A FRIGHTFUL CALAMITY.

A dispatch from St. Thomas, Ont., received here last evening conveyed the following terrible intelligence: "A horrible accident took place this afternoon at the L & P. S. railway crossing near the fair grounds, whereby three persons lost their lives—Mr. J. C. Dempsey, of Hamilton, his sister, Mrs. Fred Sanders, wife of Mr. Fred Sanders, lumber merchant of this city, and her little 6-year-old son. A train coming from Port Stanley struck their buggy and knocked it into splinters. Mrs. Sanders' body was found lying twenty yards from the crossing, with the head completely several from the body, and the child was taken from the cow-catcher of the engine dead. Mr. Dempsey's body was found some seventy-five yards from the crossing. Life was extinct, but the body was not badly mutilated."

Mr. Dempsey and Mrs. Sanders were son and daughter of Mr. Geo. Dempsey, of this city. Mrs. Sanders, with her little son, had been on a visit to her parents, and left Hamilton for St Thomas on Thursday afternoon, accompanied by young Mr. Dempsey. She was brought up and educated in Hamilton, and had many friends here. About seven years ago she was married to Mr. Sanders, and her only child was the boy who perished with her.

Mr. Dempsey was a fine, manly young man, and was widely known and well liked in the city. He excelled in manly exercises, especially in rowing, and, as a member of the Leander rowing club, distinguished himself several times in the aquatic arena. Mr. Dempsey was twenty-eight years of age, and unmarried. He was born in Milton, but the family moved to Hamilton when he was very young, and he received the greater part of his education here. When 15 years old he received an appointment in the city post office, and remained in the service ever since. Latterly he was employed in the forwarding department. Three weeks ago he went off on his annual vacation, and was to have returned to work next Monday. Poor fellow, he was at the regatta on Wednesday with his friends, and seemingly enjoyed the competitions, which few could appreciate better than he.—Spectator Aug. 8.

The London Free Press of Saturday says: "Mr. Sanders has the sympathy of the community in his terrible affliction, the family being widely known and highly respected throughout the southwestern section of the Province. His many friends in London and vicinity will most sincerely regret to learn of the terrible misfortune that has so suddenly bereft him of a loving wife and baby son.

"The crossing at which the terrible affair occurred is in a very dangerous condition, and the necessity of a watchman being stationed there has frequently been remarked. It is situated a short distance west of the railway bridge that spans the river near Alma College, and its surroundings are such as to render the view of an approaching train difficult to obtain. This is especially the case on the west, for along the entire south side of the roadway and upon the east side of the railway track runs a fence 8 feet in height, and the track stands a disused watching-house, and the two objects combine to form a very serious obstruction, rendering it almost impossible for a person approaching from the west to observe a train coming from Port Stanley until almost on the crossing, when it would be too late to do anything. There is a low open fence on the northeast, southeast and northwest of the track, but this would not be likely to be in any way with the gaze of any person driving along. The high fence and watching-house doubtless were the cause of the unfortunate people failing to observe the oncoming train in time to stop their horse.

"The fact of the victims seemingly running right before the train has led many to wonder if the engine whistle had been blown to warn them of its approach, and it certainly seems that it was not, as if it had been sounded surely not have attempted to cross. A person who was on board the train claims to have stated in conversation last night that the whistle was not blown. But a coroner's inquest will probably determine whether it was or not. The bodies of all three of the victims of the accident were buried at Tyrconnell on Sunday."

Hamilton Times 10th inst.—At 9.30 yesterday morning an immense concourse of people had surrounded the residence of Mr. Fred Sanders, at St. Thomas, in order to show their respect for that gentleman and to express their sympathy with the relatives of the deceased. The remains of the victims were placed in their coffins and moved to Trinity Church adjoining, where impressive services were held, the rector of the church officiating. At the conclusion of the service the cortege formed and moved off to Tyrconnell, a village situate about twenty miles from St. Thomas. Public most funeral processions, the long line of vehicles, instead of diminishing as the cortege advanced, was being constantly lengthened by residents on the route falling in with their carriages as the funeral passed. At 3 p. m. Tyrconnell was reached, and the hearses were driven into the pretty romantically situated burying ground. Three open graves awaited the reception of the unfortunate occupants, and as each body was lowered into its last resting place not few dry eyes were observed amongst the large assemblage present. The services at the cemetery were impressively read by the incumbent of the adjoining church, after which the mournful services were concluded.

A special train left London yesterday morning, conveying a number of friends from that city, together with the pall-bearers, from Hamilton—the latter consisting of Messrs. Ryan, Crisp, Eccleston and Smith, of the Post-office, and Messrs. Kittson and Staunton, barristers. Amongst those who attended the funeral were observed Messrs. Cass, M. P.; Mr. Ermatinger, M. P. P.; the Messrs. McBeth, Talbot, Dawson and Beaumont, of London.

The news of the terrible death of Mrs. Sanders and her brother caused a great shock to their relatives and friends in the neighborhood of Milton, and great sympathy is felt here for their family.

LOWVILLE.

One of the most dastardly and cowardly assaults that has ever came under our notice took place in the basement of the Lowville Methodist Church on Monday evening, August 3rd, as the Quarterly Board for this circuit was doing its regular business. A point of business came up whereby the truthfulness of an absent gentleman was under consideration, when a member of the Board stated that he would as soon believe the absentee as the person who appeared to doubt his word. Another member of the Board who, by the-by, is a steward, and who was sitting behind this person, struck him a violent blow across his face. Great excitement was caused by this exhibition, some urging order, others crying "Paste him! Paste him!" and in the excitement the pugilistic steward "butted" his way out into open air. Legal proceedings are talked of, and we suppose a church trial also. There is quite a change in some members of this Board. Only three months ago this same person who is now so ready to use his fists said that if we had any hard feelings or difficulties we ought to pray over them. Now his motto seems to be "If praying won't do, let us fight over our differences."

The Scott Act, I suppose, is the law of this country; but would it not be better for all concerned if we had licensed houses here again, so that there would be other and more congenial places for some people to spend their evenings, and then the numbers that attend Quarterly Boards would be greatly diminished. We could give names, but for the present we withhold them. —FAIR PLAY.

If the public are fairly and faithfully dealt with they will come to appreciate it sooner or later. This fact is well illustrated in the experience of Messrs. Tuckett & Son, with their well known "Myrtle Navy" tobacco. Throughout the manufacturers of T. & B. have stood firmly by their original idea to give the public the best article possible, at the lowest possible price, and in the large demand for their tobacco the public have manifested their appreciation.

BURGLARY.—Burglars, supposed to be boys, entered the C. V. R. station on Saturday night by removing a 12x16 pane of glass from a window and crawling through the sash. They broke open and ransacked a drawer where they probably expected to find money, but didn't get any, and all they carried off was a valise belonging to Mr. Milliken, telegraph operator. They took the valise to an adjoining field, where they cut it open and left it, after taking from it two shirts, which they appropriated.

He says he finds it impossible to keep them away without resorting to measures which perhaps their parents might not appreciate, and he hopes that the latter will look more sharply after their young hopefuls than they have been doing heretofore.

Mr. Denoon shipped 35 head from his own farm, averaging 1,360 pounds. Total, 65 head during the week.

PICNIC.—The union picnic at Oakville on Monday, under the management of Father Slaven, was very largely attended, many Hamiltonians being present. There was a base ball match between the White Oaks of Oakville and the League and Cross nine of Hamilton, the former winning by a score of 8 to 7, and the competition in the athletic sports was very lively and interesting. The refreshment stands, which were in charge of the young ladies of the R. C. church, were well supplied and extensively patronized. The Oakville brass band played at intervals, and Bond's string band supplied music for dancing.

DISMISSED.—We learn that Police Magistrate Young has dismissed the charge of illegal liquor selling against Dr. Johnson, of Oakville. The alleged offence, it will be remembered, was supplying wine to a patient who was in a dying state and required it, but could not get it elsewhere without sending to the city for it, and the information was laid by the husband of the woman, after her death. If Police Magistrate Young had had any sense of decency he would never have entertained the charge at all, but when once he did take it in hand we cannot see how he was justified in dismissing it, as it is clear that under the law a physician has no more right to sell liquor than any one else, and it was proved that Dr. Johnson did sell it. It seems, however, that the case caused great indignation in Oakville, public sympathy being all with the doctor, and Mr. Young, much though he would no doubt have liked to have made a conviction, thought it better and wiser to use a little of that discretion which he exercises so often, though generally in the opposite direction.

GARDEN PARTY.—The garden party held at Comely Bank Farm on the 29th ult. was a complete success. The evening was beautiful, and a large crowd assembled in the fine grounds. The Streetsville brass band rendered some selections in a brilliant style, and were much appreciated. The singers were: Messrs. Geo. Cline, D. P. Sherin, Miss Bessie Apbelbe, Mrs. Geo. C. Holden, of Hamilton, and Mrs. John R. Leslie. Mr. Cline took immensely, as usual; Mr. Sherin quite kept up the reputation he has earned, amusing the audience greatly; Miss Bessie Appelbe was a great favorite; Mrs. Holden sang "Bonnie Doon" in a feeling manner, and very sweet voice; she also sang in a duet with Mrs. Leslie, which delighted all and elicited for them a hearty encore, but they did not respond owing to the lateness of the hour. The speakers were: Rev. Mr. Murray, of Streetsville, and Craig, of the Boyne, who made neat and happy speeches. Henry Robinson, Esq., Reeve, occupied the chair in his usual gentlemanly manner. The Streetsville band closed the entertainment by playing God Save the Queen. The receipts amounted to over one hundred dollars.—Con.

A PICNIC.—There was a real live picnic in Cameron's grove on Friday last. None of your half-hearted affairs, but one with enough vim and variety about it to satisfy the most ardent lover of romance. There were boys there—six whole boys—comprising our principal local celebrities, from our native-born dude to the darling young doctor. Girls were there, too—heaps of them—so that every young gent's share was two and five eights. Just who arranged the affair is not exactly known, but they deserve great credit for the elegant and artistic manner in which the programme of the day was carried out. The party went over to the grove in boats, but not being able to secure them later than 7 p.m., they all were obliged to return home on foot, reaching the village some time in the cool dusk. All, did we say? We were mistaken. Five remained—five girls, two of whom had made arrangements to have their "lovyers" row over for them in the evening. This, owing to certain circumstances, they were unable to do, and these poor girls were left anxiously waiting the arrival of the young men to enjoy a moonlight ride over the lake, only to be doomed to disappointment. How they put in the time as the mantle of darkness spread over them is not known, but no doubt the tardy boatmen received a fair share of their blessings. The rain commencing to fall added fresh charms to the situation. Here was a pretty mess. Five handsome maidens waiting at one end of the lake and their young men standing at the other, unable to reach them. The young men could only stamp and say cuss words, while the ladies could only chew gum and watch, occasionally relieving the monotony with sighs and tears. After a couple of hours' delay a boat was secured, and after considerable difficulty the grove was reached, and the five little "babes in the woods" were found sitting on a log at the edge of the beach, disconsolate and forlorn. A couple of trips with the boat, and a few encounters with stumps, and all reached home at last about 11 p. m. Thus ended the pleasures and pains of that picnic, which might have ended with far more serious consequences, both from the exposure in the damp woods and the dangerous ride over the lake in the night.—Acton Free Press.

WE WILL DISCUSS FACTS VS. FATE.

WHAT IS FATE?

Fate is a man placed upon the top of a chair, without the energy to move, impelled by all the motion that exists in the chair, even if it is constructed with a spring seat. Man governed by fate will not have the energy to sit upon it hard enough to make it spring up to twin facts.

WE WOULD NOT BE

WE WOULD BE

The auger that bores not only down to the rock bottom bores a hole right through and lets the Supply Houses step into oblivion.

WE REACH AT

WHAT ARE FACTS?

Facts are terms applied to stern reality. Let him be put in any position imaginable, governed by the stern reality of facts, and he will rise supreme to any little difficulty that Fate will put in his way. Let him be a man of facts and no rusted nail will be placed in his boot to hinder his magnificent splurge into this world of so-called fate.

WE WOULD SOONER BE.

A nail driven into a plank of rotten wood with a chance of holding it together, than a Supply House with no chance of completing with a manufacturer.
