MILTON, May 7, 1903.

The Gamey Investigation.

A good deal of evidence brought out in the Gamey investigation last week tended to discredit the evidence of the chief witness, so far as the alleged payment of money to him was concerned. E. C. Myers, private secretary to Stratton, and Chas. H Chase, a messenger in the office of the Attorney-General, each of whom had been mentioned as the intermediary through which the money passed from Stratton to Gamey, both swore positively that they had no part in any transaction of the kind. Other witnesses swore that Gamey talked freely to them of his intention to support the Government. Dr. R. H. Arthur of Sudbury said he frequently saw Gamey, and they were quite intimate. About the beginning of July Gamey came into his office, and said he had been at the Conservative caucus in Toronto to the end of June, and had found many of the Conservative members discouraged by the outlook. Gamey himself was then of opinion Ross would hold power for the next four years, and declared he would not have been candidate had he not thought Whitney would win, as he did not want to sit for four years in Opposition. He said he would give Whitney the first vote, but after that he would support the Ross Government and that there were other Conservatives who would do the same.

Road Inspector Boyd, who has charge of the colonization roads in the district, said he met Gamey at the latter's home a short time later, and Gamey then said he was going to support the Government. Gamey said there were only three Conservatives on the island who need be seriously considered in taking nomination. These were Dr. Johnston, Gore Bay, B. H. Turner, Little Current, and J. C. Irving, Manitowaning. Gamey's intention was to try and square Johnston by having him made jail surgeon, to placate Turner for the latter's telephone line, and to smooth over Irving in some other way—the public lines to be used in all cases in straightening out the political entanglements he proposed creating.

Arthur A. Bowen of Kemptville, who occupied the same room with Gamey at the Walker House, Toronto, on September 4th and 6th, said Gamey on that occasion declared that the Ross Government gave good legislation for Manitoulin, and he was going to support it.

Dr. Strathers of Sudbury, who occupied the same room with Gamey at the Walker House, Toronto, on the 9th, said that Gamey then asked the doctor's advice. Gamey said it would cost him $1200 or $1500 to contest the protest against his return, that he could not stand that, and that he thought the protest could be arranged if he agreed to become an independent supporter of the Government. Dr. Strathers urged him not to do so, because people would think he was bought, and Gamey indignantly repudiated the idea that there was any money involved. After the Globe interview he met Gamey in Toronto and in discussing the situation Gamey said he thought he had discovered the only course open to him, and that it would benefit his constituents.

Dr. Chamberlain swore it was Gamey who first suggested the giving an interview to the Globe as to Gamey's position. This was just after the lieutenant-governor in the three months, and Gamey and Chamberlain were both in Stratton's office. Gamey said he was a supporter of the Government. Stratton replied very sharply that it did not look very much like it, for he was speaking for the Conservatives in North Perth. Gamey said he had to do it. Stratton said "it was time he declared himself publicly." Gamey said he was prepared to do it, and asked Mr. Stratton to prepare a statement for the press. Stratton asked Gamey what he wanted to say, and then took some notes. The Globe interview afterwards published was simply the notes of the conversation as taken by Stratton and Gamey.

Hon. J. P. Stratton went on the box Monday and gave a most emphatic denial to Gamey's charges. He said he never paid Gamey any money, neither did he pay anyone money for Gamey. He did not even send a man to the Opposition in the Parliament Buildings with a package on any occasion. He had had no part of communications with D. A. Ross of Beeton within the last two years. He never made a promise or agreement with Gamey, and never entered into any arrangement with him save by the Globe card. He had not even discussed the matter with Capt. Sullivan or any other man as to the patronage of Gamey's influence. Gamey was interested in the patronage.

Mr. Blake read a receipt from the Globe for a statement as to the sources from which the Government campaign funds were secured. He contended that Government officials, and the contractors, did not, if they proved, prove anything, and been paid to Gamey, or anyone in the way claimed by him. Enquiry might be made as to the sums paid to whom the campaign funds of the Government came from. The commissioners had never shown that any of the money they had in their funds could not go beyond the sum of a reasonable recovery to the charge under investigation. He contended that the inquiry should be kept back to August of last year, to extend forward March of this year, and he hoped that the investigation would be carried on properly, without any petty attempts to state facts not made, and he expected that some part of the information in the possession of the Government, which was withheld from the public sessions, was pertinent to the inquiry, concerning the money alleged to have been paid Gamey.

James Conmee was examined yesterday. He said that Gamey told him early in June last that he would give the Government an independent support. Later in July, Gamey said he would give the Government his support without any conditions. Gamey said he was an independent and he would be so. Gamey said he was a member of the Ross party. He said he was a supporter of the Ross Government. Gamey said he was going to support it.

Dr. Strathers of Sudbury, who occupied the same room with Gamey at the Walker House, Toronto, on the 9th, said that Gamey then asked the doctor's advice. It is reported at Ottawa that R. L. Borden, leader of the Conservative party, and D. F. Monk, his Quebec lieutenant, will tour Ontario in July and the eastern provinces in September.

GREATLY ALARMED

By a Persistent Cough, but Permanently Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. H. P. Barbage, a student at law, in Greenville, S. C., had been troubled for four or five years with a continuous cough which he says, "greatly alarmed me, can sing me to fear that I was in the first stage of consumption." Mr. Barbage, having seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised, concluded to try it. Now read what he says of it: "I soon felt a remarkable change and after using two bottles of the twenty-five cent size, was permanently cured." Sold by Higginbotham & Field.

Important to Farmers.

To the Editor of The Champion

Dear Sir, Thinking a few words in reference to the Cokey binder would be of great interest to your readers, and knowing that you have the welfare of the farmers at heart, I now say a few on the merits of this machine, which will be worked amongst us this harvest, and also on the company now in process of formation. The representatives of the Farmers Co-operative Harvesting Machine Company are now taking subscribers for the stock. I would like to impress the advantages now offered to us. The success of Brantford Binder Twine Co., running for ten years of operations is a sure index to this, a far greater and more reaching benefit to us, as we have a multiplicity of implements in use on our farms. We all know well that we are practically in the hands of the present manufacturer, and now is offered to us a factory of our own at a very small investment, and being consumers of our factory product, a moment's thought is sufficient to convince us what a success it will be, as well as making us independent of the present grab corporations, who have amassed the millions of dollars they now have out of our hard labor; and this being the first chance offered to us, I do hope that we will subscribe for this stock quickly and have the factory in full operation in as short a time as possible.

Now, as to a few of the points of the new Clokey Steel Binder. Mr. Clokey, the inventor, took up his time in showing me the improvements he had effected. I was much impressed with the machine; in fact it is on new lines altogether, and anyone who looks at the cuts in the prospectus will see those few points I now mention. The simplicity of the mechanism, the great strength of the binder in comparison with our present binders, fairly astonished me. The new butter is now placed in its proper position and takes every straw and sends it up the elevator in straight lines, instead of heads first and the butts and trailing behind—a remarkable improvement. The independent running of the canvassers by Mr. Clokey's system insures the rapid transient of the grain, whether short or long, on perfectly slack canvas, without any straining or slipping, besides doing away with those cumbersome straps and buckles; and it being 400 lbs. lighter than any machine in the market. Dispensing with the use of the third horse is of such an advantage that it cannot fail to commend itself to every farmer. I cannot speak of all its points, as I would be intruding too greatly on your valuable space.

Mr. Clokey has been the head patternmaker of the Massey-Harris Co. for the last twenty-seven years. The Farmers' Co-operative Manufacturing Co.'s head office is in the Temple Building, Toronto.

Mr. Editor, I would like every farmer that should be going to Toronto to call and see this machine for himself, and I can assure them Mr. Clokey will be pleased to show it.

A Farmer Cured of Rheumatism.

"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and told him to use it freely and if not satisfied after using it he need not pay a cent for it," says C. P. Rayder, of Pattents Mills, N.Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar, saying 'give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I want it in the house all the time, for it cured me.'" For sale by Higginbotham & Field.

Major-General Baden-Powell repudiated an alleged interview in which he was quoted as criticizing the United States cavalry.

MOUNTAIN.

May 4

Friday, being Arbor Day, a general clean up took place in S. S. No. 2.

Miss Clara Davidson, who spent the winter with her sister, Mrs. Harrison, of Milton, has returned home.

Norman Spence spent Sunday with a friend at Eden Mills.

George Harbottle and A. Freeman, who are pulling down their barns and building greater, are progressing favorably.

The decision in the Miller-Bautenheimer case has been given in favor of the former. This has been a long unsettled dispute and the decision will evidently give satisfaction to Mr. Miller.

One of our young men visited recently on Hartley's mountain. We would advise him not to have two strings to his bow.

W. G. Spence had a narrow escape in the Clarendon Hotel fire at Clinton, escaping with one suit of clothes, his other belongings being burned.

ASHGROVE.

May 5.

Jack Frost visited our little hamlet last week, but we trust that will be the last visit of the season.

Business seems to be rushing this spring. Building operations are at present quite active.

Those who took in the Horse Show at Toronto last week: Jas. Ashenhurst, J. Coulter, Mungo Nixon, W. J. Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Ashenhurst and daughter, of Toronto, spent a few days at the old homestead last week.

J. F. Alexander, Toronto, is spending a week at his home here.

W. E. Cantlon, of Liniscoe, visited friends in the Grove this week.

I. Askin, Agerton, visited friends here on Sunday.

Owing to the extremely high wind on Thursday last much damage was done by fire. Malcolm McCallum had the misfortune to lose his house and a number of other things.

The Misses Thompson, of Toronto, were the guests of the Misses Morrison recently.

Miss L. Duggan, who has been visiting friends in this neighborhood, has returned to her home in Nebraska.

On Tuesday evening the Epworth League met as usual, re-organized and elected the following officers: President, Mrs. S. K. Ruddell; vice-pres., Miss A. E. Brownridge; missionary pres., Miss E. A. Hood; literary pres., Ed. Nixon; sec'y-treas., A. Ruddell; organist, Miss A. B. Alexander.

J. H. Nixon has had a windmill erected his lower farm.

Hugh Morrison lost a cow last week.

Mrs. Ed. Huffman and daughter spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. J. Haines, Brampton.

Judges Got No Increase.

Ottawa, May 5.—The Journal, government organ, says: It is about as good as settled that there will be no increase in the salaries of judges this session. To give an increase of $1,000 to the Supreme Court Judges and $500 to the County Court Judges would entail an extra expenditure of about $108,000 annually, an amount which is considered too large to saddle the country with at the present time.

The Abolition of the Grain Duties.

London, May 6.—Canada's disappointment at the repeal of the cereals duties was constantly referred to at yesterday's meeting of the Council of Associated Chambers of Agriculture. The Duke of Rutland, an old pillar of the Tory party, wrote declaring the abandonment of the duty must be regarded as a great disaster by those here and in Canada, who anticipated happier fiscal relations with the colonies.

Lord Heneage and other speakers declared the repeal an act of political cowardice.

The Pall Mall Gazette to-night warns the Ministers that they have imperilled their own position, and shaken the loyalty of an important section of their followers. Nevertheless, Government had better stick to the repeal for the present year at least.

Balfour's recent speech seems to suggest that the Government might possibly be led to contemplate the reinstatement of the duty next year under the stimulus of definite colonial proposals.

Perfect Respiration.

For perfect respiration two things are necessary—chest capacity and breath control. The average individual, woman especially, uses but a limited portion of the lungs and upper chest in ordinary breathing. Whenever a little unusual physical effort makes demand for an extra breathing capacity, note how she puffs and pants, almost to a point of gasping. The reason for this is that the muscles of the lower chest, waist and abdomen have become well nigh atrophied through neglect and abuse. They are stiff and unresponsive and have now to be coaxed back to a condition of activity and obedience.

It is quite as possible to educate these muscles so that they shall respond to our slightest demand as it is that our hands are trained to do our bidding. Different teachers will advocate different forms of breathing—upper chest, side chest, lower chest and abnormal breathing—but what we most want is absolute control, such control of the muscles as shall enable us to make use of any desired form of breathing at the word of command, for all forms have special values. Full upper chest breathing is used most, but lower chest and abdominal breathing are very valuable in cases of nervousness, indigestion, stomach and bowel troubles.

The Truthful Pioneer.

"One day," said the truthful pioneer, "I was whacking up some wood down by the creek, and ten Indians loomed up. They were pretty thirsty even for Indians, and they said they knew I had a jug somewhere, and they wanted to sample it. I had a log about half split at the time, and the ax was sticking in it. I told them if they would help me get that log in two I would show them where the jug was. So they took hold, five on one side and five on the other, and pulled. And when I took the ax out the log sprung together and held them all by the fingers. Then I walked away to the house and loaded the shotgun and three or four pistols and then went back and argued with them, and they reformed right away." This story, says the Nebraska State Journal, was originally told of Daniel Boone or Davy Crockett and has done good service ever since. It is not copyrighted, however, and there is no good reason why Nebraska pioneers should not use it.

The Wild Giraffe.

Perhaps the most difficult of all wild animals to capture is the giraffe. In addition to being very rare giraffes are exceedingly timid and are very swift footed. There is no special way to capture a giraffe, as almost every way has been tried, and all have been almost equally unsuccessful. The method which has occasionally resulted in a capture is by using a long cord, at each end of which is a round weight. This cord is thrown by the hunter in such a manner as to wind round the animal's legs, either bringing it to the ground or rendering it incapable of escaping before it is made a prisoner. Most of the giraffes in captivity have been caught by chance when young.

Lovemaking In Mexico.

In northwest Mexico the courting is all done by the lady. The
