Poetry.

AUTUMN THOUGHTS.

I stood by the lofty elm branches o'ershaded
When Summer's fresh roses were bright on the wall,
And thought of the time when their hues would be faded—
When the hand of decay would have gather'd them all.
I gazed on the beauty that cluster'd around me—
The green golden landscape the sun lingered o'er,
And sigh'd for the spells with which youth had enwound me,
In the days of my childhood, returning no more.

I stand in the garden now Summer is dying
And grieve that her beauty so early should cease;
The wind in the branches is wailing and sighing—
The cry of a spirit that findeth no peace.
I think of the Home that our Father hath for us,
Of the rest we shall gain when the race has been run,
When the grass and the daisies are beautiful o'er us,
And the manifold labors of life are all done.

I think of the land of affection immortal,
And wonder that men should be sorry to go
To the sweet Fatherland, of which Death is the portal,
And leave all the cares that oppress them below.
For thorns are surrounding the flow'rs which glow brightest,
And grief, such as will not for sympathy crave,
Is often consuming the heart which seems lightest;
How welcome to such is the rest of the grave.

CATACAZY, the Russian Minister to the United States, telegraphs as follows to the Bussian Consul at San Francisco:—"President Grant having designated the 18th of November as a thanksgiving day I instruct you to have a thanksgiving service celebrated on that day in the Russian chapel, at San Francisco, inviting all Russian subjects to unite their prayers with those of the American people."

PARIS, Nov. 16.—The Emperor gave an audience to Baron Werther, the newly appointed Ambassador from Prussia, at Compeigne, yesterday. Much good feeling was manifested. Baron Werther assured the Emperor that the Prussian Government desired to preserve the present amicable relations with France. Napoleon replied warmly and at considerable length concluding by saying he much wished for the development of a good understanding between the Prussian and German Confederation on one side, and France on the other.

COBOURG, Nov. 16.—About one o clock yesterday, Mr. Henay Easton, Collector of Costums for Cobourg, during a fit of insanity shot himself with a short rifle. The ball passed through the heart, causing instant death. There being no witnesses to the shooting, the jury at the inquest returned a verdict of death from the effects of a gun shot wound, accidentally, or while laboring under temporary mental aberration, under circumstances unknown to the jury. Much sympathy is felt for the widow and family. Mrs. Easton, having lost a brother by accidental death in Bellville on Saturday last.

REGIMENTAL REGRET.—The drill-instructor of an old regiment of the line—one of the old stamp of martinet sergeants—who was the terror of every recruit, and the remorseless tyrant of the awkward squad, was putting a firing party through the funeral exercise. Having opened the ranks, so as to admit the passage of the supposed cortege between them, the instructor ordered the men to rest on their arms reversed. Then, by way of practical explanation, he walked slowly down the lane formed by the two ranks, saying, as he moved:

"Now I am the corpse. Pay attention."

Having reached the end of the party, he turned round, regarded them steadily with a scrutinizing eye for a moment or two, and then remarked, in a most solemn tone of voice:

"Your 'ands is right, and your 'eads is right; but you 'av'n't got that look of regret you ought to 'ave."
