MILTON, NOV. 15th, 1883.

West Middlesex.

Mr. Johnson, Conservative ex-member for West Middlesex, was unseated on Saturday at the close of the trial, before Chancellor Boyd and Mr. Justice Cameron on the petition against his election. The evidence given in this case showed that an extraordinary amount of corruption has been practiced by Mr. Johnson's agents in the canvas, and threw a great deal of suspicion on himself; in fact so strong a case was made against him that he escaped disqualification only, as Chancellor Boyd expressed it, by being given "the benefit of the doubt."

REBUKED.

"Mr. Ross is one of those immaculate saints who are popularly supposed by the party to be capable of doing no wrong. He is the same chap who, while member of the Dominion Parliament, drew a good round salary from the Ontario Government as inspector of Model Schools for this province; and besides this the Mowat Government passed a special Act creating him barrister."—Halton News.

The paper which makes this sneering allusion professes to be the special champion of the cause of temperance and prohibition—of which Mr. Ross is at once the most able and honore l advocate in Canada. This fact does not prevent the News from attempting to blacken his character and impair his usefulness, a though it knows very well that nothing was proven against him at the trial, and that it was made perfectly clear that both Mr. Ross and his committee conducted the campaign with the strictest regard to electoral purity. The News is the same paper that has endeavored to excuse the rascalities of that arch hypocrite and swindler, D. B. Chisholm, of Hamilton. But Chisholm was a Conservative; Mr. Ross is not.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

JUST LIKE THEM.

The prohibitionists of Ontario have of late been giving proof of their enthusiasm in the cause of prohibition, and of the sincerity of the loud talk in which they are so proud to indulge. The following is the wail of their organ, the Hamilton Tribune:

"Temperance Sunday was a failure from a financial and even a moral point of view. But few ministers in Ontario preached temperance sermons on October 21, and still fewer had a collection taken up for the Dominion Alliance, as intended. If they did the amounts have not been forwarded. The cash value of the Temperance Sunday to the Ontario Alliance so far, has been $3 from all Ontario, and the expenditure in postage and communication—nothing ministers of the appointment, $40—deficit, $37. We have reason to believe that unless financial aid is speedily forthcoming the Ontario branch of the Alliance will cease its good work. The need of a strong provincial executive is necessary to any movement, and the demise of the Ontario Alliance would be a severe loss, as well as a lasting disgrace to the temperance movement of this Province. We hope our friends will see to it that the Alliance is provided with the necessary funds to continue its work of organization."

Prohibitionists as a rule are not any more liberal with their money than they are in their views, and we must confess that we are surprised at the wretched showing they have made in this matter. Perhaps, however, the exodus of D. B. Chisholm and the impoverishment by him of so many prohibitionists may account for it.

MR. DEXTER'S DAISIES.

How Two 'Informers' Have Done up Halton and Toronto.

They Scared a Big Step in Blackmail and Skip Out—A Detestable Business.

For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, commend The World to the last two whiskey informers employed by Licence Inspector Dexter. Those two worthies were named John Scott Holiday and James Kilfoyle, the latter from Ireland and the former form Uncle Sam's domains. They are now over in the latter country having a good time on the blackmail levied on the keepers of fast houses. Kilfoyle and his partner made a tour of these places as "agents" of Mr. Dexter, procured evidence against a few of them and then laid their plans to make them all come to time. On the day preceding the woman Ellis Wilson's trial, for selling liquor without a licence, Mr Dexter became suspicious that his agents were tempered with, and he caused their arrest as material witnesses. There was no difficulty in proving the charge the next morning, and the woman was fined.

The two whiskey agents then went to all the prominent keepers of disorderly houses and informed them that they would be summoned and convicted on their (the agents') evidence of liquor selling and other offences. So a collection was started among the inhabitants and a large sum raised. One keeper was bled to the tune of $30, another by $20 and so on. The money was handed over to the informers, and they quickly shipped by the light of the moon.

They played the very same racket in the county of Halton, only instead of females they had male victims to work on in the verdant precincts of the Scott Act county.

While they were in Halton Holiday took a trip to this city. Mr. Fenton and his men, like Inspector Dexter, became suspicious of their agents, and they sent a constable here to arrest Holiday as a material witness. But the latter was too quick and quietly left town. When the constable got back to the county he found Kilfoyle had also skipped.

The amount secured by the pair in Halton and this city is not much short of $300. Inspector Dexter has had a sad experience with his informers. The last pair—Tilley and Gordon—he had to prosecute for perjury after he had liberally supplied them with money to ferret out illicit liquor sellers.—World.

A Correction.

Mr. W H Young, Police Magistrate, informs us that he had nothing to do with the employment here of the Toronto whiskey detectives. We do not wonder that Mr. Young is desirous of keeping himself clear of the odium attached to bringing the professional perjurers and blackmailers here, and we willingly make this correction.

CONTRACTION of the cords of the arm unfitted Mr. C. Townshend, of Charlottetown, P. E. I., from business for several weeks. He obtained no relief from every remed that he could obtain until Dr. Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment came under notice, he tried it and was entirely cured.

Scott Act Trials.

The Scott Act cases which were adjourned until Friday last were adjourned again until Saturday, when the first called was one against

CHARLES STIBBS, for assaulting and intimidating, on Oct 25th, James Kilfoil, one of the whiskey detectives on whose information the charges on most of the cases were brought.

JOSEPH ROLLS sworn.—I was at the C. V. R. station when two men, said to be Halliday and Kilfoil, the whiskey detectives, were returning to Toronto; I had never seen the men before; I saw the defendant there; there was quite a crowd there; did not hear Stibbs say anything to the detectives; I went up to wait for the train, and was not taking any particular notice of what was said

Question—Did you hear defendant say anything in the presence of the two men concerning them?

Mr McGibbon, for defence, objected to this question on the ground that it was immaterial what was said in the detectives' presence if they did not hear it.

Witness resumed.—The parties were all scattered about the C. V. R. platform, and I could not say how far they were apart; I would not swear that I heard Mr. Stibbs make any remark concerning the detectives; there were a number of parties there; I did not pay particular attention to what was said.

Question by P. M.—Did you hear Stibbs say anything to anyone on that occasion?

Mr. McGibbon objected to the question.

Witness.—I heard Stibbs use no threats; I would not swear what he said; he was talking in the crowd; I was not near enough to hear what he said, though I could hear him talking; do not know what he was talking about.

WILMER CUMMER.—Know defendant by sight; saw the detectives and the defendant returning from the Court House on the 25th October; saw Stibbs talking with other parties, but could not hear what he said; he was walking behind the detectives and sometimes beside them when they left the Court House; thought I heard Stibbs ask them in a jeering way to come in and have dinner; he might have been very friendly, but did not act like it; did not hear Stibbs say anything to them excepting the invitation to dinner.

HUGH LAVERY.—Know defendant; was at the C. V. R. station on the occasion referred to; saw the detectives on the platform; defendant was quite near the younger man; did not hear Stibbs say anything to or about the detectives; saw no eggs thrown; there were a good many people on the platform; but did not take notice who they were, except that one was Jim Morley.

JOSEPH ROLLS, re-called.—Saw the bus driver, Detective Smith, the station-master and John Bell, the expressman on the platform.

JOHN C. BELL.—Was at the C. V. R. station on the 25th October; saw Stibbs; did not hear any conversation between him and the detectives; was there for all the trains; there were a number of persons on the platform; did not hear Stibbs speak.

J. J. TORRIE.—Was baggage master at the C. V. R. station on the 25th October; saw the detectives there; did not hear Stibbs say anything; saw no eggs thrown; saw Hugh Lavery J. C. Bell and Detective Smith there; do not know Joseph Turner or Moorehead

Case adjourned until Friday next.

Court resumed at 1 p. m., when the first case called was the adjourned charge against Peter M. Zimmerman, for the illegal sale of liquor on 12th October.

MELVILLE LONG.—Know defendant; was at his hotel on the day of the Nelson show; drank some pop there; drank once; don't think there was any intoxicating liquor in it; got it in the dining room; my brother paid for it there; it was white pop; Mrs. Flynn gave us the pop.

WILLIAM LONG.—Know defendant; was in his hotel on Nelson show day, and had some pop to drink; think there was no intoxicating liquor in it; either my brother or I paid for it.

R. B. ADAMS.—Was in defendant's hotel twice on Oct. 12th, and had a cigar, but nothing to drink; Mr. Zimmerman said that we couldn't get any liquor; he was tending bar; was in the bar only once; the bar-room door was open when I got the cigar.

GEORGE RICHARDSON.—Was in defendant's hotel on the day of the Nelson show but had nothing to drink there; saw no one drinking intoxicating liquor; was in the house three times; never got any intoxicating liquor in defendant's house since the Scott Act went into force.

SARAH FLYNN. Was in defendant's house on the day of the show; did not tend bar; sold no intoxicating liquor; sold nothing but cigars, pop and "Johnson Harrison's syrup;" there was no one behind the bar but the defendant.

JAMES DEVINE.—Am defendant's son-in-law; was in his hotel on the day o the Nelson show; did not tend bar; was chiefly in the hall, tending the dining-room door; had no intoxicating liquor to drink, and sold none.

Cross-examined.—Mr. Zimmerman was in the bar himself all day; the tickets for meals were sold there and it was also used for the storage of guests' buffalo robes. &c; when Mr. Zimmerman left the bar-room, as he did to go to the show grounds, he locked the door and took the key with him.

JAMES FLYNN.—Am defendant's son-in-law; was in his house on day of Nelson show; was not engaged in the bar-room; did not sell any intoxicating liquor that day, nor know of any being sold; had a drink in the house, but it was from the flask of a friend of mine who had got it elsewhere; was not in the bar-room in the afternoon.

Cross examined.—Mr. Zimmerman, so far as I know, and nobody else tended the bar all day, and his custom is to let no one but himself behind it; I was engaged during the day in checking buffalo robes, &c.

Case dismissed, and the Police Magistrate ordered that the witnesses should be allowed and paid fees.

GEORGE GIBBS was charged by Inspector Black with unlawfully selling intoxicating liquor on 11th August last.

DAVID BURBEE.—Know defendant; was in his hotel on 11th August last and had some strong beer to drink; could not say whether it was paid for; Mr. Clark brought it in; he treated; don't know where he got it.

Cross examined.—The beer was brought in in a tumblers by Mr. Clark, and both of us drank; I was working for Mr Kennedy, and am his hired man now; he did not ask me what I was going to swear to, nor did I tell him; Mr. Black and I had a conversation about the case a few nights ago; Mrs. Gibbs took the tumblers away after we had drank.

JAMES A. CLARK.—Could not say whether I was in the defendant's house with Burbee on the 11th of August, but remember that I was with him; remember treating; had a glass of cronk beer, and it is likely that I paid for it, but don't remember; the two glasses looked alike and were of the same color.

Cross-examined.—I ordered the drinks myself, telling Mrs. Gibbs to bring us some cronk, and I know that mine was what I ordered; have had no conversation with any person about what evidence I would give in this case; I have not the least idea whether I paid for the drinks or not; no one gave any order for the drinks to my knowledge except myself.

GEORGE BLACK went into the box and testified to the fact that the second part of the Canada Temperance Act was in force at the time of the alleged offence.

MRS. GIBBS.—Am the wife of the defendant; when Messrs. Clark and Burbee were in our house, the former asked for cronk beer, and I poured two glasses out of a cronk beer bottle which contained cronk and brought it in; don't remember whether Clark paid for it or not, but to the best of my knowledge he did not; am positive that the two glasses contained nothing but cronk.

The Magistrate reserved his decision.

Messrs. Elliott and McGibbon asked that the charges made on the information of Kilfoil and Holliday against John Wallace, David Dewar, Chas. Stibbs, Robt. Agnew, John Bennett Mrs. Bennett, Wm. Walsh, and John Doherty should be dismissed, the witnesses having left the country.

The Police Magistrate thereupon dismissed all the above charges.

GEORGE GIBBS pleaded not guilty to a second charge of unlawfully selling intoxicating liquor on the 29th September, and the case was proceeded with.

JOSEPH BARBER, sworn.—About six weeks ago I had a number of men threshing for me, and sent them to Gibbs' hotel for their meals; do not know whether they had anything to drink there or not, as I was not there.

DOUGLASS ROY.—I helped at Mr. Barber's threshing and had my meals at Gibbs' hotel on Sept. 28th and 29th; I had some beer on the 29th at dinner; it was handed to me by Mrs. Gibbs; think that most of the hands drank; it was before we went to dinner; there was no beer on the table; did not pay for it; don't know who paid for it; Mr. Gibbs said it was "a poor crop of wheat that couldn't afford beer for the men."

Cross-examined.—Work for Mr. Kennedy; had no conversation with him about this case until a few days ago; don't know how I came to be a witness; am sure that it was Mrs. Gibbs who gave me the beer.

DAVID BURBEE.—Was at Mr. Barber's threshing, and got a glass of beer from Mrs. Gibbs just before sitting down to dinner; don't know who paid for it.

Cross-examined.—Had no conversation with anyone about my evidence in this case

W. J. CLARK.—Was at Mr. Barber's threshing, and had beer; the beer belonged to me, having been given to me in a jug by Oliver McClellan, sewing machine agent; I put it in the cellar, and a few of us were taking a drink when the rest of the men came in and I let them all have some.

Cross examined.—Did not sell the beer, nor was any beer sold; did not see Mrs. Gibbs serving any of it out; all the beer that was drank belonged to me.

DOUGLAS ROY and DAVID BURBIE were re-called, and testified that they got no liquor while engaged at the threshing, except on the 29th September, and that Clark was present when they got it.

GEORGE BLACK testified that the second part of the Canada Temperance Act was in force at the time of the alleged offence.

GEORGE GIBBS.—The beer drank at my house on 29th September did not belong to me, and was not sold by me; in settling up with Mr. Barber for the men's meals the beer was not taken into consideration; it belonged to W. J. Clark; I handed round the beer to the men; I neither sold nor gave away any intoxicating liquor of my own on that day.

MRS. GIBBS.—Heard the evidence of the former witnesses; swear positively that I did not serve out or handle any of the beer in question; when I found the men drinking beer I enquired whose it was and was told that it belonged to one of the threshers. I then said, "Gentlemen, that is not our beer—we don't sell any.

The Police Magistrate reserved his decision.

JOSEPH TURNER was charged with unlawfully selling intoxicating liquor on 10th October last; but did not appear to answer the charge, and Inspector Frazer testified to having served the summons on him by leaving it at his father's house.

JOSEPH SMITH.—Know the defendant; was in his shop on Oct. 10th; got a drink of some kind of intoxicating liquor from a bottle; did not pay for it; did not ask for liquor; saw money in Mr. Minchin's hand; I was asked to drink by Mr. Minchin; defendant gave me the liquor.

CHARLES WILSON.—Was in defendant's shop, next Holbrake's store, on the show day got nothing to drink there nor anywhere else from the defendant.

The Police Magistrate reserved his decision on this case and adjourned the cases of intimidation against Joseph Turner, Charles Stibbs and James Moorhead, and that of illegal liquor selling against John P. Roper until to morrow, when they will be tried at 10 o'clock a. m.

Waterdown.

A grand shooting match was held here on Thanksgiving day by our sports. Dr. McGregor and Mr. T. Baker were captains. Each had twelve men on his side. Dr. McGregor's men were winners by 550 points.

On the Sunday Thanksgiving services were held in Nelson Presbyterian Church and at Waterdown. Services conducted in each case by Rev. W. Robertson, B. B., of Knox Church, Waterdown.

A number of our villagers attended the concert in Nelson on Tuesday evening and pronounced it a first-class entertainment. As a report of it will in all likelihood be given you, we need say no more.

The latest arrivals at the High School from Halton are Miss Harrison, Nelson, and Mr. J. Richardson, son of Dr. Richardson, Burlington.

At the last meeting of the Board of Education, the following range of salaries was adopted for the teaching staff of High and Public Schools here:

Mr. D. H. Hunter, B. A.,	Head Master	$1200
" W. T. Evans, B. A.,	Mathematical Master,	800
" W. N. Stevenson,	Pro. Cert.	500
Miss M. Fraser,	do.	250
" N. McInnis,	do.	225
" M. Cleaves,	do.	225

The Waterdown Lodge, A. F. & A. M. was officially visited by R. W. Bro J. M Gibson, L. L. B., D. D. G M., who found everything very satisfactory. The members of the lodge and visiting brethren partook of a very fine supper at Cook's Hotel, where, after satisfying the inner man, a very pleasant time was spent in speech making and song.

The shrill whistle of the wind, and the white appearance of the earth, betoken the near approach of winter.

Messrs. C. and J. Buck have left us and are going to engage in farming pursuits in the vicinity of Walpole They are followed by the well wishes of a large circle of friends.

The monotony of our town was disturbed one day last week by some very forcible antics of a refractory horse. The self-possession and coolness displayed by the driver prevented him from doing any mischief.

We tender our sympathy to S. Heatherington who, last week, lost a valuable horse.

The thought of the horrible mud is not troubling us to such an extent as formerly, as the sidewalk is fast approaching us.

Quite a list of casualties happened going to, at and coming from the social on Thursday last. A young man lost his horse, another the greater part of his funds, and another his hat—the latter a common occurrence in that neighborhood.
