Narrow win

The Acton Nellis construction Novices picked up a paitr of points in Elora last Sunday, but it didn't come easily.Acton escaped with a 2-1 Tri-county Harrison division win, outshooting their hosts 33-8. Acton netminder Jason Strong preserved the win stopping a penalty shot in the final frame. Mike Dube and Jon Newby scored for the Nellis crew.

Local teams host events

Tourney time for hockey squads

For all you die-hard hockey fans out there with a little spare time this holiday season, the Halton Hills community will be featuring a host of local tournaments sure to be filled with some great ice action.

Midget tourney

The 27th annual Georgetown Midget Hockey Tournament gets underway next Sunday, January 2 and runs until the following Sunday, January 9 at Gordon Alcott Memorial Arena in Georgetown.

This tournament is one of the highlights of the hockey season in Halton Hills and promises to include some very competitive hockey as 18 teams battle it out for top honors.

This year's tournament will be All-Ontario. Among the dozen "AA" teams included in the event are: Newmarket, Milton, Streetsville, Hillcrest Summits, Parry Sound, Aurora, Thornhill Island, Burlington, Vaughan, Toronto East Enders, the Acton Sabres and the Georgetown Raiders.

Six "AAA" teams will also be part of the action. They are York-Simcoe Express, Oakville, Guelph, Chinguacousy, Don Mills Flyers and the Halton Hills Hurricanes.

The Georgetown host squad will play January 2 at 1 p.m. against Thornhill, January 4 at 7:30 p.m. against Aurora and January 7 at 9 p.m. against Parry Sound.

Playoff action will be Sunday, January 9 with the "AA" finals being held at 8 p.m.

Host team head coach Gary McFadyen says his team has been struggling lately but that they have played solid hockey all season and are looking forward to the tournament.

Novice event

The Acton Community Centre will also be busy with hockey action early next week with both the Acton Novice and Atom Tournaments taking place.

On Monday (December 27), the eight and nine-year-olds from Acton and surrounding communities will take to the ice for a one-day tournament featuring eight novice squads.

This local tournament has been going strong for more than 10 years and this season, will include teams from Arthur, Georgetown, Milton, Tottenham, Caledonia, King City, Haliburton and Acton battling it out for top honors.

Each of the eight teams will be guaranteed two games with the two top teams vying for top place in the championship round. There will also be a consolation final match-up.

As a special feature, a mid-day shoot out will take place between the different clubs.

Awards will be presented to the top shooter and top goalie.

The Acton novice squad will play at 8 a.m. against Tottenham and then at either 1 or 2 p.m. depending on how they fair in their first game. Georgetown's first match will be at 10 a.m. against Caledonia.

Going into competition for the local Acton Nellis Construction Novice Sabres will be: Max Schaefer, Jason Strong, Shawn Prentice, Nick Mastro, Sean Kirk, Mike Dube, David Lyons, Andrew Pembleton, Jon Newby, Chris Jowett, Steve Atkinson, Michael McDonald, Adam Brouillard, John Field, Mark Pawlak and Matt Wolfer.

Atom action

The following day (Tuesday, December 28), the 10 and 11-year-old Atoms take over with the annual Acton Atom Tournament, which will include six teams.

These teams will include Acton, Pelham, Embro, Georgetown, Guelph and the Acton Atom house-league select crew.

Each team is guaranteed two games with the championship match-up deciding the winners.

The atom tournament will also include a noon-hour shootout with awards presented to the top shooter and puckstopper.

The tournament is being run by chairman Sid Barens.

"The two top teams will be decided on a point system," explained Barens.

Host team head coach Peter Cargill's squad will play at 8 a.m. against Guelph and 11 a.m. against Pelham in preliminary round-robin action.

The Georgetown Sunny Acres Farm Midgets will tangle with some of the best teams in the province when they host the annual Georgetown Minor Hockey Midget Tourney from January 2 to 9. Georgetown opens the competition on January 2 at 1 p.m. against Thornhill.

The Acton Nellis Construction Novices will square off against Tottenham at the annual Acton Novice Tourney on Monday, December 27. Georgetown will also compete for championship honors.

The Acton Atoms will square off against Guelph in the opening game of their tourney on Tuesday, December 28 at 8 a.m. Six teams will take part in the competition.

Have A Wonderful Holiday Season!
