dilligence, he can call his own. Intellectual pioneers have been there before him, cleared away the rubbish of superstition, cast up the highway of science; broken up the fallow ground of error; sowed deep the seeds of thought and brought fourth a harvest of golden truths. A world of mind lies before him, the inhabitants of which he has hitherto heard of only by rame, and with whom he now finds it necessary to become acquainted in order that he may hold intercourse with them. As he advances, Bacon meets him with his "Philosophy," and Locke with his "Logic." Newton may be seen with his "Laws of Gravition," and Dick with his "Celestial Scenery." Chambers desires to call his attention to his "Miscellany of Useful Knowledge," and Layard and Belzoni to tell of the remains of bygone centuries. To Hershael's mental wanderings among the Stars, Miller adds his "Testimony of the Rocks" and a thousand others bearing in their arms noble sheaves of successful thought, readyto throw them to the feet of all who appreciate their value and covet their possession.

Many depend upon the Institute, or Societies of the same nature, to make up the lack of privileges in more youthful days. To us our school-boy days are over, and even then Grammar School opportunities were never thought of; a "titled" teacher then, was a specimen of the genus homo who never sought among us a "local habitation and a name." But it does not follow, that on this account, we should allow our minds to contract or our skulls to thicken. A Mechanics' Institute would go a great way toward counteracting any tendency in this respect; indeed the very working of the machinery, so to speak, of its internal management, is calculated to give play to the mind and enlarge the intellect.

If then, there are those who, desirous of adding to their little stock of knowledge, are willing to become identified as members of the Institute,—are there not those amongst us whose philanthropy will prompt them to afford the opportunity? If a few gentlemen of influence and standing in society would aid in organizing such an institution on a firm basis, and cause it to appear before the public as an object worthy of their attention and support, there can be no doubt of its ultimate success. The time was when our Village did not afford a suitable room for meeting,—that difficulty is now obviated; the Temperance Hall is available for such purposes, and the running expenses would be a mere bagatelle. The long evenings are setting in,—the winter is at hand; spare hours will have to be put in somewhere. Shares in a Mechanics' Institute might be taken up with advantage and no doubt would prove a profitable investment. We have gentlemen in our midst who are sent for by the Societies of other Towns and Villages, to lecture for them,—who would, if requested, do the same for us; an active committee would find it no great difficulty to provide a course of Lectures on a variety of subjects. for the winter.—To my mind. Lectures delivered by able and talented individuals is one of the best methods of conveying instruction to the mass, for hundreds listen attentively who never open a book, and scores attend of an evening who would consider it a task to sit at home and read the newspapers. The knowledge diseminated by this means is generally retained; by Lectures, we have the most valuable parts of History, Science or Philosophy, prepared as it were for our digestion; they consist of facts and important data so clearly delineated that we can scarcely do otherwise than retain them in the memory, and of a variety of information carefully gathered from many a volume, and concentrated for an intellectual entertainment of a single evening.

We hope, Mr. Editor, that the hint droped by you will not be forgotten, but that a few individuals who are really interested in the mental and moral welfare of the youth of our village will endeavor to get the "Institute" established, and that many evenings of the coming winter will be pleasantly and profitably spent in the enjoyment of "feasts of reason" and intellectual "flows of soul.'

A MECHANIC.

RICHMOND HILL, 1865.

Provincial Exhibition.

The following is the programme for the Exhibition week, to take place at London, C. W., commencing Monday, Sept. 18, 1865:

PROGRAMME FOR THE WEEK.

1. MONDAY Sept. 18th will be devoted to the final receiving of articles for exhibition, and their proper arrangement. None but officers and members of the Association, judges, exhibitors, and necessary attendants will be admitted.

2. TUESDAY, 19th.—The judge will meet in the Committee Room at 9 A.M., and will commence their duties forthwith. On receiving their class books, they will be also furnished with the blankprize tickets, which they shall fill up and affix in each section so soon as they shall have finally determined their awards. The First Prize Tickets will be red; the second Blue; the third Yellow; the fourth White; Extras, Green. On completing the class the judges will report to the Secretary of the proper department. The main Exhibition Building will be closed all this day for the purpose of affording the judges an opportunity for discharging their duties properly. Non-members admitted to the grounds this day on payment of 25 cents each time. The ploughing match will take place this day within as convenient a distance of the exhibition ground as possible.

3. WEDNESDAY. 20.—The judges of the various classes will complete their awards as early in the day as possible. All the buildings and grounds will be open to visitors. Admission this day the same as yesterday. A public meeting will be held this evening in the Mechanics' Hall at 7 P. M., at which farmers generally and others interested in the progress of the Association are invited to attend.

4. THURSDAY, 21st.—Admission this day the same as yesterday. In the evening a meeting of Delegates will be held in the Mechanics' Hall, at 7 P.M., preliminary to the Annual Meeting, for the discussion of subjects relating to the management of the Association, and for the nomination of Candidates for the offices of the Association.

5. FRIDAY, 22d.—The regular Annual Meeting of the Directors of the Association. for the purpose of electing officers, deciding upon the place of holding the next Exhibition, and other business, will take place at 10 A.M., in the committee Room. The President will deliver the Annual Address at 2 P.M., after which the Exhibition will be considered officially closed, and exhibitors may commence to take away their property. Admission to-day the same as yesterday.

6. SATURDAY. 23.—The Treasurer will commence paying the premium at 9 A.M., Exhibitors will remove all their property from the grounds and building. The gates will be kept closed as long as necessary, and none will be admitted except those who can show that they have business to attend to.

Important Gold Discoveries at the Chaudiere.

The kingston Daily News of Saturday says:—"We have received intimation by special telegram from Quebec that some most important gold discoveries have been made in the Chaudiere mining division. Nine different quartz viens have been discovered, located partly in the Seigiories and partly on the Crown domain. Some of the veins yield fifty-four dollars of gold to the ton of quartz, and one rich vein yields one hundred and six dollars sixty-five cents to the ton. These discoveries show the deposits of gold in the chaudiere region to be very rich and profitable, and are sure to create a lively excitement regarding the Chaudiere country. Perhaps what in California language is termed "a rush" may be experienced. It should be remembered, however, that to make these deposits of gold available the quartz must be crushed by machinery and the gold separated by washing and amalgamation. These processes invole the outlay of capital; and, consequently, however promising these discoveries may be to mining capitalists, they should not rashly tempt inexperienced and needy adventurers.'

I KNOW not which of these two I should wish to avoid most—the scoffer at virtue and religion, who, with heartless villany, butchers innocence and truth; or the pietist, who crawls, groans, blubbers, and secretly says to gold, thou art my hope! and to his belly, thou art my god!—Lavater.

THE LATE MR. JUSTICE HALIBURTON.—The death of this worthy man and generous humorist was almost sudden at last, though he had been ailing all the summer, at least it came suddenly upon those dearest to him, though foreseen, apparently by everyone else. He had come down stairs and been wheeled round the lawn, and then gradually grew dull, and did not answer when Mrs. Haliburton and his son spoke to him; after a pause he told them to send for the docte. They carried him to his room, and in the act of trying to get on his bed, he expired. He was greatly esteemed and beloved by all who knew him well, and his loss will be keenly felt.—London Daily News.

Louis Napoleon is preparing another spectacle that will astonish the whole world. It is the world's fair that will be held in 1867. Napoleon seems to be jealous of the honours reaped by the late English Prince Consort, and so willingly and gratefully bestowed upon him by all the civilized nations. He is determined to outdo the British in the arts of peace, as he has surpassed their influence in war and politics. The palace that is going to be erected, will excel by far either that of Sydenham, or any other one on the continent. The Crop Legislatif has voted a sum of six milions of francs towards its erection, and the city of Paris will contribute its share to make it a complete success.

CURIOUS STATEMENT RESPECTING AN ARMY SURGEON.—The London News of the week contains a singular statement respecting the late Dr. Barry who must be well remembered by many of our readers, as holding the place of inspector of hospitals in this city a few years ago. The statement appears to be taken from some military journal, though of that we are not informed, and is to the effect that Dr. Berry died recently in Corfu, where he had determined to remain, after the island was surrended to the Greeks—and that after his death, it was discovered that he was a woman, and had been a mother. Those of our readers who remember him (or her) will doubtless be reminded that his appearance was by no means masculine. But how a woman could have obtained admission to the schools and then to the army, is not explained.—Montreal Herald.

ANOTHER BURGLAR CAUGHT.—Another burglar has fallen into the clutches of the police force of this city, and a trunk packed with stolen property, consisting of dry goods, Bibles, Testaments, children's toys, and various other articles, found in his possession. On Wednesday last Acting Chief Cummins received a telegraph from Detective O'Neil, of Ottawa, asking him to look out for a burglar named Isaac Williams, a ticket-of-leave man. Cummins went to work, and after a good deal of difficulty ascertained yesterday that Williams had got employment in Mr. O Keeffe's brewery, on Gould street, as cellar-man, and took him into custody. He also learned that he was endeavoring to get a chum of his into Mr. O'Keeffe's employ, where the twain would doubtless have aided each other in robbing their master. When arrested the prisoner refused to tell where he boarded, fearing his trunk would fall into the hands of the police. Cummins, however, succeeded in finding the trunk in a house on Victoria street. He then telegraphed to Detective O'Neil to come to Toronto for the prisoner, who was quartered in the City Hall station last night.

MACEY'S
Air-Tight and Frost-Proof Door!
PATENTED. JUNE 16, 1865.

REFERENCES:
RICHMOND HILL, July 20th, 1865.

MR. WM. C. MACEY.

SIR.—Your Air-tight Door seems likely to meet with liberal favor from the public.

We require some thing of the kind to render out-side doors proof against air and frost—this invention will doubtless meet the case, and will be found both cheap and efficient. It commends itself to the judgement of those who investigate the matter, as being calculated to save fuel, and to render a family residence more healthy and attractive.

Having adopted the principle in my residence, you have thereby the test evidence, that I consider your patent worthy the attention of the public.

Yours truly
AMOS WRIGHT, M.P.P.

RICHMOND HILL, July 1st, 1865.

MR. WM. MACEY,

SIR,—Having tried your "Patent Air-tight and Frost-proof Door," I have reason to believe that it is an excellent contrivance, and calculated to contribute much to the comfort of those who adopt it. I am of opinion that much less wood will be required to heat a house in the winter season if your patent is applied to the outside doors of a residence.

M. TEEFY, Postmaster,

RICHMOND HILL, July 4, 1865.

MR. WM. MACEY,

SIR—I have examined your model of newly invented door, and consider it superior to any thing I have seen for stopping draughts and frost, and think it will greatly save fuel, save health and prevent damage from frost. It is likewise cheap.

Yours, &c.,
JAMES LANGSTAFF, M. D.
