The Canadian Champion
MILTON, July 10, 1924.

Yesterday, after the longest deadlock on record at a convention for the nomination of a candidate for the Presidency of the United States, the Democrat delegates chose John W. Davis, of West Virginia. Mr. Davis is a man of exceptional ability. He was Solicitor General in the Wilson administration for five years, he succeeded the late Walter Hines Page, as Ambassador to Great Britain, where he won a great reputation and general popularity, and since his return he has attained a foremost place in the legal profession of New York.

More safety and fewer accidents is a great need of this country. There are too many preventable accidents on the streets, in the homes and in industry. In this province alone industry pays, through the Compensation Board, an annual tax of about six million dollars for accidents, and this is only part of loss, for the employer and employee alike suffer every time there is an accident involving loss of time. Safety is largely a habit of mind and like other habits can be acquired. "Thinking safety" will, therefore, produce safety, so that both management and workers should give thought to accident prevention to the end that the awful toll in human suffering and the very considerable sums of money lost may be reduced to a minimum. More safety is a reasonable demand of industry in this country and is a demand which both workers and executives will support.

OAKVILLE BRIDGE OPENED.

The Oakville bridge was officially opened on Monday evening by Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Highways, after a delay of many months. The bridge, while ready to carry traffic, has not been put in a permanent state of repair. The work done was merely aimed to cover a test period of five years. It will be possible then, according to Samuel Squires, deputy minister, to determine whether the whole bridge will have to come down or whether permanent repairs will be possible.

Since the bridge was condemned last winter the aprons have been packed up and supported by a strong network of 12x2 timber. The approaches have levelled and the outer approaches macadamized. The repairs cost about $5000.

A banquet followed, at which Mr. Henry said that within three years there would be a trunk highway all way from Windsor to Montreal. All highways, said Mr. Henry, were numbered, and signs put up to mark curves, crossings, railway crossings, indicating villages counties and townships and distances. All these signs would be of a uniform character agreed upon by all the provinces. After this year's construction was completed, the highway would stretch from Bowmanville to west of London with a very small gap between Paris and Woodville. After this year the province would bear 80 per cent. of the cost to counties of carrying on road development under a superintendent, where statute labor had been abolished.

S. L. Squires, deputy minister of highways, also spoke, and there were present George Hogarth, M. J. Butler, the Hon. G. S. and Mrs. Henry, Mayor A. S. Forster, members of the county council and other prominent officials.

T. F. McHugh, of Acton, formerly of this place, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. J. McHugh, "Sixteen View Farm," 6th line, Trafalgar, this week. T. F. is at present working on the farm of Messrs. Robt. Kerr and Son, Erin township, near Acton, the right man in the right place.

Ballinafad.

The fall wheat and hay crops in this entire district are good this year.

Rev. Mr. Waddell, the popular pastor of Knox Church, made several pastoral calls at the homes of the members of his flock on the 5th line, Erin township, a few days ago.

Bro. T. F. McHugh, of this place, formerly of Drumquin, a member and officer of Streetsville L.O.L., No. 263, attended the regular monthly meeting of the said lodge on Wednesday evening, July 2nd. Bro. McHugh also attended the annual church parade of L.O.L., No. 263, at Trinity Church, Streetsville, on Sunday evening, July 6th. This important service was conducted by the rector of the church, the Rev. Mr. Perry. It was a decided success in every particular.

FOOTBALL.

The game announced to have been played here last Saturday did not come off. The Toronto Tramways wired that they could not come.

St. Clair Barns, Toronto, won an exhibition game here yesterday evening 2 to 0. It was well contested and Milton made a good showing.

BASEBALL.

Campbellville has been handicapped this season so far by Early having a sore arm, but was in luck here last Saturday, when the locals, who had played two good games at the reunion, fell down badly and threw away the game, 11 to 5, making no less than nine errors. Stewart was an absentee, which badly weakened the infield. The pitchers were not to blame. Akins started well in the first frame, when Lamb was retired on a foul fly to McMullen. Sharpe and Henderson followed with easy rollers, and the side should have been out, but both rollers were booted. This unsettled Akins. Blackburn doubled, sent both runners home and scored ahead of Crawford, when he hit a homer. Weir singled. Cartwright's infield roller was booted and Cairns walked, but Lamb fanned. In the second frame Akins issued two more passes, but there was no score. In the third, Weir singled and was forced out, on Cartwright's roller to Atkinson. Cairns tripled and scored Campbellville's only earned run. Lamb followed, Sharpe was passed and Atkinson threw out Henderson. Telfer went into the box in the fourth, with the score 5 to 0. He did great work. Only two hits were made off him in his six frames, but six runs were scored through bad support. In the fifth, three errors, a bonehead play and a passed ball, with no hits, accounted for two runs. In the sixth Blackburn started with a double. An attempt to head him off at third on Crawford's roller failed. He scored on Early's easy roller and Crawford was safe at second on fielder's choice. He and Early scored on Weir's roller to third and a wild throw to the plate, Weir reaching third, whence he scored on Cartwright's sacrifice fly to Elliott. Farlow pulled down Cairns's long fly. Lamb doubled, but was left when Sharpe fanned. Early started well, Milton getting one safety in the first three frames, but his arm seemed to weaken in the fourth, when Hume doubled and was thrown out at the plate when he tried to scoop on Chisholm's single to Crawford, Chisholm going to second on the throw and scoring an earned run on two wild pitches. In the sixth Farlow singled, but was caught between first and second and run down. Wallace fanned, and Hume lifted to Cartwright. In the seventh Chisholm was safe when Henderson dropped Cairns's throw. Elliott forced him at second, McMullen singled and Atkinson's single sent in two unearned runs. Telfer and Farlow fanned. In the eighth Wallace went out to Henderson, but Hume, Chisholm, Elliott and McMullen singled and two earned runs were scored. Elliot went out stealing, and Blackburn threw out Kennedy. Atkinson singled in the ninth, but was left. Farlow and Wallace made great running catches in the outfield, and Elliott accepted his only chance. Blackburn started at second base. Umpire Hickey's work was, as usual, first class. Blackburn walked into the diamond to dispute a correct decision and was ordered back to the bench. He went, and was wise in doing so. Resistance would have meant being put out of the game. Hickey can't be bluffed.

LEGAL REPARTEE.

Sir Harry Poland Tells Some Good Stories.

"Seventy-two years at the Bar" is the title of the reminiscences of Sir Harry Bodkin Poland, and this 95-year-old doyen of the British courts gives a sprightly lot of stories from his long life. He entered the Inner Temple in 1848, was called to the Bar in 1851, and his whole life has been spent in pursuit of the law. Sir Harry tells a good story about Lord Campbell. The Chief Justice corrected a barrister who pronounced Lord Brougham's name as it is generally done. "Mr. ———, Broom and not Bro-ham, is the correct way to pronounce that nobleman's name. If you speak correctly you will also save a syllable." Some time afterward Lord Campbell spoke of omnibus to the same barrister, who thereupon said, "If your Lordship would call it bus we should understand your meaning and you would also save two syllables."

Sir Harry heard Mr. Justice Wightman say a clever thing at the Assizes. Ribton, who used to defend prisoners, had the habit of making long speeches to the jury. One day he was exceptionally boring, and Wightman tried to pull him up. He said: "Mr. Ribton, you have said that before." "Have I, my Lord?" Ribton answered. "Yes, but it is such a long time ago that I pardon you for forgetting it." "My Lord," Ribton expostulated, "in defending a prisoner whose very life is in jeopardy, I am surely entitled to some latitude." "Yes," said Wightman, wearily, "you are. I am not complaining of the latitude, but of the longtitude!" Of Commissioner Kerr, a judge of the City of London Court, Sir Harry remarked: "He always was a strange sort of man. He used to sit in Court No. 4 at the Old Bailey—a sort of rabbit hutch, and always with his back turned to the jury. His summing-up was something like this: 'Ye've h-e-r-rd the evidence, conseede-r-rr ye-r-r v-e-r-dict.'" He was equally economical of words in passing sentence. Sir Harry heard him one day say to a prisoner who had been convicted of uttering counterfeit coin: "Wunce a smasher-r—everr a smasher-r. Seven year'rs."

"There were two very good judges who were on the Bench about the same time, called Parke and Park. Parke was a Baron of the Exchequer, and became Lord Wensleydale; Park, was a Justice of Court of Common Pleas. Mr. Justice Park had a habit of beginning any pronouncement in court with 'I as a Christian Judge,' and he had another of repeating aloud the evidence he took down and making audible remarks about it. He was once trying a man for stealing faggots, and when listening to the evidence he said, as he thought to himself, but in reality aloud: 'One faggot is as much like another faggot as one egg is like another egg.' This was overheard by counsel for the defense, and he dexterously incorporated the saying in his speech. 'Stop, stop,' cried Park, 'this case must not go on; it is an interposition of Providence; the same thought occurred to me.' The prisoner was discharged."

King's Aide-de Camp General.

Gen. Sir Walter Norris Congreve, who has just been appointed to the post of aide-de-camp general to King George, lost his arm during the great war, and, incidentally, he won promotion from the rank of colonel to that of general.

Sir Walter is the hero of a famous exploit during the Boer War, when he won the Victoria Cross. This was in 1899 when he volunteered along with the only son of Field-Marshal Lord Roberts and Surgeon-Major Babtie to recover the lost guns at the battle of Colenso. Young Roberts was mortally wounded, and disdaining the heavy Boer fire and regardless of their own safety young Lieut. Congreve, as he was then, and Major Babtie managed to carry their dying comrade back to the British lines.

Lord Roberts never forgot the part played by Congreve with regard to his boy and attached him to his staff as one of his military secretaries. On Lord Roberts returning to England Congreve was taken over by Lord Kitchener in the same capacity and afterward he was private secretary to the Duke of Connaught when the latter was Inspector-General of the British army.

Sir Walter, who is very wealthy, is the owner of Chartley Hall in Staffordshire, which he bought from the late Lord Ferrers after the latter's financial troubles at the remarkably low price of $400,000. It's a lovely old place, moated and dating in the greater part from the reign of Queen Elizabeth, while close by are lvied ruins of Chartley Castle, which was built by Randolph de Blandeville, the Crusader, fourth Lord of Chesterfield, after his return from the Holy Land.

First American Ship.

The Griffin was the first known ship to be built in North America. Its keel was laid by workmen in the employ of Sieur de La Salle in 1679. The Griffin was a bark of sixty tons and the keel was laid and the ship completed at the mouth of Cayuga Creek, not far from the site of the present city of Buffalo. It was armed with a battery of seven small cannon and some muskets, and floated a flag bearing the device of an eagle. In August of the same year La Salle embarked with his colony and sailed for the western end of Lake Erie, thus inaugurating the Great Lakes commerce. In the meantime La Salle's creditors, thinking him lost, were selling at Montreal all his possessions. To prevent this he loaded the ship with rich cargoes of furs and sent it back with orders to return immediately. He then explored the western country but on returning to Fort Frontenac, learned that the Griffin had been ship-wrecked.

A Scotsman's "Luggage."

When a Scotsman was fined at Willesden for being drunk, it was stated that he told the police he had come to London for a holiday, but the only luggage he brought with him was a bottle of whisky and two tumblers.

Prisoner was asked why he had brought two glasses. "Just for feart one would get broken," was the reply.

Animals as Prophets.

The scenes of some animals are known to differ considerably from those of human beings.

For instance, a cuckoo, five months old, which has never been five miles from the place where it was hatched, can find its way, unaided, from England to Africa.

As all fishermen know, trout go off their feed before rain. They cannot see the sky, yet they know hours in advance when a change in the weather is coming.

Animals can tell in advance when a bad earthquake or volcanic eruption is about to occur. In Sicily dogs showed great uneasiness two days before the eruption of Etna. Cats carried their kittens away from houses, and hares seemed stupefied by fright.

Similar knowledge was exhibited by animals before the great Valparaiso earthquake of 1906, but in this case horses and cattle as well as dogs were desperately uneasy for twenty-four hours before the big shock. Dogs howled all night, and cattle lowed.

Before the Messina earthquake of January, 1915, birds were noticed to be flying in flocks, evidently greatly disturbed, but it is an odd fact that there were no such signs before the sudden and dreadful earthquake which destroyed San Francisco.

On explanation of this sense possessed by dumb creatures may be that animals having finer powers of hearing than man, may detect underground rumblings or quiverings which man cannot hear. Or it may be that there is some electric tension which affects them. At any rate, there is no doubt that they do know many hours beforehand when an earth convulsion is about to take place.
