Kickboxing card returns Aug. 15

The inaugural Honour & Glory amateur kickboxing event at Georgetown's Mold-Masters SportsPlex last summer exceeded organizers expectations and the anticipation is building towards Part II here on Saturday, Aug. 15.

No fewer than 15 bouts have been scheduled for the evening, which is slated to begin at 5 p.m. in an exhibition of Muay Thai kickboxing that will include two Ontario title fights.

Approximately 600 spectators attended last year's competition in the Alcott Arena.

"People in Georgetown didn't know what to expect the first year, but now they know what it's all about and we're getting great response," said Kru Mike Large, co-owner of the host CircaFit Training Centre with his wife Celeste.

"Even from the fighters, they're excited about it. When we first put the word out, we had 82 fighters contact us to get on the card."

Sanctioned by the World Amateur Muay Thai Association of Canada, three CircaFit members, 20-year-old Austin Large, Austin Skelhorn and Zach Vandavelde are scheduled to appear on the card.

Georgetown Thai Cuisine will also add some spice to the event with authentic Thai food being served throughout the evening.

Tickets are $25 in advance or $35 at the door. They can be purchased prior to the event at CircaFit, 60 Armstrong Ave. in Georgetown. Call 416-455-5320 for more info.

Six medals for Boycott at L.A. World Games

Canadian athletes showed poise, grace and polish in the rhythmic gymnastics competition at last week's Special Olympics World Summer Games in Los Angeles with 16 medals earned and Halton Hills resident Emily Boycott collected six of her own.

The 32-year-old will return home with two gold medals and four silvers from last week's events, which included a runner-up finish with three of her Canuck teammates in the group ball routine.

Boycott, who trains with the Oakville Butterflies' Gymnastics Club, competed in the Level 4 category alongside Christina Judd-Campbell of the Ottawa area, who won four rhythmic gymnastics gold medals. Emily's mother Debbie served as head coach for Team Canada's rhythmic gymnasts in Los Angeles.

With her medal haul again in Los Angeles, Boycott now has 15 Special Olympics keepsakes in the past three Summer Games. She scored five golds in 2007 in Beijing, China and added a gold, two silvers and a bronze at the 2011 global event in Athens, Greece.

Emily Boycott of Action made her third appearance at a Special Olympics World Summer Games another thrilling accomplishment as she collected two gold medals and three silvers in rhythmic gymnastics, bringing her career total to 14 on the global stage representing Team Canada.
