NEWMARKET: Gray Coach Lines and GO Transit have jointly announced plans to transform an empty automobile sales building (Art Close Motors) at Yonge Street and Davis Drive into a bus terminal to serve as the hub for all present and future bus operations serving Northern York County.

Benson's White Paper Pure Socialism

"There's at least a billion dollar tax increase built into the Benson White Paper on Taxation. The proposed new system has more inequities than the old one," John Bulloch told members and guests of the Richmond Hill Chamber of Commerce last week at the Richmond Hill Golf and Country Club.

Mr. Bulloch is a businessman. He is also a business finance and management instructor at the Ryerson Institute of Technology. He is secretary and director of the Canadian Council for Fair Taxation. He helped found this organization to fight the federal government's recent tax change proposals.

Mr. Bulloch was guest speaker and was also inviting his listeners to join and support his organization. Many of the businessmen present picked up and took away the Fair Taxation Council contribution forms placed at their tables before the dinner meeting.

Just returned from speaking to what he described as packed and very responsive western audiences at Calgary and Edmonton, Mr. Bulloch said it was no joke to say the West is on the verge of separation.

Mr. Bulloch said the White Paper is going to have serious regional consequences. The West who depend on small business farming had no broadly based industries like Ontario. The White Paper was going to "zap" small business, farms and resource industries, exactly the things the West has got.

"But you don't hear in Toronto much about the West's mood of separation," he said.

Mr. Bulloch said the White Paper was originally planned as legislation. "This is a fact," he said.

The job of his group, he said was to make sure the public treated the White Paper as a serious social document. He agreed there was good in the provisions that would give relief to people of low income. But if the underlying principles of the proposals were examined, it must be concluded there was cause to worry about the basic effects the tax changes were going to have on society. He maintained the document was pure socialism.

"The periphery issues are being sold to us by the government," he said. 'We are dealing with a major government publicity machine."

"Everybody, including former Cabinet Minister Paul Hellyer, says they are going to go through with the White Paper proposals with only minor changes. We've got to prevent apathy. That's our major aim. Only five percent of the population is trained to understand what's involved.

"I'll take a strong individual enterprise over a strong group anytime. I disagree with the taking away of incentives for individual enterprise. This is a very serious issue," the Toronto teacher said.

He said Ottawa adjusted the Carter Tax Report recommendations to get revenue, not equity. The neutrality base idea of the Carter Report was not in line with reality to begin with. It was in an "Alice In Wonderland" world.

A hard core issue, he said, was the heavy levies proposed on capital. They were downright confiscatory. "In 30 years we won't have a free enterprise system. The pools of capital will be gone."

The part time university instructor said the universities today are hotbeds of socialism. They were full of well intentioned, but economically naive, humanitarians, he said.

The Fair Taxation Council submitted a 76 page brief to the House of Commons Committee studying the Benson proposals, he said. This outlined a workable system of alternatives to the White Paper.

"There's nothing new being said to the Commons Committee that wasn't said during the Carter inquiry," he said. The people in Ottawa had seven years to involve themselves in tax reform. The White Paper proposals were not going to change unless there was a cleanout of the government financial advisors in the civil service.

The proposals would help the poor in the worst way possible, while ignoring Carter recommendations. The government made a major blunder when it failed to accept the system of tax credits for those of low income as Carter proposed, he said. By continuing with the tax exemption system, the White Paper would help the better off more than the very poor.

A tax credit system could be adjusted every year, according to circumstances and inflation, without changing the whole income tax scale. With the income tax scale it had taken 20 years to get some relief for the poor.

dropped, and this was a very serious matter.

"They're so stupid, you don't know how to reply to them. Do you call the Finance Minister a liar?" he asked.

"We're even fighting the churches now. When taking on the churches you're really in trouble," he said, referring especially to the Roman Catholic and United Churches. They were taking on the same line as the federal Liberals in Ottawa, "tax reform and love the poor," swallowing the line that the White Paper was to help the poor, Mr. Bulloch said.

Mr. Bulloch was introduced to the Richmond Hill Chamber of Commerce meeting by Chamber Director Al Ashton, and thanked by Treasurer Ted Rutledge.

CANADIAN COUNCIL FOR FAIR TAXATION

"They aborted Kenneth Carter. If he were alive today he would be utterly shocked. The man being 'zapped' is the man in the middle, not the big estates. They're going to make it almost impossible for Canadians in the middle class to accumulate capital and pass it on to their heirs." said business expert Bulloch.

He said Carter's income-averaging recommendation was

Won't Pay Taxes Until McKeough

This is subtracted from the amount to be levied against residential property. Council cannot set a mill rate for any one section of the municipality that is different.

"Your assessment now was based on the 1967 market value, the one you will get in September 1970 will be based on the 1968 market value. If you think you are hard hit now, wait till you see that one," he told a shocked audience.

"Your assessment can be remedied for next year, if we stick together and make our voices heard long and clear at Queen's Park."

Chairman Reale pointed out that high school students were set up in the hall to record documented case histories of those who were the greatest victims of the re-assessment — whose 1969 assessments went up much more than the 6½ times average throughout the township. An example cited was the property of Joe Kiik, who owns a five-room bungalow on a two-acre lot on Steeles Avenue. Because of re-assessment at market value, his taxes (based on the interim tax notice, estimated to be one-third of the total levy this year) will be $2,000. He paid $441 in taxes last year.

Mr. Reale asked any "hardship" cases who have not yet let the committee know the details of their assessment change to send such infomation to "Vaughan Township Ratepayers, PO Box 68, Thornhill". He emphasized the importance of having every case documented to present to provincial authorities.

He also reported that Donald Deacon, Liberal MLA York Centre, who missed the meeting has promised to introduce a private members' bill in the Legislature to allow Vaughan Township to levy 1970 taxes on the 1968 assessment, which was used last year.

The agenda of the meeting listed among information items for discussion the fact that Vaughan Township education levy is due May 31, by existing provincial legislation, and that the township had already deposited a sum of $175,000 with the York County Board of Education towards their total levy, for which they will receive 8½% interest (the same amount the board would pay elsewhere on loans) until June 1. Trustee Warren Bailie told the meeting he had been told by the information officer of the board of education that on April 23, Vaughan had deposited a further $750,000 with the board to take advantage of the interest rate which is greater than could be obtained elsewhere on short term loans. "This is almost a million dollars," Mr. Bailie pointed out.

Deputy-reeve Rutherford, in response to a demand from a member of the audience, explained that council has not yet adopted a budget for 1970. Since it had been advised by the Department of Municipal Affairs to issue an interim tax bill while waiting for the province to complete an investigation of the assessment in the township, since the 1969 tax rate was 117 mills for residential and 120 mills for industry and since the township's assessment went up 6½% times overall, he said council took one-sixth of the 120 mills or 20 mills.

It was known that the levy for education had gone up a mill and a half, and a half mill was allowed for increased costs of police protection and other township departments, bringing the estimated mill rate for the year to 22 mills. "When we learn what assistance we are going to get from the province and when we know exactly what we will need for our own costs, the final rate may not be that much," he pointed out.

Two ratepayers told those who had not appealed their assessment, that it would have been "a waste of time. You haven't missed too much."

An attempt to have the meeting pass a resolution calling on the entire council of Vaughan Township to resign and to turn the conduct of municipal affairs over to Judges of the Supreme Court was greeted by a chorus of seconders. However, after several ratepayers cautioned that this would lead to an even worse situation, when an attempt was made by Chairman Reale to get the name of the seconder, none was forthcoming and the motion died. It was moved by W. E. Matthews of Riverside Boulevard, Thornhill.

"I went before Supreme Court of Ontario once and it took a year and a half to get there. It certainly won't offer a speedy solution," said one man. Another warned against conducting a "kangaroo court". Mr. Reale stated "As chairman I don't think kicking council out is going to accomplish anything. We must stick together and we are here tonight to come to a decision as to what we should do."

Jack Bateman of Concord, who was critical of council's delay in taking action on Monday night's council meeting said ,"Now it's too late, but it's up to every one of us to get behind council, if council will get off its —. That's the only way we'll be heard. I suggest no one pay taxes until we have a reply from the provincial government." Later, he warned that ratepayers will remember council's actions when election time comes around. "I wonder how many people here have exercised their franchise and got out and voted. If you have, and only then, you can criticize council." He then challenged, "Let's march on Queen's Park if that's where the answer lies. Let's go and get it!"

Another ratepayer pointed out that some homeowners do not control payment of their taxes, since these are paid by the company holding the mortgage, emphasizing the fact that a tax strike will be less than 100% effective.

CGIT Doings

By JANET HNATCHUK
Richmond Hill United Church

The meeting on April 22 was opened with the purpose and song of CGIT and the Lord's Prayer.

Discussion of new business followed, including a tour of Radio Station CFGM to be held soon, details of which will be announced in a later column.

Wanda Mashinter and Margaret Burns conducted a short worship service.

Members worked on their crafts for the "Daffodil Tea" to be held on Saturday. Tickets are available from members or at the door at 10 cents for children and 35 cents for adults.

The meeting closed with "Taps".

Pioneer Course Graduates Work In YCAMR Pre-School Nursery

Research Chairman Elizabeth Flood presented two interesting films at the April 21 meeting of the York Central Association for the Mentally Retarded at Thornhaven School. The next monthly meeting is scheduled for May 18 at the school.

Pre-School Nursery

The association proudly announces that Mrs. Lorraine Potter of Markham, pre-school nursery teacher and Mrs. Winona MacDonald of Richmond Hill, volunteer assistant, were recent graduates of a province-wide correspondence and in-training course for those who work with retarded children of pre-school age.

The pioneer course was developed by Dr. Aaron Auerbach (PhD in Child Development with a specialization in learning disabilities from Purdue University) and was sponsored by the National Institute on Mental Retardation, York University, and the Ontario Association for the Mentally Retarded in co-operation with the Day Nurseries Branch, Ontario Department of Social and Family Services.

Purpose of the course was to train individuals working with young retarded children to program for the retarded child by using the principles of normal growth and development. Because of the success of the course and the enthusiasm of the participants, both students and sponsors, Dr. Auerbach hopes to develop it further so that it may be available throughout Canada and the United States.

At present YCAMR's pre-school nursery is operating Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings at the Baptist Church, Wright Street, Richmond Hill, with an enrolment of 13 children. Mrs. Potter is assisted by more than 40 volunteers, each of whom attends one or two mornings per week. One volunteer is required for each child at each session and a number of volunteer drivers is also needed. The nursery would operate Friday mornings if enough additional volunteers were available.

YCAMR is now applying for a licence in accordance with the standards set by the day nurseries branch of the provincial government.

Flowers of Hope

Canadian Retarded Children's Week is May 10-16. Envelopes containing flower seeds are in the mail. When you receive yours, plant the seeds in your garden and you will be planting seeds of hope in your community by contributing to the "Flowers of Hope" campaign.
