FOR SALE.—House and two lots. Good cistern, hard and soft water, good stable. House newly painted and papered throughout. Terms easy. For particulars apply on premises to Mrs. McCallum, Commercial St., Milton. 9-2

On Monday night Chas. E. Hill, of Peel, arrived at home with his horse and buggy about 10 o'clock, put the latter in the stable and turned the former loose in the pasture field. About 11 o'clock Wm. Pedlow, while passing on a bicycle, heard two parties talking in Mr. Hill's barn, but thought it was Mr. Hill and some of the family. Next morning the buggy, which was nearly new, a set of harness, a buggy rug and a $5.00 set of ivory rings were missing, as was also a large bay mare from Dr. Robertson's barn on the 1st line, Esquesing. The thieves evidently drew the buggy down to the doctor's farm, hitched on the mare and drove in the direction of Milton.

ORDER NOW.—The subscription rate of the Toronto Weekly Sun has been raised to $1 per year on account of improvements and high price of paper. The Champion has made a clubbing arrangement and is able to offer the Sun and the Champion for one year for $1.75. New subscribers can have both to Dec. 31st, 1901, for $1.75.

Grouse will be very plentiful in Western Ontario this year. In the neighborhood of Sarnia they will be particularly numerous. The increase is attributed, as in the case of partridge, to the dry weather, which prevailed during the breeding season. The season has been particularly favorable to the breeding of game birds, none of the young birds having been drowned out by rains.—Oakville New Era.

The above is good news for sportsmen, but it is inaccurate in one respect. The so-called partridge of this country is properly called the ruffed grouse. The word partridge in Ontario means ruffed grouse.

EAST END MEAT MARKET.—Attention is directed to the following announcement of F. Wales of the East End meat market, that he is prepared to supply prime fresh meat by the quarter or in large or small quantities at special terms for cash. Mr. Wales's is an old established business.

F. L. White has returned to town.

Read Miss Malloy's advertisement.

Miss Marshall, of Shelburne, is visiting at Mrs. J. Hunter's.

DIVISION COURTS.—Judge Hamilton is holding Division Court sittings this week.

W. H. Phillips and daughter, of St. Catharines, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Ed. Peacock, of Dunkirk, N.Y., was in town yesterday. His wife and child accompanied him.

Mrs. George Lavery and Master Russell Lavery are visiting friends in Toronto during exhibition.

Miss Millie Mitchell, saleslady for W. H. Lindsay for several years, leaves on Saturday for Victoria, B.C., where she has secured a good position.

Adam Chisholm, late of Higginbotham & Co.'s drug store, commences his college course at Toronto to-day.

Miss Violet Lavery has returned home after a three weeks' visit in Toronto. Miss Lottie Deitch accompanied her.

R. Burling made a delivery of furniture in the vicinity of Toronto last week. This, despite the departmental stores.

Chief Constable Bradley's horse ran away on Main St. on Labor Day and was caught while going at a lively pace by Thos. Parsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Bogie, of the Northwest, are visiting the latter's brother, Danl. Harrison, and other relatives and friends in this neighborhood.

Campbellville had a ball on Friday evening in honor of Corpl. R. J. Cunningham. The weather was very warm, but a pleasant evening was spent.

Wm. Clements received a letter from his son, John B., Nelson, B.C., who, at the time of writing, was about to leave that town with a party for the Klondike.

H. H. Freeman, jr., of Brantford, spent a few days in the early part of the week with his father and brother, Wm., at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Jas. Bolton.

Harry McDowell, of Vancouver, B. C., is visiting his sister, Mrs. John Murray, Esquesing, and renewing old acquaintances in this vicinity. He favored this office with a call yesterday.

J. H. McCollom, ex-mayor of Milton, has secured a good position at Hamilton. He is manager of Clark's drug store, 77 King St. E., where he will be happy to receive calls from Milton friends.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church will hold a grand concert in the town hall on Sept. 27th, second night of the fall fair. The finest talent possible will be secured. Further notice later.

O. Shoan, of the Plains Road, has purchased the Burlington House. Alex. McLagan, a Hamilton man, has secured the license and will conduct the business. He takes possession to-day.—Gazette.

Orvil, son of S. Loundsberry, of Peterboro', late of Milton, who had been troubled for a number of years with a diseased bone in his right leg, underwent an operation here on Friday, the limb being taken off above the knee. The little fellow is getting along bravely and no doubt will have better health in the future. He is at present at the Hartman House with his mother.

Andrew Little, the Georgetown horseman whose name figures in the prize list of the Toronto Industrial Fair, had one of his show animals, "Dandy Dick," injured so badly that he had to shoot him. The horse stepped on a loose plank in the G.T.R. platform, got frightened and fell off. Mr. Little expects that the railway company will pay for the horse.

Dr. Mary Brown died at Sarnia hospital on the 14th ult. She was born in Esquesing and was a sister of Mrs. Hiram Graham, of that township. She graduated from the Farrand Training School and Ann Arbor University. She spent a number of years in China in charge of the woman's hospital of the Presbyterian Mission at Ne Hein. Ill health compelled her to come back to Canada.

On Sunday morning, in All Saints' Church, Hamilton, Rev. Canon Forneret called the banns of Ralph Edward Young, Toronto, and Miss Edith Grassett Snider. Miss Snider is the eldest daughter of Judge Snider and is one of Hamilton's most popular young ladies. The wedding will take place about the end of the month.—Morning Post. The banns were also announced in St. Luke's Church here.—Burlington Gazette.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.—The Georgetown Herald publishes this week another interesting letter from Corpl. James Ralentvne, of D Battery Royal Canadian Artillery, dated at Bronkhurst Spruit, Transvaal, July 31st. Corpl. Ballentyne was lieutenant of No. 2 Co. both Lorne Rifles previous to his enlistment. His battery spent a long time chasing Boers without being able to get within fighting distance, but latterly has had its share of fighting. Corpl. Ballentyne reports that he and the other two Halton members of his battery, W. J. Moore and W. J. Gould, of Acton, are in good health and spirits, but they will not be sorry when the war is over.

Donald H. Duncan, Formerly of Kilbride, Accidentally Killed at Detroit, Mich.

Detroit News, Aug. 28.

While several workmen were in the act of lowering a mangle, weighing about five tons, from the first floor to the basement of the building at 102-106 Learned street west, occupied by The Norris Co., manufacturers of collars and cuffs, about 3.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Aug. 27, the beam from which the rope and tackle attached to the massive piece of machinery were suspended, gave way. The mangle, with all the hoisting apparatus and a portion of the first floor, fell with a crash into the basement, carrying with it three men, one of whom, Donald H. Duncan, was killed almost instantly. An on-looker, the manager of the Morris Co.'s laundry department, Robert D. McMicking, who was standing on the basement floor, directly underneath the section of flooring which was precipitated into the basement, was severely injured about the face and head, but will probably recover.

For a moment after the accident everybody in the building believed an explosion had occurred and the employes stood in a state of expectancy, wondering what had happened. Then there was a general exodus from the different departments, and, like committees of inspection, the girls ran from one part of the plant to the other to discover the origin of the frightful crash yet fresh in their ears.

Many of the employes presently found their way into the basement, and there it was that three of the girls, overcome by the announcement of death, fell prostrate on the floor. A number of other girls ran into the street. Fortunately no panic occurred.

The H. J. Reading Truck Co. had the contract for carrying the mangle from the depot and putting it in place in the basement of the Norris Co. building. The machine had been successfully unloaded from the truck and taken in the doorway in the rear of the building. A pine beam fourteen feet long and eight inches square was placed across the elevator shaft at the second floor and the rope and elevator attached to it. The mangle was tied securely and was still intact after the accident. As to the strength of the beam, H. J. Reading, superintendant of the company, and E. Ibster Moreton, of the Moreton Storage Co., say that such beams are considered safe. Oak beams are sometimes used, but they are so heavy that the lighter ones are more preferable.

Without the least warning and while the men were swinging the mangle and leading it through the shaft to the basement, the beam broke about four feet from the end farthest from the sidewalk. Instantly the mangle crashed through the shaft, carrying about ten feet of the floorway on the first floor with it and a moment later lay a mass of debris on the cement basement floor.

Donald H. Duncan, 35 years of age, of 419 Howard street, brother of J. Duncan, stage-driver, of Kilbride, Ont., and foreman of the gang in the employ of the cartage company, was standing on the main floorway of the first floor assisting two of his men in directing the mangle, which hung at an angle of 75 degrees, through the elevator shaft, which is about 10 feet by 7 feet in size.

As the floor gave way the three men were pitched down with the floor. Two of them escaped in some way which cannot be explained. They hadn't a scratch, although they were partially buried in the mass of splintered timbers. The end of the mangle, however, struck poor Duncan and when his fellow workmen reached him he was breathing his last.

"It was an awful thing," said one of the three men, almost in tears. "We could not realize what happed. Duncan never uttered a sound after the accident. Neither did any of us. It was as still as death until we saw him lying there. Then we went to work."

The mangle could not be stirred by the men, and a rope was attached to one end of the machine and the windlass on one of the wagons was brought into use. In a comparatively short time Duncan's body was released. His chest was crushed in, while the bones of his jawbone and nose were apparently fractured.

Robert L. McMicking was completely buried in the debris, one of the skids being found on top of him. Some of the bones of his face were fractured and he was wounded considerably, but the hospital authorities believe he will recover.

Duncan is survived by a widow and three children, the youngest being 10 days old yesterday. His 14-year-old son is an employe at the Hudson's big store. Mrs. Duncan is the only daughter of Emerson Colling, Lowville.

Church circles in England are not a little moved by the action of Mr. Cripps, Q.C., the new Anglican Chancellor of York, who has intimated to the clergy of the diocese that no license will be granted henceforward for the marriage of any divorced person.

MILLINERY!

FALL, 1900

desires to inform the ladies of Milton and vicinity that she has reopened her Millinery Parlors with a full line of everything in up-to-date Millinery and would be pleased to have them call and inspect.

Thanking all for their very liberal patronage the past season.
Yours, S. A. MALLOY.

Grand Opening, Friday & Saturday, Sept. 21 & 22.

A LADY'S LIFE SAVED.

Remarkable Escape from Death of a Popular Lady.

To the Editor of The Champion:

Sir,—I have been requested to publish my experience, which I cheerfully do, in the hope that it may benefit others.

Four years ago I began to suffer from indigestion, which became so acute that I was unable to attend to my household duties. Rheumatism also set it, and I was a cripple. After trying several doctors and patent medicines, I was induced to send for a box of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. These did me so much good that I sent for more, and after taking five boxes I am now as well as I ever was in my life. They undoubtedly saved my life. Mrs. Mary E. Parker, Hastings, Ont.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are positively guaranteed to cure rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years. The most stubborn cases will yield if the pills are taken long enough. For sale by leading druggists, or sent direct by mail, by addressing Canada Chemical Co., Peterborough, Ont., 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.00. Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, same price. $1.00 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

STOCKBROKERS' SUPERSTITIONS.

Luck of a Man Who Stepped on a Crack Going to His Office.

The man who was watching the tape anxiously suddenly snapped it off and, turning to the brokers standing near him, said:

"That last sale has probably cost me $1,000, and I am through bucking my superstition."

"Lost a rabbit foot?" asked a broker.

"No, nothing of that sort. I don't believe in rabbits' feet, opals and all that sort of thing. I have a little superstition of my own, however, which is just as foolish. It is really absolutely silly, but I have never known it to fail. I come down town in a Broadway car every morning. Experience has taught me that if I step on a crack as I walk from Broadway down Wall and Broad to my office luck will go against me all day. I first noticed this ten years ago. It came to me like an inspiration. I tried to fight it down. On days when I had stepped on a crack in going to my office in the morning I would trade only in the most conservative stocks and on what seemed to be sure tips. In nine cases out of ten, however, the market would go against me.

"Of course it is foolish, but I'll venture to say that eight brokers out of ten down here have some pet superstition like it. I have tried in every way to take the hoodoo away from mine, and today's luck has convinced me that it is useless. I stepped on a crack this morning just as I was thinking about buying 200 shares of X. Y. Z. I had straight information that it was to be bulled, and its last report warranted a price better than $1. When I stepped on the crack, I thought to myself: 'There is my hoodoo. If I buy that stock now, it will go down. I'll just take the curse off that hoodoo by selling 200 shares.' That was what I did. I ordered my short stock covered at 76. Five points was all the profit I expected. The stock began to sag as soon as I sold, and then came a rally, and it's been going up ever since. My stock has just been covered at a five point loss. That convinces me that I can't get the better of my hoodoo, and hereafter I am going to yield to it."

Several of the other brokers admitted in turn their pet superstitions, and one of them told a story about the death of a well known governor of the Stock Exchange a few years ago. The governor may be called Brown. The broker said:

"There was not a more level headed man on the exchange than Brown, and probably all of you knew him. He had one superstition which he confided to his friends. He always said that he felt sure that if it ever became necessary for him to announce a member's death that his own death would come very shortly after that. We all guyed him about it, and Brown himself didn't seem to be very serious. It so happened one morning, however, that the other officers of the exchange were ill, and Brown was called upon to announce the death of a member. I heard him do it and thought to myself that this was a good opportunity to prove the foolishness of his superstition. Brown looked to be in perfect health. After announcing this death he stepped down, walked across the floor and when near the door he fell as if in a faint. He never recovered consciousness. You all know that he died in that way, and there are a dozen other men besides myself who can vouch for his having had that superstition. My experience leads me to believe that stockbrokers are the most superstitious of men."

A Juggler's Feat.

Paul Cinquevalli, the king of jugglers, used to throw a fork some ten feet into the air, making it revolve all the time, and when it reached a certain spot, threw up a potato which just affixed itself to the prongs of the fork, while at the same time through a tube he held in his mouth he blew a puff dart which stuck into the underside of the potato. As the three objects thus joined together fell he caught them on the edge of a knife which he drew from a belt at his side and balanced them in that position. This took two years and eight months of incessant practice to learn, but it was finished so quickly that the audience was never able to appreciate it sufficiently, and it was consequently ineffective, so that after doing it for about a fortnight Mr. Cinquevalli discarded it entirely.—Pearson's Weekly.

An Unexpected Reply.

The late Lord Ludlow was exceedingly mild on the bench, and on more than one occasion his amiability in interposing out of pity to a confused witness led to unforeseen results. A witness was once badgered about a denial of intoxication. The judge asked him kindly from the bench, "Did you say, 'I was not drunk, sir?'"

"I never said anything about you at all," was the unexpected reply.

Breeds New Plants.

There is a man in California who makes it a business to produce new forms of plants and fruits. He decides what he wants, breeds to produce the results desired, and when he obtains something possessing qualities that will recommend it he disposes of a seedling to some nurseryman and then resumes his work for new results.

BASEBALL.

There will be a big day at the Agricultural grounds on Saturday, when there will be a double-header, in which our best four teams in the district will figure, Milton and Waterdown will play first, commencing at 1.30 p.m. sharp, and will be followed by Acton vs. St. Ann's. Tickets good for both games will cost only 15 cents. There should be a large attendance.

The carpet and shoe factory nines played a match at the Agricultural grounds on Saturday. The latter won. Score 33 to 13.

Freelton defeated Galt at Galt on Thursday by 21 to 5 and again at Freelton on Saturday by 13 to 11. The Galt men were so favorably impressed with the pitching of Fred Mahony, of Freelton, who was one of Milton's pitchers a few years ago, that they engaged him to pitch for them in a coming match with one of their neighboring teams. They also made Sam Brush, of Milton, an offer lately, but he declined it.

Harry P. Davidson, one of the members of Milton's champion baseball team of 1896, is leaving Campbellford for Clappinson's Corners, near Waterdown, where he will open a smithy.

Lasting Bubbles.

It is said that bubbles formed of filtered castile soapsuds and glycerin will last several days. A Baltimore drawing room ornamented with these bubbles, which had been carefully released close to the ceiling, reflected the gaslights in ever varying tints, and the effect was exceedingly attractive.

MARRIED.
