

WHEELS

NICE WHEELS: Chevrolet has announced the 2016 Trax Midnight Edition — a blacked-out styling statement for the small SUV, offering customers a bold choice and adding to the momentum of the brand's record 2015 crossover sales. Based on the LTZ trim, the Midnight Edition features black wheels, bezels, beltline molding and door handles, along with a black rear license plate applique. Inside, the seats are trimmed with grey accents and the floor mats feature grey piping. Fusing small-car agility and utility convenience of a CUV, Trax offers up to 48.4 cubic feet of cargo space. A 1.4-litre turbocharged engine offers the efficiency of a small displacement engine — an EPA-estimated (US) 34 mpg highway (FWD models) — with the power of a larger engine on-demand. Connectivity features include an available 4G LTE Wi-Fi hotspot. Trax is joined by a full complement of Chevy crossovers and SUVs including the Equinox, Traverse, Tahoe and Suburban. The Trax Midnight Edition goes on sale in late February 2016.

Audi lauded for green efforts

The soon-to-launch Audi A3 Sportback e-tron earned recognition as a leader in sustainable propulsion by qualifying as a finalist for the 2016 Luxury Green Car of the Year and 2016 Connected Green Car of the Year awards.

They will be presented at the Washington Auto Show on January 21. The awards “recognize vehicles that exhibit laudable environmental achievement,” according to Green Car Journal, which oversees the awards.

“Along with improved environmental performance, traditional buyer touchstones like functionality, safety, quality, value and performance are also considered.”
