SOME FUTURE DAY

Some future day when what is now is not,
When all old faults and follies are forgot,
And thoughts of difference passed like dreams away,
We'll meet again upon some future day.

When all that faltered, all that vexed our love,
As tall rank weeds will climb the blade above,
When all but it has yielded to decay,
We'll meet again upon some future day.

With happier mood and feelings born anew,
Our boyhood's bygone fancies we'll review,
Talk over old talks, play as we used to play,
And meet again on many a future day.

Some day, which oft our hearts shall yearn to see,
In some far year, though distant yet to be,
Shall we indeed—ye winds and waters say!—
Meet yet again, upon some future day?

—A. H. Clough

Georgetown Centennial
Old Home Week

And High School Reunion, an Event Long to be Remembered—Hundreds of Visitors and Friends Enjoy Splendid Program Provided by Centennial Committee.—Sunday Service a Fitting Climax, Attended by Several Hundred People.

The hundredth milestone in the history of Georgetown has been passed and the Good Old Town emerges from the century gone of the best in the Dominion.

The event was duly celebrated on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, last, when hundreds of the Old Boys and Girls returned to the home of their childhood to enjoy the magnificent Centennial and Old Home Week program provided for the occasion.

Many happy memories of bye-gone days were refreshed, and fitting tribute paid to the loyal pioneers, who amid trials and difficulties cleared the forests and laid the foundation of this splendid town of industry and homes for a happy prosperous and contented people, where the religious and educational features are ever maintained as essential to the future welfare of the town and community.

It was also the occasion of the fifty-first anniversary of the opening of our High School and the happy reunion of representatives of fifty-two classes proved a most enjoyable feature of the old home week.

The Home Week activities were dedicated in all reverence to the memory of the sturdy pioneers of Esquesing and Georgetown; to whose vision, loyalty and courage we owe so much of what we have and are.

To our fathers, our mothers, and other loved ones, who built on the foundation laid by the pioneers, and who, labouring in many fields, never lost their ideals of good citizenship, and never ceased in their endeavor to make the community a better one for their children.

To the Old Boys and Girls returning home after many years, with the conviction that their coming would gladden many hearts and brighten many eyes, and be mutually profitable to all imbued with the spirit of the Centennial.

To the old School on the Hill, celebrating this year her semi-centennial, the Alma Mater of hundreds of loyal alumni and alumnae, who gathered this year to pay homage to a great institution.

To the young people of the High School and Georgetown and the Township, struggling to keep their balance in a world of changing values, and political and economic unrest, with the faith that they will find the right solution, and measure up to the standards of the men and women in whose honour these celebrations are held.

The program opened on Thursday evening with a grand centennial ball held in the Armories, which were beautifully decorated for the occasion with flags, bunting, evergreens and flowers. Excellent music was supplied during the evening by Lehman's Orchestra of Oakville and Georgetown Pipe Band. The hostesses were Mrs. James Ballantine, Mrs. Joseph Gibbons, Mrs. J. M. Moore, Mrs. L. E. Fleck, Mrs. Wm. Long, Mrs. J. B. Mackenzie.

On Friday afternoon the High School reunion took place at the school grounds when there was a large attendance of former students and friends.

The old bell rang and many students of bygone years, some of them grandfathers and grandmothers now, assembled in their classes. The stern discipline of former days was replaced by hearty hand shakes and cheery greetings. And with it all there was a note of sadness when memory recalled the faces of those who had passed over the great divide in the intervening years.

From the school the gathering returned to the spacious and beautifully shaded lawn to mingle in social intercourse and listen to short addresses of welcome and pertaining to the history and achievements of the school.

Mayor Joseph Gibbons, on behalf of the citizens and members of Council, welcomed the Old Boys and Girls and wished them all an enjoyable visit to the old school and town.

Dr. F. R. Watson, Chairman of the High School Board addressed the gathering as follows:—

Ladies and Gentlemen — friends of past days and today—we are glad so many have come from far and near to our re-union on this 51st Anniversary of the opening of Georgetown High School.

We come with a feeling of indebtedness to the Founders, the men who planned and worked in the face of much opposition; down thru the years many have served faithfully. In this connection I present to you the members of our present Board: R. B. Poulis, John Bingham, W. V. Grant, C. B. Dayfoot, Rev. W. G. O. Thompson with W. T. Evans, secretary.

We also owe a great debt to our teachers. How seldom we express to them the measure of thankfulness we owe.

Our school has carried a good record thru the years and this year the reports are very gratifying. May I introduce our staff: Mr. Lambert, Miss Penson, Miss Inman, Miss Luke, Miss Thompson, Miss Pait and Mr. Heidman.

Then too we all owe a great deal to our associates. How helpful many of them have been.

Now, how have we all come back and why? It seems to me that in a measure we come back to our pure primitiveness of what we are and not of what we have. We are here to be ourselves, with those who know us best, and those we know best.

Looking back to the days when we needed some one to believe in us, spoken or sensed; but realised, whether of goodness or kindness, or of tried friendship. Many will look in vain for some they would fain meet again, "for some they have gone and some they have departed," and we remember them gratefully today. But we are back with the familiar faces of ten, twenty, thirty years ago—teachers and classmates. We have letters from many regretting their inability to be here today and expressing ever measure of citizenship you owe to the old school.

Well, here we are, and how glad to meet again. You have come to us, and we are thankful for you; and we, none the less, have come to you and our welcome to you and yours, is full and complete.

Looking forward from here today, you have a work to do—and what ever measure of citizenship you owe to the state, the Empire and the world; so, this to you—a wish, a hope, a trust, that in all your activities your decisions, your work and your associations you may know and have the power of an endless life. God bless you everyone."

Other speakers were: Colonel James Ballantine, Rev. A. B. Higginson, Hamilton; Mr. Ralph Ross.

A delicious luncheon was served at the close of the program and the event passed into history, but there will linger many happy memories of the meetings and greetings on the occasion of this fifty-first anniversary of Georgetown High School.

On Friday evening the Centennial banquet was held in the Armories, when over five hundred sat down to a magnificent spread provided by the ladies of the Presbyterian, United, and Holy Cross churches, after grace had been spoken by Rev. W. G. O. Thompson.

The tables were nicely decorated with flowers, the menu was excellent and the service all that could be desired. And let us just say here that Georgetown ladies are second to none when it comes to providing for a banquet.

The guests were extended a cordial welcome by Mayor Gibbons and Colonel James Ballantine, Chairman of the Centennial Committee. The toast to the King was proposed by Mayor Gibbons and responded to by singing the National Anthem. Music was provided by the Lorne Scots Band and the Georgetown Pipe Band.

After the banquet a most gorgeous musical pageant was given in the Park by the following bands:—

Royal Hamilton Light Infantry Band.
Lorne Scots Band, Georgetown.
Acton Citizens' Band.
Brampton Citizens' Band.
Fergus Citizens' Band.
Georgetown Pipe Band.
Guelph Pipe Band.
Alton Pife and Drum Band.
Glen Williams Pife and Drum Band.
Guelph Trumpeters.
Campbell's Cross Girl's Pife and Drum Band.

The pageant episodes presented under the light of flares and torches were as follows:—

1—The British Flag. To the United Empire Loyalists. "Blue Bonnets Over the Border"—Georgetown Pipe Band.

2—To the Settlers of Glen Williams. "Men of Harlech."—Alton Pife and Drum Band.

3—Pioneers of Norval. McNabb's Gathering. "Wi a Hundred Pipers."—Georgetown Pipe Band.

4—To Esquesing and the Scotch Block. "Lass o' Gowrie"—Band of R. H. L. I.

5—To Pioneers of Georgetown. "Scotland the Brave"—Fergus Band.

6—To Acton on the Mountain. "Mountain Rose"—Band of R. H. L. I.

7—Fanfare Trumpets. Accession of Victoria Regina. "United Empire"—Lorne Scots Band.

8—Bugles, assembly, roll of drums. To the Boys of 1866. Fenian Raid. "Minstrel Boy" is away to War"—Pife and Drum Band.

9—Confederation 1867. "The Maple Leaf Forever"—Acton Citizens' Band.

10—Bugles, assembly, roll of drums. To the Men of 1885. "British Grenadiers"—Alton Pife and Drum Band.

11—The Gay Nineties. To Georgetown Old Boys and Girls. "Boys of the Old Brigade"—Lorne Scots Band.

12—1899, Boer War. Bugle, assembly, rolls of drums. "Soldiers of the Queen."—Fergus Band.

13—Fanfare of trumpets. Accession of Edward VII. "Land of Hope and Glory"—Band of R. H. L. I.

14—Fanfare Trumpets. Accession George V. "United Empire"—Brampton Band.

15—Bugles, assembly, roll of drums. 1914 "Tipperary"—Acton Citizens' Band.

16—1918 "Colonel Bogie"—Fergus Band.

17—Fanfare trumpets. Accession Edward VIII. "United Empire"—Brampton Band.

18—The Lorne Scots. "John Peel"—Lorne Scots Band.

19—Accession of George VI. "O Canada"—Brampton and massed bands.

A number of old time songs, including "When You and I were Young Maggie," "Silver Threads among the Gold," "Old Ireland," etc were rendered by the bands during the evening.

In the grand finale the massed bands played "O Canada," "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem.

A beautiful display of fireworks brought to a close a most enjoyable day spent in greetings, reminiscences, feasting and music in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the town we all love to call home—Georgetown.

Saturday was spent by most of the old boys and girls in roaming around old haunts, visiting friends and at the lacrosse and baseball games in the Park in the afternoon.

A very fitting climax to this great and memorable event in the history of our town was the union church service in the Armories on Sunday evening, in which all denominations in the town took part.

Music at the service, which was attended by several hundred people, was provided by Toronto Police Choir under the leadership of Mr. Williams, with Mrs. Williams presiding at the piano, and The Lorne Scots Band of Georgetown.

Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, M.A., D.D., of Port Colborne, an old Georgetown boy presided. Rev. D. D. Davidson, M.A. read the scripture lesson, Rev. F. H. Wise of Guelph led in prayer, and Rev. D. A. Moir, B.A., B.D., of Hamilton preached the sermon.

Greetings from the churches of Georgetown to returned Old Boys and Girls were conveyed by Rev. F. C. Overend, B.A., chairman of the Ministerial committee.

The theme of the service was thankfulness to God for his goodness to us as individuals and as a community in the years gone by and seeking his guidance and care in the years to come.

Ministers present at the service besides those already mentioned were: Rev. Mr. McAlpine, Brampton; Rev. Mr. Roadhouse, Brantford; Rev. W. G. O. Thompson, and Rev. K. G. Baxter. Rev. Father McBride expressed his regrets that he was unable to be present.

SIZE OF DAIRY HERD TO KEEP

To Prove Most Profitable on Average Farm

The question is often asked as to the size of a dairy herd likely to prove the most profitable on the average farm.

The profit in milking cows lies mainly in the selection from, and in the breeding of high-producing, pure-bred dairy stock. Good cows are seldom bought, but they can be raised. This means beginning with a pure-bred sire with either the cows one already has or with young heifers selected from practical, pure-bred herds.

The size of the herd should be determined by the amount of pasture land that is available, the possibility of growing the bulk of other feeds necessary, can be cared for without the employment of additional regular labor, or without requiring added buildings.

A group of fewer than five cows is unprofitable because it requires too long to fill the cream can, does not easily justify buying a separator and demands approximately the same amount of labor and barn room as a larger number of cows. A herd of more than ten cows per family demands further employment and assistance, and more buildings on the average farm.

Scotch Celebration

At breakfast a Scot suddenly exclaimed in horror, "Jean, Jean! Can I believe my own eyes? Sich extravagance I never saw in a' my life!"

"Hoots, Jock, what's the matter?" asked Jean.

"Two pinches of salt on yon Jamie's porridge!"

"Well, never mind. Ha'e ye forgotten it's his birthday?"

JEAN HARLOW, FRIEND OF ANIMALS

Among the many who mourned deeply the passing of the much loved and publicized movie star, Jean Harlow, no one was more bereft than the numerous pets she cared for in her beautiful home. Gone are their happy days when the lovely Jean frolicked with them and fed them in her idle moments. They will find other homes, no doubt, but will their new owners possess that great love and understanding of animals that we know was one of the high marks of Jean Harlow's character?

Of all the information found in the press when Jean Harlow left this world, nothing appealed to the imagination more than the story of her liking for animals, which revealed her in a new light. She was not a hard glittering creature that cared only for public admiration. Her deepest interests were in her home, her mother, and in the many pets that made her surroundings so livable. She was a true child at heart, and possessed in a large degree than universal love, a regard for dumb creatures, that links high and low.

It is said that at the time of her death her home housed a small menagerie, and though one may think that it was kept for show, we know that this was not the case, for Jean Harlow was the type of person who would find something lacking in her surroundings if there were not animals and birds about to create a natural homelike scene.

This love for dumb creatures was not a new found thing that came to her with fame. From her earliest days she was surrounded by pets. Her grandparents, who had charge of her childhood years, wisely saw to it that she had an assortment of animals for playmates. There were ducks, cats, dogs, a pony, and horses, to help her pass the time. She once said, I was wild about ducks as a child. I had twenty-three of them. Then one night someone broke into the coop and stole all of them. I was heart-broken for the longest time." Through her contact with animals in her childhood, she grew to love dumb creatures, to understand them, and to seek solace in their company after weary days at the studio, and this love lasted throughout her life.

In later years she was especially fond of dogs and cats, great Danes and fragile Persians. She liked people to be interested in her pets. She wrote to a correspondent once that he made her very happy when he asked about her kitten. "How could one help loving such a precious little creature like that?" she questioned.

Jean Harlow's love for animals was not the passive kind. She was ever ready to fight for them. Friends tell of the occasion when she took the lead in organizing a group of residents in her community for the purpose of hunting down the cruel person who had gone on an inhuman rampage and poisoned hundreds of fine dogs.

Likely there will be memorials to the memory of Jean Harlow. I hope some wise person will think to perpetuate her name in a worthwhile work of mercy for the dumb creatures she loved so much. She would have liked nothing better, I am sure. There are many ways in which animals can be benefited. Humane Societies need endowments, animal hospitals are too few, and funds to see that humane laws are passed and observed are necessary. In some such good work the memory of the vivacious Jean Harlow would live for years to come, and her short life would not have been in vain, for the dumb creatures whom she loved so much would gain a thousandfold.—By Ella McElligott, in Our Dumb Animals.

BALLINAFAD

Another milestone has passed in the life of Ballinafad's oldest resident, Mrs. Agnes Young, who celebrated her one hundred and fifth birthday, Wednesday, Sept. 1st. Mrs. Young was unable to receive any visitors, as she has been confined to her bed since an attack of influenza last spring. Friends and relatives from near and distant points called to offer congratulations. The following address and beautiful boquet of gladiolus was presented to Mrs. Young by Mr. D. J. Sinclair on behalf of the congregation of the United Church:

Mrs. James Young, Ballinafad.

Dear Mrs. Young: On this occasion of your one hundredth and fifth birthday, the congregation of the United Church of Ballinafad desire to convey to you this expression of our esteem and affection. We congratulate you most heartily on having attained so wonderful an age. As the years have come and gone you have endured their corroding power and have gathered from them much of the health, happiness and joy they were able to bestow. May you this day be comforted and blessed by the memories of a life well lived and spent so freely in loving service, and may you experience to the fullest measure the comforting, protecting care and guidance of the Good Shepherd. May goodness and mercy follow you all the days of your life and forever.

The Lord bless thee and keep thee; The Lord made his face to shine upon thee; the Lord lift up His Countenance upon thee and give thee peace.

Signed on behalf of the congregation: A. O. W. Foreman, Minister; C. Beswick, secretary.

A pleasant reunion was held Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 1st, when Mr. E. Beswick of Acton and Mr. G. Beswick of Orangeville, twin brothers celebrated their 84th birthday. Friends from Ballinafad including their Sister, Mrs. M. Hilts and Miss B. Hilts, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hilts and Muriel, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allan and Reta, Mr. and Mrs. A. White, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Wane and family, all motored to Orangeville and enjoyed a picnic lunch at noon, after which a pleasant social afternoon was spent together.

A young people's meeting was held Sunday evening, when Rev. A. O. W. Foreman conducted the first in the series of classes. The subject being "The Teaching of Jesus in the Light of Today."

Mr. Fred Hayns of Guelph spent the week end with Mr. Alex. McKay.

Misses Phyllis and Anna Foreman spent the week end on a boat trip to Sault Ste. Marie.
