

Gaudeamus Choirs re-creates a prairie tradition

Gaudeamus Choirs of Halton Hills offers something completely new for Christmas this year— its Festival of Trees— on Saturday, Dec. 5, 1-4 p.m. in Glen Williams Town Hall, 1 Prince St.

A prairie tradition, the afternoon event will feature community carol sings at 1:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m., performances showcasing the angelic voices of Gaudeamus's Junior, Intermediate, Senior and Boys Choirs starting at 3 p.m., and a draw for fully decorated trees and other festive items that begins at 4 p.m.

Admission, $15 (children, 12 and under free) gives four food or beverage selections, and one raffle ticket for a Christmas tree. Community groups have been invited to decorate a Christmas tree, which will be on display. In addition to fully decorated trees, the raffle also includes Christmas crafts and decorations. Tickets available at Silver Creek Café, 112 Main St. S., Georgetown, and at the door.

A portion of proceeds from the afternoon will be donated to "Food For Life," a regional community group, which provides food and outreach for those in need.

The singers, with participation from local schools, are preparing for an opera production at St. John's United Church, on Feb. 20, 2016. More info: gaudeamus@cogeco.ca
