

STAY SAFE: Very little is as satisfying as gripping your chainsaw with its razor-sharp teeth, powerful engine and ripping through a project. But chainsaws are powerful machines that need to be respected or operators may sustain unexpected injuries. • Refresh your memory: If your saw is new or you have not used it in a few years, make sure you give yourself a quick refresher course. • Wear protective gear: Make sure you are wearing a helmet, ear protection, gloves, goggles, chaps and protective shoes. • Keep the chain sharp: A dull chain is unsafe and hard on both the bar and chain and overworks you and your saw.
