MEDICAL!

MR. EDITOR.—I take the liberty of asking as a favour, a place in the columns of your useful little journal, as the most ready channel by which I may reach the ears of my brethren in the profession in this country,

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE YORK MEDICAL SOCIETY.

GENTLEMEN:—I take the liberty of addressing you in view of the July meeting of our Society, and of those questions that are likely, I hope, to engage our earnest and serious attention at that time. At our meeting in July next, delegates will be chosen to represent us at the general meeting of the Canadian Medical Association, to be held in Montreal in the Autumn. Now as these gentlemen will require a skeleton at least, in the way of instructions, which should thoroughly represent our views at the central meeting of the profession; I take the liberty of asking your serious attention in the mean time, to some of those points that are likely to form a part of our deliberations, at the ensuing semi-annual session. I have for years back, been much pained at the widespread apathy, manifested by my brethern in the rural districts, as to all matters touching our interior polity and progress. As a rule, after obtaining our degrees and choosing our locations, we have settled down to making money, and striving for honors; I am sorry to say, in all the other walks of life, save in the more legitimate domain of professional worth and emulation, this fearful monia for offices and honors, civil and political, has I feel derogated much from the dignity of our manhood, and seriously injured the vitality of our institutions. And while we have slept, the enemy has been invading our boundaries, tearing up our ancient landmarks, and have actually succeeded in gaining a foothold in this our beloved country.

Quackery and empericism under the euphonious terms of Homeopathy and Eclecticism have commended themselves to a careless and ignorant legislation, and the practice of medicine after the above modes, is now law.

While we believe that this fearful mistake occurred, partly from that want of deep respect for high educational institutions, which is scarcely to be looked for in the legislative halls of a country so young as ours; yet, on the other hand, I believe much blame is due to those of us, who have stood idly by, while this great wrong to our body, and to mankind was consummated.

It is scarcely a week since one of the most prominent papers in our Province of Ontario, came forward in defence of this great bald farce, and one of its members who had rendered himself notorious. Gentlemen, if the press will thus recede from its legitimate and ever-to-be respected function, of defending the cause of truth progressive and science; then I would suggest that if we are united as one man on this matter throughout the length and breadth of this New Dominion, we are strong enough, and may soon be able, to teach the press that they cannot with impunity, faust this sublime hoax upon the intelligence of this young nationality. England but a short time since, through one of her highest judicial officers, severely rebuked and chastised this insolent humbug, in the person of a recreant son of Canada; and if we but maintain union and courage in our ranks, but a few years will elapse, before this giant evil will be weeded from our land.

If we in the future would secure success, in the protection of our rights and interests as a body, as well the conservation of orthodox medicine; we must organize. The grand initiative have been taken last year at Quebec, in the formation of a Dominion Society. It now remains for us to encourage the organization of a Society in every County, if possible.

In view of the organization of our profession into a body corporate; there are many matters not only connected with the general plan to be finally adopted, but as well, subjects of minor detail, that should at at once claim our careful thought and attention.

That the late Medical Bill has failed to give general satisfaction, will be conceded by all. In fact its repeal, and the substitution of a new and more practical arrangement, is a subject that will likely be discussed by the profession at the next annual meeting of the new Medical Association.

The members of our profession throughout the County, have suffered often much and deep wrong, for want of a proper tariff recognized by law. The law Society in this matter, at least, is much to be envied; and I believe the establishment of a regular tariff of charges, which all would be compelled to adopt, would in the end render the connection between Doctor and patient much more agreeable, as well as promote harmony among the brethren. The introduction of a literary and scientific element into our county societies, is something that in this age of progress is loudly called for. At each semi annual meeting; the reading of an essay and the discussion of subjects and cases will add much to the interests of these meeting, as well as tend to our mutual profit and advancement.

Gentlemen, in conclusion, I would just say, that the few feeble remarks that I have offered for your consideration, are presented in all earnestness, and hoping to meet a large majority of the members at the coming session.

I have the honor to be
Your Ob't Servant,
J. N. REID, M.D.
President,
York Medical Society.

Thornhill, June 9, 1868.

To the Editor of the York Herald.

MR. EDITOR:—I am happy to observe that the correspondence between "Justice" and myself, seems to have be productive of at least one good result: it appers to have taught "Justice" to be a little more courteous in his language towardsthose who are guilty of heinous offence, of thinking differently from himself. A comparison of the two effusions, with which he has favored the public, will show that his expressions have become very much modified. I congratulate him upon the change, and, if it were not too much presumption, would recommend him for the future to be temperate in his language, as well as his habits, and he will be the more esteemed both by those who are friendly and those who are adverse

"Justice" gives part of the truth in his version of the one instance I quoted out of the many, but either designedly or carelessly omits one or two features, which, in my estimation, materially alter the appearance of the affair. He states, correctly enough, that the gentleman from Whitby won the first two heats, but does not inform us, that two other of the competitors arranged to press him alternately, hoping thereby to exhaust him; and the managers, perhaps through haste, as soon as they returned from one heat, started them off on another. The individual alluded to, seeing the game resolved to oppose artifice by cunning, and in the third heat ran down leisurely, to regain his breath. As no distance post was erected, this seemed legitimate, but the managers decided that it was unfair, and decreed that the race should commence afresh. In this heat two local competitors getting the start kept in front of the gentleman, and crowded so as to prevent him passing them. This being allowed by the judges, he very prudently withdrew from the contest.

"Justice" most emphatically denies that it was a preconcerted arrangement to keep certain of the prizes within the limits of the village. I as emphatically assert, that I unintentionally overheard a prominent member of the committee, in the presence of 2 or 3 of the committee, make the remark, to which I gave expression in my last article; besides other proofs which I do not feel at liberty here to mention. If this is not predetermined, please explain the meaning of the word.

"Justice" affirms that there was no foul play in Markham this year. I am glad to heart it—I congratulate the Markhamites on their improvement, and hope that without egotism I may falicitate myself, that my first communication, wounding though it did the sensitive feelings of "Justice," was one of the agents which helped to bring about the consummation so devoutedly to be wished for, not only in Markham, but in all the villages it reached. If such is the case, it has accomplished its desired and designed effect, and I am satisfied.

And now, Mr. Editor, although a love of triumph is an innate principle of the human heart, I feel that I would be doing you an injustice, were I to continue this correspondence from a mere desire to vanquish an opponent; for I am sensible, that you will have many things to publish, more interesting to your many readers, than a controversy which might, if kept up too long degenerate into personal abuse or angry recrimination, like too many of the controversies of the present day.

I deem it judicious, therefore, to close the controversy, and tender to you my sincere thanks for having kindly permitted me to occupy so much of your valuable space.

I am, dear Sir,
Your's &c.

TORONTO UNIVERSITY.

Believing that our readers take an interest in the progress of our national University, we transfer to our columns, from the Leader of the 9th inst., the list of successful candidates for University honors for the academical year now closed. We are much pleased to perceive that our highly esteemed friend, J. M Dunn, Esq., Head-master of the Guelph Grammar School, succeeded in the uncommon intellectual feat of passing examinations for two separate degrees—that of Bachelor of Arts as well as Bachelor of Laws—both of which were conferred upon him at convocation, as will be seen in the list we publish below:—

From the Leader.

ANNUAL CONVOCATION.

The annual convocation of the University of Toronto was held on Monday afternoon, the 8th inst., in the convocation hall. The attendance was very large, the room being completely filled with a fashionable audience, the great majority of whom were ladies. The beautiful park surrounding the University building was, for an hour previous to the commencement of proceedings, the scene of more than usual life and gaiety. About that hour a company of the 29th regt., intended as a guard of honor to his Excellency the Lieut. Governor—with the band and a large number of well-dressed persons of both sexes, might have been seen on their way to the building. Shortly after two o'clock General Stisted arrived in a carriage driven by four horses. The guard of honor presented arms, and His Excellency was met at the door by the Chancellor of the University. The students then entered the hall and took the seats provided for them on either side of the assembled audience. Then came the beadle, holding the mace, followed by the Professors of the University College, Mr Justice Morrison, Chancellor of the University; Mr Adam Crooks, Vice-chancellor; and his Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, who was accompanied by Lieut.-Colonel Anderson, R.A.; Lieut-Col. Hassard, R.E.; Capt. Moorsom; Capt. Sandham, R.A.; Capt. Parsons, Brigade Major, &c. His Excellency and staff were provided with seats on the dais. The Chancellor was supported on his right by the Vice-chancellor, and on his left by the Rev. Dr. McCaul, President of University College. The following professors, members of the Senate, and tutors belonging to the College, were present:—H H Croft, D C L, F L S; J B Cherriman, M A; Daniel Wilson, L L D; Rev James Bevan, D D; G T Kingston, M A; Rev W Hincks, F R S Very Rev Dean Hellmuth; D D of London; Rev A Lillie, D D; G R Cockburn, M A, Principal of U C College; J H Morris, M A; A McLean, M A; N O Walker, M A, M D; M H Aikens, M D; U Ogden, M D; Thos Moss, M A Registrar; J Loudon, M A; W. Dr Aikens presented these medals, and in doing so said that the Starr Medal originated through the liberality of the late Richard Knowles Starr, who lived in the western part of the Province, and who left several acres of land to the University, which he wished devoted to the instruction of students in three branches of medicine. The examinations were conducted in the ordinary way, and those were the gentlemen who were the successful competitors for the medals. The medals were not ready yet, but he had great pleasure in presenting the gentlemen.

PRINCE'S PRIZE.—J Galbraith.

The VICE-CHANCELLOR, in presenting this the last prize, said it was the highest the University could bestow. It was similar in character, he said, to the general proficiency prize, but it was to be competed for by men who were going in for the several departments, and there was a great deal of competition for it. On the present occasion, Mr Galbraith, it would be found, was first in the first class of French, first in the first class of German, and first in the first class of Italian. Considering that the examination was a very searching one, it could well be imagined that the amount of information Mr Galbraith must have obtained and the rigid ordeal to which he had been subjected were very great. (Applause.)

The Chancellor in presenting the prize, which consisted of an elaborate silver inkstand, complimented the recipient on his success.

MARKHAM COUNCIL.

The above Council met at Unionville, on the 6th inst.

Reeve in the chair.

Members all present.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

The Council resolved itself into a Court of Revision; after making a few alterations in the assessment roll, the Court adjourned until the next meeting of the Council.

The Council then proceeded to general business.

SAD ACCIDENT AT PARKHILL.

The numerous friends of Mr. John Harrison, who reside in this section of country, will be grieved to learn that he has sustained a severe affliction in the sudden death of his son; the particulars of which we copy from the North Middlesex Review of June 5:—

"CHILD DROWNED.—On Friday the 29th ult., at about two o'clock in the afternoon, the youngest child of Mr. John Harrison was accidently drowned in a ditch used to convey water to the steam engine in Mr. Harrison's mill. The deceased was an interesting little boy of about three years of age. It appears he had been in the habit of going to the mill, which is only a short distance from the house, and on the day in question he left the mill unobserved. It is supposed he had tried to cross the ditch on a plank and fell in. When he was missed, search was made and the poor little fellow was found floating on the water, face down. Life was entirely extinct. It is a sad bereavement to the afflicted parents, and another of the afflicting casualties which so often falls to humanity, and baffles the most prudent forethought. It forcibly reminds us of the truism, 'In the midst of life we are in death'. The funeral took place at Nairn on Sunday last. Rev. Mr. Lund preached a very impressive sermon in the W. M. Church in the evening."
