Gail Borden
PIONEER MILK SALESMAN

Seventy-nine years ago Gail Borden invented a method of condensing milk in a vacuum. His vision opened the markets of the world to Canadian milk. Canned milk can go where fluid milk can't. Gail Borden laid the foundation for the whole series of manufactured milk products that have followed, each a direct help in making dairy farming the most important branch of agriculture in Canada. Today, milk from Canadian farms is shipped and sold as dairy products throughout the world.

Borden has been selling milk products to the world since the turn of the century. Borden was along with others are working every day in home and foreign markets to increase still further, the use of milk and milk products.

This year-after-year effort is one reason why milk is the largest single source of income for thousands of Canadian farmers.

CORRESPONDENCE

Albany, Ga., Jan. 7, 1937.

The Editor, Georgetown Herald.

Dear Sir:

Perhaps some of your readers will be interested to learn that the Pettitts made the trip to Georgia safely this time.

We left Georgetown Wednesday afternoon, December thirteth and arrived at Albany, Georgia, Sunday afternoon, January third after an uneventful trip except for heavy rain at the beginning and the end of the trip. The speedometer registered just under twelve hundred miles.

The general rains and comparatively warm atmosphere had cleaned all ice from the pavement and nowhere did water interfere with travelling, but in Tennessee we saw homes in some villages with water standing just above the threshold of the front door. It must have been anything but pleasant for the inmates.

Everyone seems happy here over the continuation of the Roosevelt administration, but I still think times are better in Ontario than they are here. Employers are struggling with and protesting against the new sweeping security system they are compelled to introduce into their bookkeeping.

It seems that every employed person in the country, except in agriculture and government services expected to register at Washington. Then his employer must pay him weekly and deduct one percent of his pay for the Social Security fund. He adds the same amount out of his own pocket and sends the double amount to Washington where it is placed to the credit of the employee. When said employee reaches age sixty-five he is expected to quit working and start drawing on this fund. I have not heard what they propose to do for the poor employer when he reaches age sixty-five.

Yours very truly,
Morley Pettit.

The Herald is coming and a welcome visitor in this far land.

R.W. Bro. George E. Guthrie's address was as follows:—

In speaking to you to-night on Canadian Citizenship and Masonry, I do so in the hope that something I may say may lead us all to appreciate the duty we owe to this great country of ours.

I often wonder if we fully appreciate what it means to be a Canadian, and by that I do not mean just those who have been born in this country. If Canada is to prosper as I am sure that the Almighty intended that she should, then every citizen, no matter where born, should assume his or her share of the responsibility of citizenship. Every Englishman, Irishman, Scotchman, Frenchman, German, Scandinavian, Russian, Austrian, Bulgarian or the native of any other country under the sun, who comes to Canada with the intention of making this his future home, should come here with the fixed determination that he is going to obey the laws of this country and emulate true Canadian citizenship.

Do we ever stop to think what a wonderful inheritance the Giver of All Good has bestowed upon the people of Canada? Let us visualize the vastness and the richness of this Canada of our. We see a country stretching from the rockbound coast of the Atlantic 3,500 miles to the green-clad hills and golden shores of the Pacific; from the northern boundary of the United States, 1,200 miles to the Hudson Bay and the Arctic Ocean; a country larger than the United States and Alaska combined. Of the total area of the great British Commonwealth of Nations, Canada forms one eighth; it is 30 times larger than the British Isles, 18 times larger than France or Germany, twice the size of British India and 33 times larger than Italy. We have 19,800 miles of coast line and 436,663 miles of public roads and highways. If it were only for the vastness of this great country might we not well be pardoned if we threw out our chests and told the world that we were Canadians.

Having bestowed this great country on us the Almighty did not stop there, for he has enriched it both upon its surface and within its bowels. Upon its surface we have 1,152,000 square miles of timber lands, the third largest in the world; 358,162,000 acres of land fit for tilling and up to the present time we have only explored about one third of this great storehouse of wealth. If we liken Canada to a great storehouse, with all this wealth upon, as it were, the ground floor, let us journey to the basement and see waht he has stored up there for our use. In one corner we see 90% of the world's supply of asbestos; in another corner 75% of the world's supply of nickel, over there 50% of all the cobalt and spread over that great underground storehouse we see gold, silver, iron, copper, zinc and almost every other known metal to a value which we can only dream of. All this for the Canadian people. On the entire coast line of North America there are but two coal fields, both in Canada. The one in Nova Scotia with an estimated future reserve of 2300 million tons while the one in British Columbia is estimated to contain 25,000 million tons. These with our great coal fields in Alberta, Saskatchewan and other districts of Canada give us a total reserve of coal estimated at 686 billion of tons. Add to this our furs and our fisheries and we have a heritage fit for a chosen people. Our annual income from this wonderful heritage is, $30,840,000,000, without including our undeveloped and unexplored resources and we have in our banks and trust companies cash of over $2,000,000,000.

As a nation, according to population, we stand 27th, but in per capita trade we stand 2nd.

We are first in nickel, asbestos, cobalt, wheat exporters; second in gold and automobile production; third in silver and aluminum; fourth in lead and copper, and fifth in zinc. In the face of all these facts do you not think, as I do, that we are citizens of no mean country.

That the people of Canada were not lacking in loyalty was fully demonstrated during the Great War. Canada sent overseas 592,572 men, the very cream of our manhood, to fight and uphold our great British ideal. Of this number 215,165 were casualties and 62,723 made the supreme sacrifice.

Canada subscribed for Red Cross purposes $8,000,000, for supplies for the men $13,000,000, war loans and victory bonds $90,000,000.

There is a belief amongst certain classes of our citizens that when our loved ones pass to the Great Beyond they remain near and watch over us. If that is true what will those 62,723 martyrs, who ploughed through the muddy fields of France and Flanders, who climbed the hill of Calvary and made the supreme sacrifice, what will they see? Will they see a people who are upholding those grand principles for which they gave their lives or will they see a people who are battering away our wonderful heritage? Will they see a people who are building a mighty nation upon the foundation stones of Truth, Honor and Goodness, or will they see a people who are dragging their national principles through the muddy waters of disloyalty and dishonesty? Each one of us by our lives, and our actions is giving the answer to these questions.

In this Province, we have over 100,000 Masons. What an army to turn loose against every evil which might assail our country. As a nation or as an individual it does not matter what success we may attain, financially or commercially; what you may accomplish for the health and social condition of the community, if you are not able to protect the lives and the property of the people, if it is unsafe for your wife or your child to walk the streets or live in peace in their home, then your whole system of government is a failure.

We have in Canada to-day an irresponsable, disloyal, atheistic body of people, practically all foreigners, who would tear down and destroy present day civilization. They have no respect for British institutions. The corner our government does something to rid Canada of these dangerous lunatics the better it will be for the peace and happiness of our people and for law and order.

Are we going to sit back and be derelict in our duties as Canadians and Masons and allow organizations which are diametrically opposed to everything that is British, organize and spread their destructive doctrines amongst the rising generation of Canada? We have opened our gates to the oppressed people of the world and how have they repaid us? Have they shown any sense of appreciation of British Justice or Canadian citizenship? Rather are they not snapping at the hand which befriended and welcomed them to this country? What are we doing to prevent this ungrateful mob from destroying everything that we hold dear? They scoff at religion and teach their children that there is no God and that our standard of morality and government is something to be held up to scorn. Freedom to them means license.

I spoke to you on the heroes of war, we honor them and rightly so. But do we ever think of those great heroes of civil life, our forefathers, who slaved and gave previous year of their lives, that they might prepare and hand down to us this great heritage, Canada. Everett Hales put it in these words:

What is his name? I do not know his name;
I only know he heard God's voice and came.
Brought all he had from o'er the sea
To work and slave for God and me.
Felled the ungracious oak,
Dragged from the soil with horrid toil
The thrice gnarled root and stubborn rock;
With plenty piled the rugged mountain side,
And in the end without memorial died.
No blaring trumpets sounded forth his fame.
What is his name? I do not know his name;
No form of bronze and no memorial stone.
Show me the place where lie his mouldering bones.
Only a cheerful city stands, builded by his hardened hands,
Only ten thousand happy homes,
Where all the day the children play,
With love and hope and courage still.
These are his monuments and these alone.
No form of bronze and no memorial stone.

Each age is guardian of the present and trustees of the future and it therefore falls upon us, as citizens, to guide the destiny of Canada; to steer the bark of state through smooth and rough times that in the end we may hand over Canada to our children pure and unimpaired.

The children of to-day will be the men and women of tomorrow and what are we doing to prepare them for their task in the government of this great land? Are we showing them the proper example in all that goes to make good citizenship? Are we setting them the proper example in those things which make for the good and welfare of our country? The child likes to imitate the grown-ups and we must so guide them that in the end they may become Godfearing, lawabiding citizens of the greater Canada that is to be.

What is your answer going to be? The governments may appoint their Crime Commissions, society may create their Social Service workers, Big Brothers and Big Sisters, and dozens of other organizations for the betterment of society, but they are all doomed to failure if the public do not assume their share in the government of the country. That duty they must not delegate to some one else.

Let us as men and Masons hold before the eyes of our fellow citizens the principles of Masonry which teach us to be loyal to our country. May we battle those who would oppose everything that we Britishers hold dear? That is the task I would like to put up to every decent citizen of this country. Either we are going to assist in making this country a land to be desired by every decent, law-abiding stranger who come within our gate and a land to be shunned by every person who will not live and and abide by our laws, or, by our own actions we are going to make this country the dwelling-place of every disloyal, criminal and destructive organization or person who may wish to find a haven from justice.

May we uphold our great British institutions and by our own acts set an example for others to emulate. Finally may I quote the prayer of the President of the Chief Constable's Association when opening a convention a few years ago, "May the Almighty direct and guide the people of Canada to observe the moral law of peace which is written in our hearts and may the law of Righteousness co-operate with our civil law to drive out that which destroys and despoils, that breaks up our homes and breaks our hearts. May the Great Architect of the Universe direct and guide us in upholding the laws of our country, that we may give to the people of our land a protection that rightly belongs to them." Then, and then only, will we merit this great inheritance which God has given into our keeping.

Finally, my brethern, may we so mould our minds and direct our thoughts that we may be found worthy of a place in the vanguard of all that is right and good. Let us examine anything and everything from which we might extract a modicum of constructive thought to help us in our task. May we so fit ourselves that we may discern right from wrong and may we have the courage to champion the one and condemn the other.

Ouch!

"May I have the last dance with you?"

"You've had it."
