Press & Radio Given Praise By Mayor For Courtesy, Efficiency

"Swan songs" marked Richmond Hill's town council meeting prior to Christmas, with Deputy Reeve John Bradstock and Councillor Howard Whillans, both retiring voluntarily from council at the end of 1961, expressing appreciation of the co-operation of other members.

Communication media came in for their share of bouquets also, with Mayor James Haggart referring to "The Liberal" and radio station CFGM as "two very faithful and efficient" sources of information. He paid tribute to the individual representatives and their "never-failing co-operation."
