THE infant daughter of the Governor General was baptized on Monday at the Cathedral, Quebec, which was filled with a large and fashionable congregation. Those present at the font were lord Dufferin, the Countess, as proxy for Her Majesty the Queen, who graciously consented to be her godmother; Sir John A. Macdonald, K. C. B., godfather; Lady Harriet Fletcher, godmother; the Hon. Alexander Campbell, Colonel Fletcher, and Mr. Hamilton, A. D. C. Rev. G. V. Housman baptized the infant by the name of Victoria Alexandria Marie May, the two former after and by the express wish of Her Majesty. The Rev. C. W. Rawson assisted in the ceremony, which was witnessed with great interest by the immense assemblage. The font was beautifully decked with flowers, and was filled with water brought from the Jordan by Dr. Douglas and thoughtfully offered for the occasion. The choir sang appropriate hymns, and the organist played a choice selection as the distinguished party left the church.

ROBBERY.—While Messrs. Peaker & Runnians, hardware merchants, of Brampton were admiring Lent's circus procession, some thief stepped into their premises through the back door, and abstracted the cash box, containing about $60 in money and promissory notes to the amount of $600. During the day a party suspected of the theft was arrested and committed to gaol to wait his examination to-day. As none of the plunder was found on him, he will probably escape. The person arrested, together with two others, were evidently preparing to enter the office of Chisholm & Co., when they were discovered and frightened off. Two other arrests were made, and several confidence operators were taken charge of by the constables during the day, and freely expressed their disappointment at the town, which would not allow them to pursue any little game of pleasure.

Thirty invalids and discharged men of the Provincial battalion are returning from Fort Garry.

A fire at Uxbridge on Monday destroyed two acres of property before it could be extinguished. The town has no fire engine.

The Great Eastern is on her way to Sydney, Cape Breton, with a new submarine cable, starting as usual from Valencia, Ireland.

The Russian columns of the expedition against Khiva which started from Djusik and Kasalinsk, effected a junction at Goulant on 24th April. On the 27th of April a Khivan force attacked the Russian vanguard near Goulant, and a sharp engagement took place, during which two Russian colonels were killed. The Khivans were finally defeated and retreated precipitately. Later despatches from Central Asia state that the vanguard of the force marching against Khiva, under command of General Kaufman, reached the Amu Daria River on 11th May, where it met and put to flight a body of 3,500 Khivans, without losing a single man on the part of the Russians. After waiting until the 13th ult., by which time the remainder of his force came up, General Kaufman continued his march towards Schurkhane.

L'Erenement says that Riel is resolved to persist in his candidature for Provencher at all hazards. When people represent to him the danger to which he would expose himself by going to Ottawa, his reply uniformly is that it is absolutely necessary to get out of the important and abnormal condition in which he is at present, and that it is better to brave the danger just now than afterwards.

OSCAR II., crowned King of Sweden and also the Goths and Vandals," will embark at Trondjem in the St. Olaf frigate, the largest ship of the Norwegian navy, to visit North Cape, the most northerly point in Europe. No King has been there since Christian IV. of Denmark and and Norway, who was interested in building up trade and fisheries in that quarter 250 years ago. On the 18th of July King Oscar will receive the Norwegen crown at Trondjem.

THE details of another sudden death from an overdose of hydrate of chloral, occurring in London, were thus recorded by the Advertiser, which says:—Our citizens were startled yesterday morning by a report in circulation that a young man well known throughout the city by the name of "Tucker" Glackmeyer had been found dead in his bed. Rumour ascribed the sudden demise first to one thing and then to another, but it was not long before the terrible facts became fully know that the deceased had taken the night before an overdose of the narcotic poison known as hydrate of chloral, which soon produced sleep, a sleep which terminated in a very short time in death. The deceased obtained the poison on Saturday night at W. H. Robinson's drug store, but the exact quantity cannot be learned until Mr. Robinson, who prepared the mixture, returns to the city. It is supposed, however, that the bottle, afterwards found under the young man's pillow, contained one ounce of chloral and an ounce of water, when the dose would be about one teaspoonful every few hours until sleep was obtained. He, it seems, retired to his bed room somewhere near midnight, and shortly after one o'clock was found in his bed in an unconscious state, the bottle under his pillow empty. This leads to the belief that the mixture was all taken at a dose. Dr. Fraser was immediately sent for, but before his arrival the vital spark had left the body.—For several nights the deceased had been unable to obtain a proper share of sleep, and was in a very nervous condition.—It appears that he had been in the habit of using the mixture to overcome similar fits of sleeplessness, but in small doses; in fact, it is a very common thing now-a-days for nervous people to make use of it as a substitute for opium or other sleep-producing medicine, and by persons addicted to the use of stimulants. It is said that the rest it secures is exceedingly refreshing, and for this reason it is daily becoming more popular. But it is not always safe, as in many cases the system is unsuited for its absorption, when the results are almost certain to be of a fatal nature. It being quite evident in this case that no blame could be directly attached to anyone but the unfortunate deceased, who, probably unaware of the danger, swallowed the dose entire instead of in parts. No inquest is to be held, and the remains will be interred to-morrow in the Roman Catholic cemetery. As similar heartrending cases may occur every day, should not druggists be exceedingly careful to whom they give this dangerous medicine, and be sure that the purchasers understand its character and how it should be used?
