Two Acton Men Killed by Lightning

J. Robertson and C. Fennell Lose Lives in Electrical Storm

John Robertson, well-known farmer and drover of the Acton district, and his hired man, Chris. Fennell, both lost their lives yesterday morning when they were struck by lightning.

The men were in the field cutting oats when an electrical storm came up rather suddenly. They took shelter under some trees in the field nearby. Mrs. Robertson became anxious when the men did not come to the house after the rain was over and had a neighbor go out in search of them. The bodies were found under the tree and it was apparent they had been instantly killed.

Dr. E. J. Nelson, Coroner, was called to the farm, but found the men had died instantly. There will be no inquest. Robertson is survived by his widow and five children. Fennell, about 35 years old, was unmarried.

T. W. Henderson Weds Stella Evelyn Bunt

Rev. R. J. Erwin performed the marriage ceremony when Stella Evelyn Bunt, niece of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wood, became the bride of Thomas W. Henderson, son of Mrs. Murray Henderson and the late John Henderson. Donlands Avenue United Church, Toronto was the setting, with delphiniums and summer flowers forming a colorful background. Miss Mary Hill presided at the organ, and while the register was being signed the church organist played "Still is the Night." Ralph M. Hutt gave his sister in marriage, the latter attired in white silk net, and hat of white tulle and orange blossoms. She carried a cascade of butterfly roses and lily-of-the-valley. Mrs. James Price, her sister, attended her as matron of honor, wearing a frock of floral chiffon and matching Milan straw hat. The best man was Mr. John P. Brown, and the ushers, Mr. Karl Doubt and Mr. Murray Henderson. Afterwards a reception took place in the Guild of All Arts, where the bride's aunt received, wearing brown and white printed silk with with accessores and corsage of talisman roses. The groom's mother, who also received wore a gown of black silk lace with hat to match. Her flowers were a corsage of premier roses. Later the happy couple left on a trip to the Adirondacks, the bride travelling in a coral knitted suit with hat to match and beige accessories. After their return they will reside in Bimcoe.

THOS. J. HILL DIES AT GLEN WILLIAMS

BORN IN BRAMPTON—WAS NOTED SPORTSMAN

The death occurred in Glen Williams on Monday, July 22nd of Thomas Jefferson Hill, in his 79th year. Mr. Hill had been confined to his room for a number of years due to a fractured hip, but last Thursday suffered a stroke and passed away early Monday morning. Deceased was born in Brampton, but spent his younger days in Toronto, later coming to Glen Williams in 1907.

When a young man Mr. Hill was a noted athlete and sportsman, much interested in horse-racing and baseball. He was a member of the Masonic Order, Knights of Pythias and the Orange Order. In politics he was a Conservative.

Although not being able to take an active part in the life of the community for a number of years, he was always interested in its welfare and his unassuming manner and heightorty spirit made many friends for him. Mr. Hill was twice married, his first wife predeceasing him in 1912. In 1916 he married Gertrude Hewitt, who with two sons, Thomas J. and Irvine of Glen Williams remain to mourn the loss of a beloved husband and father. One brother, Frederick Hill of Toronto, also survives.

The funeral took place this afternoon to Glen Williams cemetery, Rev. W. O. O. Thompson of St. Alban's Anglican Church in charge of the service. There were many beautiful floral tributes which bespoke of the esteem in which Mr. Hill was held.

FARMERS URGED NOT TO STORE WET HAY

BY FIRE MARSHAL'S OFFICE

If you put wet hay in a barn, the Fire Marshal's office told Ontario farmers yesterday, look out for spontaneous combustion.

The advice was sent out from Queen's Park while rain wetted down what are described as heavy hay and grain crops. To offset the annual toll of spontaneous combustion fires the Provincial authorities have worked out a prevention program.

Spontaneous combustion, they say, can never occur in dry, well-cured hay or grain. But wet or damp pockets in a mow are very dangerous. Farmers are warned to not fall in the error of assuming that only one load or less of wet hay will not do damage.

Fire may break out in a few days, but generally within four to six weeks, after the mow is filled, with the outside danger limit sometimes as high as several months. The first heating, the officials say, is due to fermentation, which develops rapidly when moisture is present. When the temperature rises to a certain point chemical reactions set in and the heat rapidly rises to a point where the hay or straw will ignite if the right amount of air get into the "hot spot."

Salt, the Fire Marshal's officers report, is a fermentation preventive, and retards the production of heat. The officers prescribe twenty pounds of salt for each load of mixed or clover hay, and ten pounds in timothy. The coarse hays are more hazardous, because their stems contain more sap than timothy.

To detect "hot spots" the use of metal rods is recommended. These are probed into the mow at various places. After five to twenty minutes the rods are examined for warmth.

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

A WEEKLY REVIEW OF NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, July 23.—Two political parties yet unborn in 1930 will appeal to the Canadian electors in the forthcoming campaign,—the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation (the C.C.F.) under the leadership of J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., and the Reconstruction Party under Hon. H. H. Stevens.

Both these parties have in the last few days issued election manifestoes or programs. These are too long even to summarize adequately in this weekly letter, but I am presenting here the main sentiments and promises on Canada's major public issues:

Capitalism—Must be abolished and replaced by a new social order—a planned and socialised economic order which will make possible the most efficient development of all our resources and the most equitable distribution of the national income (C. C.F.).—A change in the economic system is needed—the shattered national economy must be reconstructed (Stevens).

Public Works—Both parties come out in favor of extensive public works. The C.C.F. manifesto proposes a far-reaching program of public expenditure including housing, slum-clearances, hospitals, libraries, schools, community halls, park, recreation centres, reforestration projects rural electrification. The Stevens' party insists that all public works undertaken should be designed to serve public needs—wherever possible they should be self-sustaining. Specifically promised are: completion of the trans-Canada Highway, highways from southern boundary to national parks, development of tourist resources, country-wide reforestration, removal of level crossings, housing. The two programms are strikingly similar on this point.

Tariffs—The Stevens' party proposes to maintain the tariff to protect Canadian industrial workers and farmers from unfair competition in countries where the standards of living are lower than in Canada. However it promises lower agricultural implement duties and lower duties on all classes of primary textiles. The C.C.F. scorces both older parties, one for offering tariffs as a cure-all which failed, the other from vainly promising to lower tariffs. The C.C.F. does not in this manifesto make any promises one way or the other.

Concentration of Wealth—The C.C. F. manifesto says 'the essential task before us is to oust this arbitary irresponsible plutocracy from power.' The Stevens program proposes raising the taxation on higher incomes.

The Farmer—Mr. Stevens would create a Dominion Agricultural Board for the control and marketing under a democratic scheme of all agricultural products, the idea being to enable the farmer 'to successfully withstand the encroachments and competition of the large organized secondary interests. The C.C.F. says 'the farmer must be guaranteed an adequate minimum income as the first charge on his production.'

The Constitution—The C.C.F. says the amendment of the B.N.A. act is urgently necessary so as to give the national government adequate powers to deal effectively with economic problems which are essentially national in scope. The Stevens program calls first for full use of federal powers now existing before attempts are made to amend the constitution. Both parties would protect minority rights.

Finance—The Stevens party stands for nationalization of the central bank, and an investigation into social credit and other monetary proposals. The C.C.F. would socialize our banking and financial machinery, presumably the central bank along with the chartered banks and other institutions. The latter adds 'we cannot allow ourselves forever to be held in the gutter by these so-called sacred obligations to bondholders.'

Social Legislation—The C. C. F. stresses social insurance. Both advocate extension of existing labour legislation.

Attitude to Other Parties — The Stevens' platform asserts that the 'shibboleths and incantations of the old political parties will not rectify faulty engineering.' It does not mention C.C.F. The latter's manifesto scores Conservatives and Liberals alike in vigorous language and states that "the Stevens party presents a vote-catching program of superficial reforms."

The C.C.F. program contains a special plank on Peace, which is not mentioned in the Stevens manifesto.
