The Canadian Champion

MILTON, Jan. 25, 1906.

The Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers' Association has asked the Dominion Government to put a prohibitive duty on berries, plums, peaches and pears, in order that American fruit shall be kept out of Manitoba and the Northwest. This would not be fair to the people of west who buy the American fruit, not because its quality is superior, but because it's properly and honestly packed. They should not be forced to pay higher prices for fruit which, owing to bad packing, does not reach them in good condition. Let the Ontario fruit growers improve their shipping methods.

There is reason to hope that the movement for a union of the Protestant denominations of Canada will succeed sooner or later. This should mean a union of many of the city congregations and nearly all of those in the smaller towns and villages. There may be difficulty, however, about the union of congregations. The following, clipped from the Hamilton Times, is not encouraging —

"There are two Presbyterian churches in the village of Elora in the county of Wellington. An agitation for the union of the two congregations has been going on for some time. But one Chalmers's Church has decided by a vote of 80 to 40 against union. Elora has a population, according to the census, of 1,187."

The Inland Revenue Department of Canada is about to publish the results of chemical analyses of certain patent medicines now sold in Canada. This is the result of the charge by American newspapers headed by Collier's Weekly, that these medicines contain much more alcohol than is found in wine or beer, and that some are about as intoxicating as whiskey. The Government is to be commended for its proposed action which however, will not be appreciated by many crowded temperance newspapers who derive a large part of their profits from the advertising of the patent medicines. They have advertised them knowing them to be alcoholic and more dangerous than the bars. He who drinks at the bar does so with his eyes open, and as a rule, gets liquor of fair quality. But many who imagined themselves temperate drinkers have innocently acquired the liquor habit by the use of so-called patent medicines, and have been victims of less publicity by the vile quality of the alcohol used in them.

Raymond's Record supported Oakville local option by-law and now it has doubts as to whether that by-law will receive its third reading, or whether, if passed by the town council, it will not be quashed by the legal proceedings. The Record says: "There was a neglect on the part of some to have four copies of the by-law posted up in conspicuous places, as required by the Act, the clerk commissioner may have doubts about the wisdom of refusing to grant a license, if the by-law does not go into effect. The Many people believe that provision does not preclude in any city or town, under any circumstances, but it is generally admitted that it is meant to be a close shave, and, accordingly, it must have been a disappointment to a great many of the people. The, according to legal advice given by the Record, is not the case at Oakville. The by-law was carried then partly on account of a general belief among the liquor sellers and brewers that some friends of temperance would be disappointed, and a liquor seller resented the action of the license commissioners in refusing his license. Whether the resentment was or was not just, the champions are not prepared to say, but the fact is that the by-law was not carried on its merits."

Liberal Whip Rebels.

George D. Grant, M.P. for North Ontario, Liberal, is dissatisfied with the Liberal Government. He has given the Toronto Telegram an interview. He says Mr. William Mackenzie's departure is regarded by many Liberals, that older men, like the ministry (Cartwright and Fielding) from Ontario ought to make way for younger men; that the Government is needlessly running up the expenses; that it is not listening to the demands of the farmers for tariff reduction; and that as one of its party whips for the Province, he knows of 18 Liberal M.P.'s who are more or less dissatisfied.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best Made.

"In my opinion Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best made for colds," says Mrs. Cora Walker, of Porterville, California. "There is no doubt about its being the best. No other will cure a cold so quickly. No other is so sure a preventive of pneumonia. No other is so pleasant and safe to take. These are good reasons why it should be preferred to any other. The fact is that few people are satisfied with any other after having once used this remedy. For sale by all druggists.

House of Refuge.

The county council decided on Tuesday to rescind the resolution locating the house of refuge on the Moore farm, Georgetown, and to erect it in or near Milton.

A number of petitions were presented. They came from nearly all the polling sub-divisions in the townships, and asked the council to establish the house of refuge here. Deputations from the four townships and Milton were in attendance to back up the petitions, and their members addressed the council. Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith was also present and addressed the council. He said that it was desirable that the house of refuge should be established at or near the county town, because visits from the grand jury were necessary and so was supervision by county officials. He urged that it would not be fair to other counties which had complied with the act requiring the erection of a house of refuge in every county to make an exception in Halton's favor. He argued that it had been found by experience that it was better and cheaper for each county to provide for its own indigents than to farm them out to houses of providence and similar institutions. Though the act required a farm of not less than 25 acres in connection with each house of refuge, he did not think the Government would insist on this or on expensive buildings.

Mr. Ford's resolution to change the original arrangement was then passed, and Mr. Moore stood up. He explained that until then he had had no official notice of any general opposition to the Georgetown location. Having received it, however, he proposed to accept the proposition which had been made to have the building erected on the county property in rear of the court house and jail, but he would be in favor of allowing more than $5,000, the sum which had been named, for the building. He would make it $10,000. He moved a resolution to that effect, which was carried.

The members of the deputation and Dr. Smith then left the council chamber, but the Inspector returned later and asked permission to again address the council. On this being granted, he said that though he did not think there would be any interference with the proposal to erect the house of refuge in rear of the jail, he did not consider the location a good one. The grounds would be too small and there were other objections. He advised the council to select a piece of land sufficiently large outside the town. It is practically settled that this will be done. The members of the council who had favored the Georgetown proposal said that though this had been rejected, they would not allow their disappointment to lead them to oppose any reasonable or wise proposal. They wished to do what would be best in the interests of the county. It is likely that about 25 acres of suitable land will be purchased. A committee was appointed to select the land, and Messrs. Munro & Mead, architects, of Hamilton, will be asked to prepare new plans for a building less ambitious than that at first proposed, but one which will fully answer its purpose.

What Eddie Was Reading.

A New England father who believes that children should be nourished on good literature as well as on good food has always read the English classics aloud to his only son, Eddie, now six years old.

A friend of the family, knowing of this practice, recently asked Eddie what he was reading.

"A Wavering novel," was his reply.
