They were both devout Presbyterians, and when in Milton were greatly interested in the building of Knox Church. Mr. Patterson remembered the church in his will and left it a generous legacy, $2,500.

ACKNOWLEDGED GUILT.—On Monday Harry Boucher, aged 18, was brought before Messrs. J. B. Pearson and Geo. Havil, J. P.'s, at Acton, charged with stealing a ring and money from Theodore Dunn, of that village. The boy pleaded guilty. He was committed for trial, was brought to Milton jail, and will be arraigned to-day before Judge Hamilton. Constable Lawson says that Boucher is an English waif and that he says that he came from Fagin's Home. Those who have read Oliver Twist will agree that the name of the home is rather suggestive.

THE OAKVILLE DRAMATIC CLUB.—Owing to the very severe werther the performance by this company on Thursday evening last was not as well attended as it otherwise would have been, or as the merits of the performance deserved. The house was small, and the performance under such dispiriting circumstances was exceedingly creditable. The company produced two bright and clever pieces, "A Box of Monkeys" and "Dearest Mamma," neither of which had been seen here before. They each proved to be very clever and together make a capital evening's entertainment. The cast appeared to have been made most judiciously, and the performance itself showed careful coaching. Although all did well, special mention should be made of Mr. Dodd in both plays, his parts being played with care and confidence and his lines being delivered with point and effect. Mrs. Bristol and Mr. Appelbe were also very effective in their respective parts. Indeed the whole performance went very smoothly and was very creditable to the whole company. The Oakville orchestra, under Mr. T. Howarth—who with his usual good nature came up especially for the occasion—rendered appropriate music for the occasion in very good style.

MR. AND MRS. MORDEN, of Hamilton, spent Sunday with G. S. Bowes and family.

Makes a Difference

In the house, doesn't it?—the advent of the new parlor or bed-room suite? Everybody, down to the smallest toddler, likes to slip alone into that room and revel in the newness.

Yet there is an endearing sense of common possession about new furniture that is quite different from the feeling we have about clothes or any purely personal belonging. The tables and chairs are a part of the family life. Better have them as nice as possible, don't you think?
