet her on the momentous occasion. Moderation has been her watchword and she still observes moderation in her daily life. Her hearing is a little dimmed and she can no longer see sufficiently well to read, but her senses still carry her out into the world and she is content.

A daughter of the late John Smith, who came from Scotland to settle on the fifth line west in Chinguacousy township, her memories go back as far as the days of the Mackenzie Rebellion when her father hid his rifle lest it be seized by the rebels. She saw the gradual clearing of the land by means of logging bees at which huge piles of logs were burned while the pioneers and their wives ate huge suppers in the light of the fire. She attended a little clapboard school and sat on a rough pine bench to learn her A, B, C's, and sat on an even harder bench in the white church south of Belfountain while a stern Presbyterian minister droned away arguments over her drowsy head. The big boys she remembered were only able to go to school in the winter, in the summer they were needed on the land in an age when all the muscle available was used to till the soil behind plows drawn by oxen.

Mrs. Young married at the age of 23 and moved to the Ballinafad neighborhood retiring to the village 15 years ago. She still wears a gold brooch given her by her husband as a wedding present.

Mrs. William Clements, Toronto, was the recipient of a miscellaneous shower last night at the home of Mrs. L. Schrag, Brampton. A score of friends from Brampton and Georgetown presented her with a variety of gifts, and employees of the Georgetown telephone exchange gave her a table lamp. Miss Constance Whitmee making the presentation. Mrs. Clements was Miss Edith Bullivant, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bullivant, Georgetown.

Half-Price Sales on Auto Licenses

Commencing on September 1st, licenses for motor cars dropped to half-price for the balance of the year. Purchasers of new cars reaped the benefit, as well as owners who did not have the price to buy licenses earlier in the year. Those who were able to boast of owning a six-cylinder car were in a position to secure plates for $4, while those who had eight-cylinder autos only had to lay $7.50 on the line for the nice shiny decorators which adorn the front and back of every motor vehicle. Another reduction was in the price of regular chauffeurs' driving licenses, which cost only $1.00 instead of $2.00.

Wrigglesworth—Ingram

A pretty summer wedding was solemnized on Saturday, August 22, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Ingram, 29 Caledonia street, when their daughter, Ethel Jane, became the bride of Clarence W. Wrigglesworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Wrigglesworth, of Erin. Rev. W. Stanley Owen officiated. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of blush pink silk organza, with a coronet of flowers. She carried roses and lily-of-the-valley. Miss Martha Scobbie, as bridesmaid, was gowned in turquoise blue sheer. Her flowers were Talisman roses. Edgar Wrigglesworth, Erin, only brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. The wedding music was played by Cecil Heinbuch, cousin of the bride. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Ernest Branston, Toronto, sang "I Love You Truly." Mrs. W. Ingram chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of black and white, with shoulder bouquet of sweet peas and lily-of-the-valley. Mrs. P. K. Wrigglesworth, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in black triple sheer with shoulder bouquet of roses. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a chest of silver, to the bridesmaid a gold compact, to the planist a suede bag, to the soloist a boudoir box, and to the best man a signet ring. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Wrigglesworth left on a wedding trip to Muskoka. Upon their return they will reside in Stratford.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Hail Charges at Auto

When motoring home to Milton from Acton in his new sedan last Thursday night, M. E. Nixon, accompanied by Robert Fleming, manager of the Bank of Commerce, Forest, had an exciting experience. Opposite Mervin Steel's farm on the second line, Mr. Nixon slowed his car down to avoid hitting any of a large herd of pure-bred Jersey cattle owned by Mr. Steel which had wandered onto the road. Suddenly the bull of the herd charged the car with such force that it caved in the front door where Fleming was seated, smashing the glass in the window. Neither of the two men were injured.—Champion.

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

By Wilfrid Eggleton

Ottawa, September 8 — Extended markets for Canadian products is a matter about which the present government is giving a great deal of time and attention.

One of its first acts was to conclude the trade agreement with the United States. A second was to exchange notes with Japan, bringing a tariff war to an end. Later there were agreements with Haiti, Brazil, Poland, New Zealand, Uruguay.

This summer Canada had "three travelling salesmen" overseas on a similar mission. Now they are back and the government is discussing the deals they made while they were away, which must, of course, be ratified before they take effect.

Messrs. Dunning and Gardiner were exploring the British market, which always ranks first or second (sometimes one, sometimes the other) among Canada's external markets.

Ottawa Agreement May Continue

The Ottawa agreements, which gave Canada free entry plus tariff preferences for many products, were signed in August 1932, and were for five years certain. But they do not automatically terminate in August 1937. There is a provision that if either country gives six months notice they terminate after five years. But if neither country denounces them in this way they continue indefinitely, until six months after a notice is given.

Of course there is no likelihood of Canada serving notice next February that she wants the agreements terminated in August. It is true there were features of the agreements which the Liberals denounced. But now it is pretty clear that the Ottawa pact gave Canada a good deal more from Britain than she gave Britain.

Britain is much more likely to give notice next February that she terminates the agreements with Canada. But there is no certainty about this. So far she has not intimated whether she will or not. Canada took the precaution to send Hon. Charles Dunning over to London months before any action was pending, so that if any adjustment Canada can make will prevent the repudiation of the agreement, this can be done in time to keep the agreement alive.

These things are secrets of state. But my own guess is that Canada will be prepared to make fairly extensive concessions to Britain to retain the present free market she enjoys for her major products.

This does not necessarily mean that Britain will maintain her high duties against Canada's competitors. The present government is more inclined to be satisfied with free entry for Canadian goods. So that, by mutual consent, it is possible that the agreements will be varied to allow the Argentine and Denmark to escape some of the present duties against their goods. Britain is concluding a new agreement with the Argentine, and it is quite likely that it will be negotiated with this possibility in mind.

Longer Breathing Space

If Britain does denounce the agreement, the betting here is that she won't give notice until after the coronation in May. That would give Canada a little longer breathing space in which to come to terms with Britain.

In every budget since the Ottawa conference Canada has lowered duties against Britain. That she will again do so in the 1937 budget is virtually assured. It may be that by giving signs that she is willing to pay a little more for a continuation of the agreement, than she was to get it in the first place, she may be able to retain the benefits of a free market in Britain. This, with a rising tide of agricultural nationalism in Britain, would be a major achievement.

Whatever the explanation, whether it be improving business, increased prices or what, Canada's external trade is showing a great "come-back." The value of July exports, with the best figure 1929, and run at the rate of nearly a billion dollars a year. In fact, in the past twelve months Canada's total trade has been in the neighborhood of $1,500,000. That's a big improvement.

New trade agreements with Germany, Russia, Holland and Switzerland, such as Hon. W. D. Euler is said to have tentatively negotiated, are bound to add a little to this rising trend of Canada's external trade. There are those who belittle the importance of such commerce, but internal prosperity has always coincided pretty closely with a healthy volume of international trade so far.

Manitoba's Drought

Manitoba has a drought problem too, though not so extensive. It is meeting with the attention of the federal government also.

THIS AND THAT IN SPORT.

Wm. Collier of Georgetown made a fine showing at the track meet at the Canadian National Exhibition last week, when he held fourth place in a field of 21 competitors in the 1000 metre race. Phil Edwards, who has just returned from the Olympic games was the winner of the race.

The Winged Wheelers Cycle Club are staging another of their popular road races to Guelph over the week end. Starting at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon the boys will leave the cafe and after making the jaunt of approximately 2 hours will be welcomed back at the same place. These races proved very interesting last Fall.

• • •

In the girls' swim at the C.N.E. last Thursday evening, Susan Robertson of Seabright, N.J., sped to victory in the three-mile race. Lucy Spence of Toronto and May Looney of Warren, Ohio, splashed to the finish line in a dead heat for second place. It was a great swim and one of the best yet held by the C.N.E.

• • •

After five games between Milton and Acton the Halton County championship was finally won, with Milton again taking the honors. It was a great series, as both teams seemed fairly evenly matched. In the final game last Wednesday night the score was 5 to 3. D. Clement pitched for the winners, while Morton hurled nice ball for the Actonians.

Score by innings:		R.	H.	E.
Acton	001 010 100	3	9	6
Milton	000 002 03*	5	6	4

Baseball is long past in Georgetown. May we, dear readers, with your kind permission, let our fertile minds reminisce back on days of hockey lore. So . . . do you remember . . .

When the Glen and Georgetown had hot sessions on the ice?

• • •

When the games were played in the outdoor rink by Bessey's Mill?

• • •

When mercantile hockey flourished with teams from the Mills, Smith & Stone and a team from town?

• • •

When Blacky and Alf Cole used to play for Milton and rode in a sleigh?

• • •

When the Juniors played St. Mike's in a playdown?

• • •

When Teddy King used to score from behind the net?

• • •

When Johnny Mitchell of Guelph got Salmon's "goal?"

• • •

When "Pete" Reid could weave through his opponents, but fail at the goal?

• • •

When Bert Tout and Mooney Gibson used to tangle?

• • •

When Jim Algie of Brampton always had a good yarn to tell?

• • •

When Henry Sheppard bowled them over on defence?

• • •

When Ray Harley played a good defensive game?

• • •

When Alf. Allen, Floyd Varey, Duke Tracey, Harry Tracey played for the Glen?

• • •

When the Juniors arrived in Bolton without their uniforms? It was a motley crowd.

• • •

When Stewarttown and Limehouse played their annual game?

• • •

When Alf. Cole played for Stratford and was called "King" Cole?

• • •

When Georgetown imported half a team of seniors and still couldn't beat Acton when Percy Graham played left wing?

• • •

When Herman Cole used to eat scarcely at all?

• • •

When Tudor Beaumont could "step into them?"

• • •

When Georgetown played Kitchener, St. Mike's in Junior play-offs and Walkerton in the Intermediate?

• • •

When the C.N.E. senior team of Toronto played the local intermediates, and after the first period they chose up sides and changed sweaters to make a game of it?

WORRIED BY PIMPLES AND ECZEMA

Complexion Unblemished after Six Weeks of Kruschen

"For the past two years," writes a woman, "my face was covered with hard pimples and red blotches, and I also had eczema on my neck and forearms. I tried lotions, creams, and ointments, without the slightest effect. I was so worried. Fortunately I decided to give Kruschen a trial, and without any exaggeration, within six weeks my face was without a blemish, and I have not had a sign of eczema since. I take Kruschen regularly every morning, and would not be without it."—(Mrs.) F. A.

Pimples and eczema are frequently due to impurities in the blood—irritant poisons which, sluggish body organs are failing to expel from the system. Kruschen Salts help to keep the body organs functioning normally and healthily, thus preventing the accumulation of impurities in the blood.
