ANDERSON'S PETITION TO HIS ADOPTED COUNTRY.

BY JOHN HENRY VARRELL.

Knock of the fetter from my heel,
My chosen land, once more
Beneath thy glorious flag I feel
No tyrant bars the door.
I heard of thee, where blushing skies
O'erlook the despot bands
That break the tend'rest dearest ties
Bestowed by holy hands.
I heard of thee,
Upturn the key,
Return me not where Slavery
Can bid her faggot flame.

I fled, unfriendly, but by One,
Through track ess wilds to roam—
To leave behind me sigh and groan
To seek a freeman's home.
Pursued, I turned and fought for life,
For liberty, as dear;
And He who watched the deadly strife,
In safety brought me here;
Brought me to thee,
Unturn the key,
Substantiate thy fame;
Return me not where Slavery
Can bid her faggot flame.

To thee, then noble land, I look,
For justice and for rights,
Denied in parts that I forsook
For those which freedom lights.
From tyrant chains, my race to save,
Thy vessel's plough the sea;
So surely thou'l protect a slave,
Who struck, himself to free.
I trusted thee,
Unturn the key,
Substantiate thy fame!
Return me not where Slavery,
Can bid her faggot flame.

It is not always the gent who takes the highest honors or who gets the most credit.

Once, our statesmen clustered around the liberty tree; now, our politicians only take the stump.

Wisdom often comes to us too late in life to be of much service to us. There's no use of mustard after meat.

Many people's lives are not worth the market value o the iron in their blood, and the phosphorus in their bones

It is easy to love our fellow-men. Do good to them, and you will be sure to love them.

Most men like a spirit of self-sacrifice in their friends a great deal better than in themselves,

The heart of a beautiful woman, like that of a beautiful flower, may be the abode of a reptile.

He who reforms himself has done more towards reforming the public than a crowd of noisy, impotent patriots.

People would rather pardon the defects you have, than the affectation of virtues you have not.

The persons most anxious to add to their wealth are generally those who don't know how to make any good use of what they have already.

Sink not beneath reverses. Play the game of life boldly. Here, at least, you may sometimes copy the gambler, who doubles his stakes as fast as he loses.

In Japan, boys become men at fifteen, and receive new names. Many of our youth wear their good names out before they are fifteen, and are in deplorable want of new ones.

"You want nothing, do you?" said Pat, "Bedad, an' if it's nothing you want, you'll find it in the jug where the whisky was."

The man who imagined himself wise because he detected some typographical error in a newspaper, has gone off to get a perpendicular view of the rainbow.

An Irishman, being asked in court for his marriage certificate, showed a big scar on his head, about the shape of a shovel, which was satisfactory.

A negro, after gazing intently on the Japanese, exclaimed—
"If de white folks is dark as dat out dare, I wonder what's de color ob de niggers.

A story is told of a person asking another one whether he would advise him to lend a certin friend money.
"What lend him money! You might lend him an emetic, and he wouldn't return it."

An editor offers his entire establishment, subscribers' etc., to a clean shirt and a good meal of victuals. He has been trying the experiment of trying to please everybody.

"Ah, doctor how is my wife to-day?"
The doctor shook his head and said—
"You must prepare for the worst."
"What!" exclaimed the alarmed husband, "is she likely to recover?"

"First boy, state what were the dark ages of the world."

"Two maidens of all work, meeting in the street the other morning, had the following but pointed colloquy:
"Well, Het, how are you.
"O, capital, Sally!" My master has got the gout, and cannot wear his boots; so I haven't got to clean of a morning.
"Oh, Het! what luck.

There is a deal of sound sense at times in the remarks of insane persons. At the South Boston Asylum, a few days since, a patient was asked if he was fond of riding horseback.
"No, sir, I ride a hobby."
"There's not much difference between the two," carelessly remarked the gentleman.
"Oh, yes, there is," said the patient, and it is this If you ride a horse you can stop him a d get off, but when you mount a hobby you can't stop him and get off."
"There is wisdom for you!"
