THE CHAMPION

MILTON, DEC. 3, 1891.

HAMILTON amateurs have announced a performance of "Ben Hur," a play adapted from Gen. Lew Wallace's famous novel of that name, and the Hamilton Ministerial Association has passed a resolution condemning the stage generally and particularly the introduction of biblical characters on the stage. The financial success of the performance is now assured, but whether the Ministerial Association is to get a share of the profits for its valuable advertisement, has not been made known.

AT the request of the Ontario Government, Judge Kingsmill, of the County of Bruce, has been temporarily appointed county judge for Halton by the Dominion Government. Judge Barret, junior judge of Bruce, will take Judge Kingsmill's duties there until a permanent appointment is made for Halton. It may now be taken for granted that this will not be done until after our coming bye-election. Judge Kingsmill arrived here yesterday and will be in his chambers to-day. A great deal of work has accumulated and he will be kept busy for some time.

ON Tuesday, the 15th inst., the Patrons of Industry of the county of Halton will hold a convention at the town hall, here, to choose a candidate to contest the county in their interest at the coming bye-election made necessary by the unseating of Mr. David Henderson, ex-M.P. The organization is a strong one in this county, having between four and five hundred members, and if these stand by, work and vote for their candidate they will make the coming contest an interesting one. Which of the old parties will lose most by the third party movement we are not in a position to say.

THE PREVALENCE OF HEART DISEASE ASCRIBED TO TEETOTALISM.—"The summary of reports of the medical officers of health for the county of Somerset has just been issued by the county council for the year 1891. The report issued by Dr. Barnes, medical officer of health for Chard borough, states the death rate at 12.4 per thousand and under the head of 'Prevalence of Disease'—'no deaths from contagious diseases except the one above noted, only one from phthisis and three from acute lung disease, a large number (7) from heart disease—as usual the chief death factor.' The medical officer of health ascribes the prevalence of heart disease to teetotalism."

The above is taken from an English newspaper of recent date, and may be of interest to prohibitionists and others.

Farmers' Troubles.

Toronto Globe.

A complaint was made to the Globe by a farmer that on Saturday he had been charged 50 cents by the C. P. R. officials on a couple of small baskets he brought into the city on a train for a friend. Also that on a parcel of sugar, said by him to be ten pounds in weight, which he took back home he was charged 25 cents. The importance of the question brought up by the complaint is large, according to the railway authorities. Superintendent Tait makes this explanation with regard to it:—Of the instance on Saturday complained of, he has not learned all the particulars. The farmer boarded the train at Hornby and, he presumes, travelled on a cheap commutation ticket. If he did, no baggage of any description could be carried out. The express messenger who collected the 25 cents on the sugar says he estimated there were 30 pounds in the parcel. No report has been received by the superintendent with regard to the collection of expressage on the baskets. The rules of the railway, Mr. Tait said, are not strictly drawn with regard to the carriage of parcels by passengers. Largely the instructions to employees leave it to be determined by them when the privilege is being abused by passengers. Strictly speaking, only parcels in small compass may be taken into passenger coaches and only articles required for personal comfort may be carried on trains as baggage. Such a restriction, however, is not enforced, and the Canadian Pacific Railway, in common with most railways, makes a liberal allowance to passengers, and almost any sort of parcel is allowed to go into the coaches. So liberal indeed is the treatment of passengers in this respect that the cumbering of seats and aisles with heavy baggage which ought to be put in the baggage car, is a nuisance when coaches are crowded. The nuisance is worst on trains coming into and going out of the city within a distance of 50 miles. From the stations close to the city people bring in produce to sell and take back all descriptions and quantities of supplies. Things have come to such a pass in this respect that repeated efforts have been made by Superintendent Tait to put a stop to the imposition put upon the railway by these marketers. It is not a new question, and he says Saturday's episode, in which the Hornby man figured, was the result of increased alertness on the part of the officials, caused by a recent circular he had issued. The C. P.R. having contracted with the Dominion Express Co. was bound in honesty, he said, to protect its interests. Train men are instructed to keep watch on passengers when they are entering trains, and if they attempt to carry into the coaches baggage which in the trainman's judgment ought not to be taken in he requires that it be taken to the baggage car, where the baggageman decides whether it must be paid for as express stuff. This was done in the case of the Hornby man on Saturday, Mr. Tait supposes. As evidence of the necessity for the exercise of more stringency on the part of the railway in this matter Mr. Tait tells of a number of flagrant cases of imposition by passengers. Farmers and people with produce to sell in the city come in weekly with as much as 600 or 700 pounds of stuff which they succeed in carrying free. The other a day a man brought in twenty baskets of produce by the aid of four friends, each of whom looked after four for him. The wagons of the dealers with whom these people do their trading are at the station to meet the trains and take care of the baskets after their arrival. This cheap transportation of garden truck, dairy produce and poultry has become a system. It is even said that friends are brought into the city by a "commuter" on a commutation ticket in consideration of the friends carrying some baskets on and off the train. One day a quarter of beef was carried into a finely upholstered coach and laid restfully against the crimson velvet cushions. Another day a firkin and a box of butter gave a passenger much trouble getting them into a coach without assistance before the train started. The instances were numerous which Mr. Tait recounted to show how unreasonable, in the eyes of the railway, are people who travel into the city once or twice a week with their produce and carry back supplies and expect there will be no limit put upon the privilege by the railway. The Grand Trunk Railway, he said, have the same trouble in this matter.

An Engineer's Fiendish Revenge.

BERNE, Dec. 1—An engineer employed on the railway line running between Aargau and Waldshut recently committed some infraction of the rules of the road and to-day was notified of his dismissal from the service. When informed of the action of his superiors the engineer became intensely infuriated and meditated a terrible revenge for the loss of his position. Watching for a favorable opportunity when he could carry his evil designs into effect the engineer entered the cab of a locomotive and opening the throttle of the engine as wide as possible jumped from the cab and let the locomotive dash down the track at full speed just as a train loaded with passengers came rushing from the opposite direction on the same track. The runaway locomotive and that of the passenger train plunged into each other with awful force, both engines being wrecked. The engineer and fireman of the passenger train had no warning of the terrible fate in store for them, and were only aware of their great danger when too late to make an effort to save their lives. Both men were caught in the wreck of the engines and instantly killed. The passengers of the train were flung in all directions by the terrible shock of the collision. Three of them were fatally injured, and nearly all the others suffered from wounds of a more or less serious nature. The greatest excitement was caused by the accident.
