Football.

Milton defeated the Galt Scottsize, of Galt, 15 to 7, at the A.O.U.W. celebration here on Saturday. The game began late and ended after the first half of the seventh inning. At the start the game looked like big league ball. Troy Lott struck out, Charteris and Weber singled to left, but was retired with McFadeyn the next man up, on a lightning double play, Ryder to Telfer to Campbell. In the second, Dakin fanned, Colletz trebled to right and scored when Campbell juggled J. Graville's grounder. Gaville stole second, but Ryder surprised him by a fast shot to Telfer which caught him napping. Kress fanned. Telfer singled in the first, but Galloway and T. Lott fanned and Ryder died at first. So did Campell in the second, then Bert Lott walked, but was left, Maude fanning and McFadeyn gobbling Armstrong's foul fly. Fireworks began in the third. Mollineaux trebled to right, C. Graville was safe at first, Bert Lott fielding his grounder to Galloway in an attempt to get Mollineaux, Charteris sent both home by doubling to left, Weber was hit by a pitched ball, McFadeyn fanned, Dakin walked, Colletz went out, T. Lott to Campbell, J. Graville singled, scoring Charteris and Weber, and Kress trebled to left, scoring Dakin and Graville. Mollineaux went out at first. Galt's six runs this inning were partly due to misjudged outfield flies, which went for hits.. With the score 7 to 0 all seemed over but the shouting and the visitors got chesty, but that didn't last. Winn, first up for Milton, chose a low ball for his third strike, it got away from McFadeyn and a wild throw permitted Winn to perch on third, Telfer was safe on Dakin's error, C. Graville grabbed T. Lott's fly, Campbell sent in Winn and Telfer by singling to left, stole second and scored on B. Lott's single past Weber. Lott scored on Maude's single, same direction, Maude stole second and ambled across the plate on Armstrong's single to centre. Winn went out, Kress to Colletz. Bert Lott then went on the mound, and what he did to the visitors was a shame. He had everything, speed, curves, high and underhand delivery, a spitter and a floater, and he mixed them up in a bewildering way. C. Graville fanned, Charteris was safe when Campbell dropped Bert Lott's throw, Weber fanned and McFadeyn pop flied to T. Lott. In the fifth Dakin, Colletz and J. Graville fanned. Kress began the sixth with a double to centre. He tried to stretch it into a treble, but Telfer relayed Maude's throw to Galloway and the runner was out. Mollineaux and J. Graville fanned. In the seventh Charteris and McFadyen fanned and Weber flied to Maude. Out of 12 men up Lott fanned 9, only one hit was made off him and nobody walked, in Milton's fourth Dakin took the box. Telfer walked, Galloway trebled to left, scoring Telfer and scored himself in Ryder's single to left. Ryder went to second on a wild pitch and stole third. T. Lott got one in the ribs, went to first and stole second. Campbell singled and scored, Ryder and Lott. Bert Lott was out, Weber to Colletz, advancing Campbell to third, whence he scored on Maude's out at first. Armstrong fanned. He was hit by the ball on his third strike, was hurt, retired and Sinclair took his place. In the fifth Winn singled to left and scored on Telfer's homer to center, a very long hit. Galloway and Ryder fanned and T. Lott flied to C. Graville. In the sixth Campbell's fly to left was dropped by J. Graville, he stole second and scored when Colletz dropped Weber's throw on B. Lott's grounder. Lott stole second and third and scored on a wild pitch. Maude and Sinclair fanned. Winn walked and Telfer flied to left. The line-up:

AN ADVENTUROUS CAREER.—Last week's issue of the Oakville Star recounted the remarkable adventures of Edgar J. Bigger, son of Asa Bigger, of Oakville, who ran away from the home of his grandfather, the late Jas. Bigger, eleven years ago, when 13 years of age. After working in a number of American cities he embarked at San Francisco for Australia, working his passage. He had marvelous experiences in Australia and the islands of the Indian and Pacific Oceans. Then he went to South America. He was English teacher in a Spanish school at Valparaiso, afterwards visiting every nation on the continent. Finally he went north to Mexico. He has taught in the Sausian College, two miles out of Mexico City, for a year. Three hundred boys attend this college. Lately he determined to visit his grandmother and other Oakville relatives. He left the city on the express train following ex-President Diaz's special. His train was held up by revolutionists and all passengers robbed. He gave up $900. He spent last week at Oakville, is now at Toronto and will soon go back to Mexico via New York.
