Successful!

HALTON'S FAIR was a great successful this year—beautiful weather, big, well satisfied crowd and an excellent fair.

The secret of the success was that everybody was there. That's just the reason that Higginbotham & Co. are such successful druggists. They know their business, therefore everybody trades with them. When buying drugs the first thing to consider is their purity. This is one of our successful points. We know drugs and guarantee anything purchased here.

Local News.

Frank Morley is laid up with typhoid fever.

John Featherstone made a shipment of 12 hogs on Monday.

W. T. Robson, of the Toronto World, was a visitor at the fair here on Friday.

Wm. Moore returned to Toronto yesterday to resume study at the Dental College.

There will be a meeting of the W.C.T.U. at Mrs. Pickett's on Monday, Oct. 8, at 3 p.m.

Eli Vanallen, of Hamilton, came to the fair on Friday, accompanied by a number of friends.

A number of school reports have been unavoidably crowded out this week, but will appear in next issue.

Editors Moore, of the Acton Free Press, and Orr, of the New Era, Oakville, visited Milton on fair day.

Frank Capelle, of Hamilton, and W. F. Dewar, of Toronto, occupied their old places in the band on fair day.

Miss Lusk, of Oakville, is teaching in Miss Sheppard's department in the public school during the latter's illness.

One New Industry.—The output and the number of employes of the Canadian Carpet Co. are steadily increasing. The amount paid out in wages last month was $1,011.65.

Mrs. Price, of Upper Nassagaweya, after being confined in jail here for four weeks as a lunatic, was taken to Toronto on Saturday, room having at last been found for her at the asylum.

Strayed from the premises of the subscriber, lot 14, con. 1, Trafalgar, on 25th Sept., two small white pigs about eight weeks old. The finder will be suitably rewarded.—Chas. S. Osmond, Milton P.O.

For Sale.—House and two lots. Good orchard, hard and soft water, good stable. House newly painted and papered throughout. Terms easy. For particulars apply on premises to Mrs. McCutcheon, Commercial St., Milton. 9-2

Mrs. Smith, elocutionist, who took part in the concert on the evening of the fair day, as reported in another item, is the wife of one the travellers employed by the Canadian Carpet Co., and it is hoped that she will become a resident of Milton shortly.

We regret to say that Miss Ethel Sheppard, teacher in the Milton public school, who has been ill for some time, but was thought to be recovering, took a turn for the worse last Friday. She has been in a critical condition ever since and the worst is feared.

The Steele, Briggs Seed Co., of Toronto, on Sept. 26th presented Alf. Pitcher, youngest son of Arthur Pitcher, of Milton, who has been in their employ for the past eight years, with $75, in consideration of his faithful and efficient services in the printing department.

Order Now.—New subscribers can have the Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star and the hampion for the balance of the year 1900 for 25 cents—less than the regular price of either paper alone for the time. The sooner you send in your order the longer the time it will cover.

East End Meat Market.—Attention is directed to the following announcement of F. Wales of the East End meat market, that he is prepared to supply prime fresh meat by the quarter or in large or small quantities at special terms for cash. Mr. Wales's is an old established business..

Thos. J. Chisholm, of Hornby, and James Alexander, of Nelson, returned last week from their visits to the Northwest. Both report tremendous rains, which prevented harvesting and caused a great deal of the wheat to sprout. Much of the crop was still in the fields, too wet to bring in and possibly destined to be utterly ruined. Mr. Alexander was as far west as Edmonton.

Peter Cole, of the Massey-Harris Co., Brantford, came to Milton on Monday, accompanied by his son, to spend a week or two with relatives and friends. Both were down with typhoid fever a few weeks ago, but look well and expect to look and feel better after having a little sport in this neighborhood shooting partridges and rabbits. Mr. Cole's last visit to Milton was in 1887.

For Sale—Good brick store and dwelling with large storehouse attached, formerly known as the Creamery, on the corner of Main and James Sts., Milton. The best business stand in town for a good business man. It is situated between the two leading hotels. Can be bought cheap on very reasonable terms. Apply to W. B. Clements, Milton, or 226½ Markham St., Toronto. 14-5t

A Narrow Escape.—About 10.30 on Thursday night Adam McKay was working in his stable, when a lamp, which he had hung up, fell down and exploded, the burning oil running into a pile of straw. There was a big blaze. Mr. McKay tried to put it out with water from the hydrant, but the pressure was weak, it did not run fast enough and the fire held its own, until Mr. McKay's shouts were heard by a girl in the house and she ran out with a large pail of soap suds which reduced the fire so that it was soon put out, just as the fire alarm was about to be sounded. The stable and a pony had a narrow escape.

John Weir, of Toronto, spent Friday in town with his relatives.

Miss Charlotte Barbaree, of Grand Valley, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Jas. Friday.

Oscar Anderson, of Toronto, came to Milton last Friday to see his brother William, who is ill.

Frank Barry, of Toronto, spent a few days in town during fair week with his friend, Thos. Conway, jr.

Baseball.—The Woodland Park nine of Hamilton, was defeated at Freelton on Saturday. Score 8—10.

Wanted.—A young man who understands the butchering business. Good wages given to the right man.—Thos. Parsons, Milton.

Dr. Zimmerman, dentist, Milton, has secured the latest and most approved apparatus for the administration of gas in extraction, which is perfectly safe. Office open every Saturday.

Two men were drunk and disorderly in town on Friday night and one on Saturday evening. Chief Constable Bradley paraded them before the mayor. They all pleaded guilty and were fined. They are settling this week.

Special services are being conducted in the Methodist church every night during the week except Saturday. The pastor is being assisted by the Rev. Geo. Brown, an old-time resident. The services will be continued during the present month.

Willie Dunn, an eleven-year-old Hamilton boy, who was recently sent to St. John's Industrial School, Toronto, for four years for horse-stealing, got away from the institution and stole a horse and drove back to Hamilton. He will be returned to the school.

Our fair was favored by fine weather, but its success was equally due to the energy displayed in preparing for it and in its management by President E. R. Hunter, Sec. Wm. Clements and the directors generally, particularly Messrs. W. A. Lawrence and F. Chisholm. Mr. Hunter spent a great deal of time and doubtless considerable money in canvassing for special prizes, etc.

Typhoid fever is prevalent in the neighborhood of Hornby. A promising young man, Robert Miller, eldest son of the late John Miller, of the base line, Esquesing, died of it yesterday morning. Bayard McCurdy, of Agerton, and his son Bayard, are both down with it, but not dangerously ill, and so is Geo. Laird of the 6th con., Esquesing. Geo. Thompson, of Hornby, was taken ill on Tuesday, and it is feared that he is taking either the fever or appendicitis.

Anniversary!—St. David's church, Campbellville, October 14 & 15, 1900. Services will be conducted on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. by Rev. H. H. McPherson, M. A., Toronto. Tea meeting on Monday evening. Tea served in the basement from 6 to 8, after which a select program will be rendered by Miss Lillian Fraser, Elocutionist, Hamilton; Miss Stella Carey, Soprano, Hamilton; Mr. Alistha Carey, Tenor, Hamilton; and the following reverend gentlemen: Messrs. H. H. McPherson, of Toronto, Smith, of Milton, Robertson, of Morrisston, Gillespie, of Mansewood, and McPherson, of Acton. Admission 25 cents. Rev. A. Blair, chairman.

The concert on the evening of the fair, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church, was in every sense a great success. The hall was crowded to the doors and the financial results must have been very satisfactory. Musically the concert was very interesting, as being the first appearance here of Harold Jarvis, the celebrated tenor, of Detroit, formerly of Toronto. Mr. Jarvis appeared in a varied selection of songs and made a great artistic and at the same time a very popular success. His voice is not the usual tenor one is accustomed to meet, the quality partaking more of a baritone than a tenor. He has, however, sufficient range to sing anything but the most enacting tenor work and he sings with so much expression and dramatic fervour that one forgets the defects in his voice. Miss Johnson, the soprano, has a fine voice and her selections were well received. Miss Lawrence played the accompanyments in a manner that has seldom been equalled in Milton. Mr. Yates played his violin obligato in good time and tone and very well altogether. Miss Hollinrake's piano solos were excellent, both in technique and expression. Mrs. Smith, elocutionist, was suffering from a cold, but, notwithstanding, succeeded in pleasing her hearers.

Won the Scotchman.

On one occasion the late Lord Chief Justice Russell went to help the Liberals in a certain campaign. He began his speech with some very badly pronounced Scotch. After the confusion caused by his blunder had subsided Sir Charles Russell (as he was then) said, "Gentlemen, I do not speak Scotch, but I vote Scotch." Tremendous applause followed, whereupon Sir Charles proceeded, "And I sometimes drink Scotch." With this his hold on the audience was secured.—London News.

Concealed.

"Mandy," said her elderly relative, "that young Spoonamore hasn't a cent to his name. You would be simply crazy to marry him."

"I am, auntie," replied Miss 'Mandy.

SHOT AROUND CORNERS.

Investigation Proved That a Pistol Was Capable of Doing So.

"Speaking of pistols," said a New Orleans lawyer, "I am reminded of a remarkable case in which I was interested soon after the war, when I was practicing over in Alabama. A general shooting affray, growing out of a family feud, had taken place at crossroads store, and an influential planter named McDermott was killed. He was standing behind a little shed, a considerable distance away, at the time, and a young man named Lee Allen was firing out of the store window at another of the crowd. McDermott was hit in the head, and the bullet was identified as coming from Allen's pistol, which was an English weapon of a very unusual size, caliber .47. But the singular part of the affair was that the place where the planter stood was out of the range of the window. The corner of the shed interposed, and it was simply impossible to understand how the missile reached its mark. I was engaged for the defense, and after carefully measuring the ground and firing several test shots I became convinced that my client was innocent and that there had been another 47 caliber pistol in the fight. The circumstantial evidence seemed to bear out my theory indisputably, and I felt confident of an acquittal, when at the eleventh hour the unexpected happened and knocked out my proposed to test Allen's weapon and find out exactly how it carried. Accordingly he screwed it in a vise and blazed away a few times at a target at different distances. The result was astounding. Up to about 50 feet it shot all right, but at that point the bullet suddenly veered off at all sorts of extraordinary tangents. Sometimes it sailed up into the air, sometimes it plunged downward and sometimes it swooped off to one side. The explanation, however, was simple. It seemed that Allen had found the barrel too long and a week or so before the fight had filed off several inches. That operation completely destroyed the effect of the rifling, and instead of imparting a true circular twist to the bullet it gave it a peculiar 'English,' as billiard players would say, which was liable to send it in one direction as another. That experiment fully explained the mystery of McDermott's taking off. My client was convicted of manslaughter and afterward pardoned. I don't know what became of the pistol. It should have been preserved as the only gun on earth that pitched curved balls."

A DAZED CONDUCTOR.

Jones Amused Himself at the Expense of the Ticket Puncher.

"I made a short trip the other day," said Jones, as he smiled softly to himself. "There were six of us in the party, and when we were ready to go home there was some doubt about whether or not we would be able to catch our train. I went on ahead, promising to buy the tickets, so there would be no delay when the others arrived. I managed to reach the station in time and secured the tickets, but the train arrived before my friends did, and I found myself on board with five extra tickets that I had no earthly use for, so I resolved to amuse myself at the expense of the conductor. Tearing up the check that he gave me when he took up my ticket, I waited for him to come around again.

"'Tickets,' he said shortly on his next round, seeing that I had no check.

"I gave up another ticket without a word and promptly tore up the check that he gave me.

"'Tickets,' he started to say when he came around again, and then he looked hard at me, and I handed over another ticket without comment.

"'See here, where is your check?' he demanded on his next trip.

"For reply I handed over another ticket.

"When he came around again, he looked at me in a startled manner, and I heard him give a sigh of relief when he passed and I had made no sign. I let him go until he was nearly to the door, and then I yelled to him that he had overlooked me and frantically waved another ticket.

"The next stop was mine, and as I passed the conductor on the outside I handed him another ticket with the remark that he had overlooked me.

"That conductor has an idea that he has been worked by some sort of a new game, but is unable to figure it out."

Unexpected Results.

"Say," said the man with the worried look, "do you remember giving me a lot of advice on how to conduct my love affairs about two months ago?"

"Yes," replied the man with the wise expression.

"Told me if I wanted to win the girl I should make love to her mother?"

"Uh—huh."

"Said if I could get the old lady on my side all I had to do was to toddle around with a ring and say 'When?' to the girl."

The wise man nodded.

"Said for me to compliment the mother on her youthful appearance," continued the worried man, "and give her a jolly about how sad it was that the young ladies of the present were not to be compared with those of the past?"

"Yes. Yes. You won the girl, I suppose."

"Yes, I did—not. The old lady has sued her husband for divorce and me for breach of promise."

Unpopularity is the fate of those who know how to stand alone and to leave their mark upon other men. But time rights the momentary wrongs of those who cannot be swayed by the fickle breath of popular applause.

The Pacific coast is almost one unbroken egg shaped ring of withering volcanic beacon fires.

What Hats Are Made Of.

The silk plush out of which hats are made comes almost entirely from France, all attempts to produce it in the United States having ended in failure. Nine-tenths of the felt hats worn in America are made from the fur of the rabbit and hare. Much wool is used in the cheaper grades of felt hats and in the cloth of which cloth hats and caps are made. These latter have come in vogue through the great demand for uniforms and outing suits. Every soldier and sailor has a cloth cap, and every golfer, wheelman, ball player, fisherman, hunter, "bobbder," automobiler, jockey, yachtsman and cameriel requires one to complete his equipment. The army of railroad employers, porters, elevator boys, bellboys, steamboat officials, and, in fact, all manformed help, increase the demand.
