connection, Mr. McPherson referred to the opinions of eminent British statesmen to show that a Budget should not be treated in a purely party aspect, and went on to say that if the Tariff resolutions had been discussed with perfect freedom in the House of Commons, it would now be so unpalatable. The resolutions, however, were not fettered by such discussion, but dealt with it free from party bias and with a strict regard to the interests involved. Two years ago, when Criminal Laws came up from the Commons at a very advanced stage of the session, the Senate refused to consider them, but there was not a word said about any wrangling affecting the stability of the Government. The Senate, in the case of the Tariff, was called upon to exercise an impartial judgment, especially as it was only representing particular sections or interests which were unfairly dealt with in the Bill.

It being six o'clock the Speaker left the chair.

AFTER RECESS.

The Senate resumed at Eight o'clock, and the debate on the tariff was continued.

Hon. Mr. McPHERSON—Before the House adjourned he had argued that, instead of taxing the people, for the sake of benefitting a few monopolists, it would have been a wise policy to have subsidized the latter directly out of the public revenues. It was well known that the majority of the owners of the mines of Nova Scotia were not residents of the country, and therefore any benefit shown to them would not be a benefit to the great mass of the people of Nova Scotia. Therefore, it would be seen that the tariff, so far as it touched salt and coal, was only intended to benefit monopolists to the injury of the great mass of the people. Many individuals would be found to proceed from the operations of the tariff. A large number of the vessels that come every year from the United Kingdom for timber were loaded with coal instead of ballast. Where they got for it went in reduction of the freight charges of the vessels; and it necessarily followed that the profit of the Canadian shipping of Ontario was greatly affected insomuch as a large number of vessels were now engaged in carrying American coal. He did not think the tax would be operative, but if it did the revenue would be disappointed by the operations of the Government. If it were seized, then the result would be that it had stated most injurious to our interests. Another interest in Ontario would also be affected by the salt duty, and that was the Lake Fishery. The ocean fisheries could not be touched inasmuch as the salt used in curing the fish was allowed to be free from Great Britain and her possessions; but there was no such provision affected to the inland fisheries. It was called a great national policy. It was to protect all interests and please all sections, and lead to the renewal of reciprocity with the United States. If the argument was correct, then the tariff would destroy itself; but what was to be done? Was it to suppose that an intelligent nation of ourselves to the extent of two hundred thousand dollars was going to have the effect of forcing the Americans to resume free trade with Canada? If it was true that a mutual interchange of products would be the best for both countries, we should receive all that we required from them untaxed in other words at the lowest possible rates for ourselves (hear, hear). What could be more illogical than to say to the Americans—"If you do not make what is consumed by your people, we shall impose a tax on what is consumed by our men." If we could make the Americans pay the taxes, then there would be some reason in the arguments of the gentlemen opposite; but so long as we had to pay themselves, there could be nothing advanced in favour of the tariff. Because he had stated that the course he was pursuing was influenced by a high sense of public duty; and he had no hesitation in urging the Senate to adopt the resolutions which he had laid before it. If money was wanted, he imagined that the Government would have no difficulty in devising such a tax as would be more acceptable to the people of this country than that now under consideration. He believed that if the Government had adhered to the changes first made on a memorable afternoon, when up in the House of Commons, they would have acted more wisely; for if so amended, would have been more acceptable than the present measure, which was unpopular from one end of the Dominion to the other.

Hon. Mr. MITCHELL—No, no.

Hon. Mr. McPHERSON—The hon. gentleman could see how many members from this Province would support him in the question. (Hear, hear). Public opinion was unmistakeably opposed to the measure; he had not seen a newspaper of any mark or influence that was fully in favor of it. The Local Legislature of Nova Scotia had unanimously expressed their dissent from his policy. In the election shortly to come off in that Province, no candidate he was assured was likely to present himself and pronounce in favour of the tariff. In New Brunswick and Quebec the press was as a rule and against the measure. Under these circumstances, a great responsibility devolved upon the Senate in dealing with a Bill of so important a character. No doubt it was said it is the perfect right of the House to dispose of the question in the way proposed; and in this connection, Mr. McPherson quoted from Todd, and other authorities on British Parliamentary Practice, in support of his argument. Not withstanding British precedents in favour of the right of the Senate to deal with such a measure, Canada could afford examples in the opposite direction. In 1859, the Legislature was sitting at Toronto, and the question of the removal of the seat of Government to Quebec arose. The Government had pledged itself to the Legislative Assembly to remove the Government to Quebec, but the Council was opposed to such a measure. An item on the subject was passed in the estimates—the Government had pledged itself on the question. The Hon. Mr. De Blaquerie moved, seconded by the Hon. Mr. Allan that the Council itself called upon to decide and resolve in defence of its dignity and unquestioned rights as a coordinate and co-equal branch of the Legislature, and as the only means of preserving its independence, that it will not take the Question of Supply into consideration, &c." The motion was carried. Among the names constituting the majority on that occasion, there was one who would be considered as of great authority—and deservedly so—the Hon. Mr. Campbell, the present Postmaster General.

Hon. Mr. LETELLIER DE ST. JUST—He was "revolutionary!"

Hon. Mr. McPHERSON—At that time Hon. Mr. Vankoughnet took the ground that the Postmaster General assumed now. Mr. Campbell then said that the responsibility rested on the Government and not on the Senate. It was right to assume that the hon. gentleman took the correct view in 1869 rather than in 1870. The Bill was amended, and the extreme step of stopping the supplies was taken, but a few days after the Government had an accession of strength by the arrival of members of parliament and the measure passed the Commons by a majority of two. The only debateable point now in fact, was whether the Supply Bill should be amended in the Senate. So far as he was individually concerned, he had no other desire except to enhance the dignity of the House, and enable it to retain the respect and gratitude of the people throughout the Dominion.

LOCAL NEWS

Great novelties in summer goods by last steamer from England opened to-day at Magee and Russell's.

Fine of this season's Lettuce, Radishes, Rhubarb, &c., &c., at J. B. Buss & Co's, 21 Rideau street.

Cashews and House Furnishings made a specialty. The largest stock of New Goods, and lowest prices in the city at Garland, Mutchmor & Co.

St. Andrew's Society.—A meeting of this Society will be held at Gowan's Hall this evening.

A Raft.—In a few days we shall be visited by a raft of 2,400 pieces of red and white pine timber, the property of Mr. O'Meara—a neat little raft.

At 11 o'clock this day, Mr. Bermingham will sell at the residence of Major Robertson, Daly street, near St. Alban's Church, all that gentleman's household property.

The Market—Wednesday.—Was pretty fair, and was quickly cleared by the crowds on the square. Some live stock offered for sale. Flour has an upward tendency.

Accident.—A laborer, named Jodouin, had one of his hands cut off by a circular saw yesterday morning, at Wright and Batson's Mill, Hull. The poor fellow was soon assisted in his affection by Dr. Graham.

The Aylmer Court House.—The Aylmer Times don't like the manner in which the Court House in that village is being reconstructed. It states the rear wall is so curved that a person standing at the base cannot see the top.

Lumber Trade.—Yesterday there were over 40,000,000 feet of sawed lumber for importation at the Chaudiere. The sawed lumber of the Rideau, Blanche and Livre is not taken in which might form half as much more.

Mr. Bermingham is out again with another auction sale of household furniture. This sale is to be on Tuesday next, the 17th inst., at the residence of Major Streatfield, on Daly street, adjoining Knox's Church. All that gentleman's household furniture, carriages, sleighs, &c., will be sold at 11 o'clock, a. m. See advertisement.

Lost and Found.—Early in spring a squaw disappeared, leaving some trumpery behind her in a rough box. Search was made for her but in vain. She turned up yesterday, and was brought to the Asylum of the Good Shepherds on Park street. She claimed, and got her chattels.

Not so Bad as Reported.—The statement made in several of our papers that Mr. McLaughlin's fine mill at Arnprior was destroyed by the high water is happily not true. A portion of the flume was carried off, and it was feared for a time serious damages would be done to the mill itself.

The Methodist Church Yard.—The Fence of this sacred repository is in a very poor condition in some places. A citizen and his wife went up to view the grave of a little one—the mother intending to render her tribute of still-living affection to her dead child; but they found in the cemetery over a dozen of cows. It appears it would cost but little to refit the enclosure.

A Gigantic Excursion.—During the course of next month an excursion will be got up to St. Francisco. This is doing things on a scale which would have been pronounced absurb by our fathers. Fancy an excursion across the Continent!

Our enterprising fellow-citizens, Messrs. A. & A. H. Taylor, Grand Trunck tickets agents are foremost in the field in offering ro pass excursionists tickets from Ottawa to the golden city and back—first class, from $230 to $170. This includes Pullham's palace, sleeping car.

New Way of Fishing.—Mr. James Kelby, the other day while walking towards the rives alongside the locks, was attracted at the sight of a huge fish at the bottom of the second lock. He procured a pike-pole, and descended the gate, and speared his fish-ship in the back. The fish struggled hardly, and nearly trough him down. It proved to be a maskinonge four feet in length, and weighing 40 pounds.

Beef and Mutton.—A good and substantial dinner is above all things desirable, and it is not easy to dine well, without a nice piece of roast. A tender, rich, juicy steak, a finely flavoured mutton chop, a nice veal cutlet, or a handsome leg of lamb, to say nothing of "the wing of an ox," can be at reasonable, and as cheaply procured from Mr. Bolton, whose advertisement is in an another column, as from anybody else in the butchering line known to us.

For Red River.—We understand Mr. Wm. Morris has received a contract for the preparation of the road to be traversed by the troops on their way to the North West, and for this purpose has engaged some thirty young men in the neighbourhood of Renfrew, who leave that place for their destination to-day or to-morrow. They will be absent six months, during which period they will get $23 per month for their services, and their expenses paid.—Pembroke Observer.

Grand Italian Operatic Concert.—Sometime ago we intimated the probable coming hither of the Signora Maria Gellie, who had been so favourably received at Milan last year, and more recently had been creating quite a sensation in New Jersey. She has now arrived. She gives a concert, in connection with other celebrities, under the most distinguished patronage, on the 17th instant, as will be perceived by the advertisement in another column, at the Music Hall Rink.

Police Court.—Wednesday—Ellen McTavish, an old and decrepid woman, was charged with being drunk on the streets. She stated her son would not let her into his house. She got 3 weeks in gaol.

Thomas Galagher—Disorderly conduct on the first of May. He had been arrested, but escaped. This case was dismissed. A second charge of drunk and disorderly was brought against him, which was adjourned. The prisoner was bailed.

A case of desertion from service was adjourned for further proof.

Mazeppa.—The Theatre last night was crowded. The company deserved such an ovation. The peculiarity was that Miss Nellie Nelson appeared for the first time as "Mazeppa," and the horse was partially untrained. Miss Nelson must possess a great amount of nerve—a fresh actress in such a part, with a new and partially untrained horse, to undertake the dangerous task of doing "Mazeppa." The play has been fruitful of excitement in every of its performances. Luckily, through the quiet training of Mr. Marshall, for a week or two, Miss Nelson went through her part in this thrilling drama. The horse did credit to its trainer, in all the scenes wherein the animal was introduced—the lights beaming, the music, the applause of a large audience would have frightened any but a very select animal. The self-possession of Miss Nelson, aside from her good acting, deserved the applause which she received. The play was a success in every respect. It will be repeated to-night.

Synod of Montreal.

The Synod of Montreal met on Thursday last, at Bank Street Church. Dr. Taylor, the retiring moderator, preached an instructive sermon from Rom. chap. 1, verse 16, after which the Synod was constituted.

Dr. Taylor returned thanks for the kindness and forbearance of the Synod exercised towards him in the discarge of his duties. He intimated that the time had come to choose a successor.

The Rev. A. Wilson, of Kingston, was unanimously elected, and took the chair.

Routine business was then attended to, and the meeting adjourned till next morning at 10 o'clock, a. m.

MEETING OF YESTERDAY.

Among others matters, there was brought before the Synod an overture by the Kingston Presbytery on the propriety of taking steps towards the establishment of High Schools or Academies for the higher education of young ladies. The project was very favourably received. A committee was appointed to bring in a recommendation on the subject to-day. The greater part of the day was taken up with the settlement of administration questions of interest only to the parties concerned.

The evening diet was occupied with a conference on the state of religion within the bounds of the Synod.

FRANCE.

Paris, May 10, 1 p. m.—Several riots occurred last night, but were not very serious.

Three or four barricades were erected in the Bellevue district, but were feebly defended, and the troops carried them without firing a shot. Shots were fired, but not by the troops.

There was great excitement, but owing to the large display of troops the crowds were more noisy than dangerous.

3 p.m.—Barricades have again been thrown up in the Faubourg du Temple and in Bellevue, and troops are now operating against them.

It is reported that Captain Fontaine, in command of one of the attacking columns, was wounded badly by a pistol shot.

NEW CITY DIRECTORY.

The subscribers beg to announce that they purpose bringing out within three months, a new edition of the CITY OF OTTAWA DIRECTORY, which will contain an alphabetical list of residents; a Business Directory; list of farmers in the counties of Carleton and Russell; the several societies and institutions of the city; names and Post Office addresses of members of the Senate and House of Commons; names and residence of the Civil Service employees; brief notices of our manufactures; the New Tariff, &c., and also a map of the city.

As the mercantile, professional and manufacturing interests of Towns of Prescott and Pembroke are so intimately connected with this city, the publishers will include these places in this Directory.

The editions will be large, and advertisers will find it to their advantage to patronize the undertaking.

Our agents are now canvassing the city for all the necessary information requisite to make the volume as perfect and as accurate as possible.
