THE GIRL WITH THE CALICO DRESS.

BY ROBERT JOSSELYN.

A fig for your upper-ten girls
With their velvets and satins and laces,
Their diamonds and rubies and pearls,
And their milliner figures and faces.
They may shine at a party or ball,
Emblazoned with half they possess,
But give me in place of them all,
My girl with the calico dress.

She is plump as a partridge, and fair
As the rose in its earliest bloom;
Her teeth with ivory compare,
And her breath with the clover perfume.
Her step is as free and as light
As the fawn's whom the hunters hard press,
And her eye is as soft and as bright,
My girl with the calico dress.

Your dandies and feplings may sneer
At her simple and modest attire,
But the charms she permits to appear
Would set the whole icebergs on fire.
She can dance—but she never allows
The hugging, the squeeze and caress,
She is saving all these for her spouse,
My girl with the calico dress.

She is cheerful, warm hearted and true,
And kind to her father and mother;
She studies how much she can do
For her sweet little sister and brother.
If you want a companion for life
To comfort, enliven and bless,
She is just the right sort for a wife,
My girl with a calico dress.

Miscellaneous.

THE CHAPS IN COLD WEATHER.—Why do young ladies like cold weather? Because it brings the chaps to their lips.

A Mahometan proverb says: "The ink of the learned, like the blood of martyrs, is sacred in the eyes of heaven."

A Western editor, in speaking of a dandy's dickey, says: "It was scented and torn like a south wind after passing through a fence made of thorn bushes?"

The events of to-day are more interesting to us than those of yesterday. So men are fast giving up books for newspapers.

A WIFE-TAX.—In some official correspondence respecting our colony at Natal, just published by the Colonial Office, a tax of 7s. a wife is alluded to as in operation in that colony, 'so that a Caffre having six wives has 42s per annum to pay to Government.' The tax was originally imposed by order of Lieutenant Governor, 'as paramount chief over the natives,' or father of his country, but was afterwards fixed by law of the Legislature.

One fine summer day, some thirty years ago, the schoolmaster of a country parish meeting the Provost of Dunfermline about the hour of noon, remarked somewhat pedantically in passing, "A delicious day, Provost; the sun is just now about meridian." The Provost assented. Meeting some friends that evening, the civic hailed them—"We have had a most malicious day, gentlemen; the sun is just now about the Mediterranean.'

A physician calling one day on a gentleman who had been sorely afflicted with the gout, found, to his surprise, the decease gone, and the gentleman rejoicing in his recovery over a bottle of wine. "Come along, doctor,' exclaimed the valetudinarian, "you are just in time to taste this bottle of Madeira: it is the first of a pipe that has just been broached.' "Ah!" replied the doctor, "those pipes of Maderia will never do; they are the cause of your sufferings.' "Well, then,' rejoined the gay incurable, "fill your glass; for now we have found out the cause, the sooner we get rid of it the better.

A HUMAN BAILIE.—A bailie of Cupar Fife was possessed of considerably more shrewdness than those we have enumerated. Two boys were brought before him, charged with trespass within the enclosure of Craufurd Priory. The prosecutor was the factor of the late errentic Lady Mary Lindsay Craufurd. The bailie having ascertained that one of the youths was a drummer from Edinburgh Castle, and that the other belonged to a guard-ship at Leith, gave each a shilling, and told them to go home—one to his castle, and the other to his cabin. "And now,' said the magistrate, addressing the factor, "you may tell Lady Mary that I have sent one of the delinquents aboard a man-o'war, and the other to be a sodger.

YOU ARE A BRICK.—A certain college Professor had assembled his class at the commencement of the term, and was reading over the list of names to see that all were present. It chanced that one of the number was unknown to the Professor, having just entered his class.

"What is your name, sir, asked the Professor, looking through his spectacles.

"You are a brick," was the startling reply.

"Sir," said the Professor, half starting out of his chair at the supposed impertinence, but not quite sure that he had understood him correctly. "Sir, I did not exactly understand your answer."

"You are a brick," was again the composed reply."

"This is intolerable!" said the Professor, his face reddening. "Beware, young man, how you attempt to insult me.'

"Insult you," said the student, in turn astonished.

"How have I done it?"

"Did you not say I was a brick?" returned the Professor, with stifled indignation.

"No, sir, you asked my name, and I answered your question, U. R. A. Brick Uriah Reynolds Anderson Brick."

"Ah, indeed," murmured the Professor, sinking back into his seat in confusion. "It was a misconception on my part. Will you commence the lesson, Mr.-ahem! Mr. Brick?"
