THE CANADIAN CHAMPION.

MILTON, OCT. 7th., 1885

EASILY SATISFIED.

The Scott Act men who are in the habit of saying on the platform, and through the press, that their vaunted measure "has succeded here as well as could reasonably be expected," must have been very, very reasonable in their expectations, though their party did predict such wonderful things when asking for the votes of the people of Halton. Milton is now patrolled night after night by watchmen hired by the town council to look after the toughs who have been breaking windows of late, but the owners of the premises on which the outrages have been committed have so little confidence in the efficacy of the law to protect them that one of them has replaced his broken glass with sheets of tin, and another has not replaced his at all, although it was smashed several weeks ago. Can the oldest inhabitant remember any time under a license law when a similar state of affairs prevailed here?

THAT WHISKEY DESTRIBUTION.

"We have prepared a reply to the Champion's challenge of a case which occurred right here in our town. But on account of the increasing demand on our advertising space, and the reply to the Champion being somewhat lengthy, we have been obliged to leave it over until next week."—Oakville Independent, Aug. 7.

The CHAMPION challenge referred to above was one to give the particulars of a single case of the free whiskey distribution alleged by the Oakville prohibition organ to be practiced in Halton by anti-prohibitionists in order to bring the Scott Act into disrepute. We have waited long and anxiously for the expose promised by the Independent, but the extraordinary pressure on the advertising space of that estimable journal appears to continue, and there is no telling when our curiosity will be gratified. We mention the matter now lest the tremendous rush of business to the Independent office should drive the free whiskey distribution matter from its proprietor's head, in which case the uncharitable and unrighteous would be certain to suspect and accuse him of falsehood. If this were to happen we should be grieved, but now that we have given him this reminder we shall no doubt hear from him very shortly.

A MILTON CRANK ON THE WARPATH.

The CHAMPION has had frequent occasion to comment on the lamentable state of affairs in Milton under the Scott Act. When we spoke of the extraordinary amount of illegal liquor selling in the shebeens which owe their existence to prohibition, of of the increase here of drunkenness and lawlessness, and asked for a suppression of the blackguardism which week after week, day after day, and night after night has disgraced our streets; when we called on the alleged temperance party to suppress the outrage, and the authorities of the town to punish the other, we were accused of exaggerating matters in the interests of the "liquor party." We were asked to become whiskey informers ourselves and do the dirty work of the quack social reformers, who have systematically misrepresented the real state of affairs here, with the object of inducing the ratepayers of other counties to vote for the pernicious law with which Halton is cursed. When time after time street lamps were broken with stones, street shade trees cut down, and other outrages were committed by drunken blackguards, and we published the facts and called on the authorities of the town to appoint extra constables to enforce better order, our "temperance" friends, instead of lending helping hand, ignored the matter because it told against their prohibitory law and persisted in their stories about the wonderful effects of the Scott Act in regenerating old-time drunkards and promoting morality and sobriety in Milton. When, however, the prohibition party at last began to bestow a little of the attention that they had so long continued to respectable hotels on the shebeens, and unknown parties who were possibly frequenters or keepers of the latter, recipr cated by smashing the windows of a few prominent Scott Act men it was a different matter. Then there was a cry for the increased police protection which we had suggested, and which it created when we first called for it, might have prevented some of the recent outrages. The protection was accordingly granted, watchmen nightly patrol our streets, and this will be paid for, not alone by those who have been mainly instrumental in causing the necessity for it, and who principally need it, but by the ratepayers of the town generally, who voted two to one in favor of the repeal of the Scott Act, but who, notwithstanding, have been compelled to put up with that abomination and all the evils which it has caused.

It might have been expected that under the circumstances the Scott Act agitators would have given the CHAMPION a little credit for its efforts to promote the suppression of lawlessness and blackguardism, or at least have been silent and thankful for the protection granted them by a town council, only one member of which is an avowed Scott Act man. Instead of that they now accuse all anti-prohibitionists, and particularly the editors of the CHAMPION and Sun, of encouraging and abetting lawlessness, and charge them with being responsible for the outrages which they, by their fanaticism and fanaticism, brought upon themselves. Here is what an anonymous Milton prohibitonist says about it in the Oakville Independent:

"It is needless to say that the parties who committed the offence are not alone. It is to be regretted, however, that they are willing to become mere tools of any whiskey ring. There is no question but that they had to be well primed before the job was undertaken. There are people who have lost all self respect and are ready to make a boon companion of whiskey. We are not surprised at the result, even though it has led to their destruction. There is no reason, however, why the instigators of these places should not be shown up, that they may be unwilling to shoulder the same and disgrace that is undoubtedly their share in the transaction, is no reason why the whole matter should not be sifted to the bottom. We are certain that it would reveal a respectable class of people, inciting whom they do not consider respectable, but quite good enough to use in trying to make the law—the expressed will of the people—unpopular.

* * * * * *

We cannot but think that the local press is largely to blame for the outrages recently committed. Had it denounced such practices in unqualified terms, as was its duty, a public to the public as it does for support, posing as a leader of thought in the community and claiming to be loyal to the country, its constitution and its laws, the lawless rabble would not be induced to stake their liberty, had it been such, because they would know that its pages would soon chronicle their doom. At the very name of an unshackled press such people tremble. Carlyle has said that "Every editor is a ruler and leader in the world." Sheridan has said "Give me control of the press for a single year, and I will work the greatest changes socially and politically." Had some of these worthies control of the Sun and Champion, a different state of things might be expected. The farmer struck out very fair but it has got contaminated and is going over the fence beside its neighbor. The Champion never claimed to be much of a social reformer, hence the deed it was not far enough to unpeal its existence although its survival the year, the lowest figure ever reached.

THE ROLE OF RIEL.

A FRENCH CANADIAN PAPER DISCUSSES THE REBEL.

From the Minerve.

From the first the Liberals, under pretext of defending the cause of the half-breeds, have occupied themselves with only one of those half breeds, and with that one who, a coriling to Saskatchewan missionaries, deserved no sympathy from French-Canadians. They have left the other condemned ones, the poor dupes of Riel, in the shade, and have set him up as "champion" of our religious and national interests. Now see how the Rev. Father Fourmond describes the game played by the "champion"—

"I have been very near death, for, if the bullets of the fury of the rebels missed me, still apostasy, heresy, treason, persecution, fire, pillage were all let loose upon us; one would have thought it the end of the world. A ready we have our Antichrist in the person of the famous Riel, against whom we had to combat at the peril of our lives to destroy his baneful influence over our poor people.

"——! What a man, what hypocrisy, what impiety, both at once! He selected him elf one of God, directed by angels from heaven who often came to visit him. Veritable angel of darkness, he simulated an Angel of light. He was a hidden in sheeps clothing to better devour the flock. He seemed to pray a good deal and practiced the greatest mortification. He ate nothing but the blood of cattle, following the letter of the diabolical impostures which he had consigned to a book written in blood by his own hand.

Revolutionist of the worst kind, he wanted to destroy everything, and if he succeeded as the angels assured him, he said, he would, like Milton, triumphantly overrun both hemispheres and push even to Rome to set up a pope of his choice, who would approve of his heresies and his proud dreams.

"Lastly he needed a whole book to recount his pernicious follies, and it is for these follies that Riel poured out the blood of our bravest chi istians on the battlefields of Batoche and Frog Lake. It is for this he ruined our christian families by pillage and fire. It was by a horrible consequence of his plans that the blood of the whites and our dear and zealous confreres was was spilled, massacred by Indians under his orders. I, myself, with three of my confreres and six good nuns of our schools was in a state of siege at St. Antoine Mission, after being violently torn from our own missions. During the battle of Batoche, which lasted four days, we found ourselves between the fires of the two armies continually, the bullets which whistled about us riddled our house and our church.

"One of us, the Rev. Father Moulins, director of the mission, was badly wounded in the thigh. The Rev. Father LeGoff owed his safety to the devotion of his christians who pulled him out of the hands of the assassins."

Father Fourmond adds that he and his fellow prisoners, victims of Riel's cruelty, exposed by him to a frightful death, were only delivered by the arrival of General Middleton. We do not reproduce these words again to hurt Riel, but to point out that it is wrong to represent him as personifying the national and religious cause. Between the windy discourses of our Rouges and the declarations of our missionaries one should not hesitate.

Was It a Ghost?

MR. EDITOR.—I was considerably astonished on arising early last Sunday morning to see a female figure arrayed in a rather scanty and spotless white garment, and with her feet uncovered, flitting about on a neighboring grass plot. The figure appeared to me very like a ghost, but at the same time it was taking a very lively interest in things mundane for a spook, as it was very busily engaged in turning a lot of clothes of the last week's washing. Tell me, Mr. Editor, have you ever heard of disembodied spirits appearing in daylight?

NICK O. DEMUS.

Smallpox in Guelph.

GUELPH, Oct. 6—Guelph has had its first case of smallpox. The wife of Rev. J. C. Smith showed all the symptoms yesterday and she was accordingly treated therefor. The lady has only lately returned from a visit.

Why allow a cough to lacerate your throat and lungs? Why incur the imminent danger of consumption, when in an incredibly short space of time, and for an insignificant sum, you may cure yourself? THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL does the business thoroughly. A single bottle often suffices to relieve the difficulty. This peerless remedy overcomes with equal certainty, swelling of the neck, inflammation of raw muscles and stiffness of the joints, lameness and crick in the back, tumors, piles, dysentery and a variety of other painful and harrassing disorders. It may be taken inwardly with as much safety as it is applied outwardly. Colic, whether of man or beast, is cured by it in fifteen or twenty minutes. Sores, excoriations and abrasions of the skin, are healed by it with gratifying rapidity. All medicine dealers sell it.

LOOK OUT FOR IT.—Hog cholera is very prevalent at present in western Ontario and has caused great loss in the herds of many farmers. It is extending fast in this direction, and has broken out in the County of Brant. Nothing but the most stringent measures will check the spread of this disease, and the farmers of Halton should take steps to prevent infection being brought into their county.

Several cases of smallpox exist in St. Catharines. The disease was brought from Montreal by a sailor, its loathsome nature being at first unknown, and the sufferer was nursed by members of the Salvation Army, with the result of spreading the contagion.

The enforcement of vaccination in Montreal appears to be at last showing its effects in staying the ravages of smallpox, the deaths on Monday in the city and suburbs having dropped to the comparatively small number of twenty-four, forty-three less than the number reported on Sunday, and twenty one less than on Saturday.

Connecticut has the largest apple crop known since the war, and the fruit is of unusual excellence. Thousands of bushels will be wasted, because it will not pay to pick and barrel them, and if all the presses and stills in the State were to run day and night they would not suffice to turn the apples into cider, vinegar or brandy.

There were only four deaths from smallpox in Ontario during 1885. In 1884 the record was higher owing to the Hungerford outbreak. In the Hungerford case thirty-three per cent. of the subjects of the disease who died were unvaccinated persons and six per cent. only were vaccinated persons. That is to say, out of a hundred cases only six vaccinated persons died against thirty-three unvaccinated persons. This speaks favorably for vaccination.

EXPELLED FROM MASONRY.—Some time ago members of the Masonic fraternity of Toronto were considerably excited over the dismissal from King Solomon's Lodge, No. 22, of a certain member, against whom the charge of agnosticism had been proven. This action aroused the ire of one W. C. Bryant, of the Ithaca (Mich.) Masonic Lodge No. 123, and that gentleman wrote a letter to the secretary of the Toronto lodge, expressing his opinions very freely and avowing infidelity. This letter was at once transmitted to the Ithaca brethren and Mr. Bryant was duly tried and found guilty, expelled from the lodge and declared to have forfeited the right and benefits of Masonry. This latter is the 3rd "only one of the kind that ever occurred in the United States, as the former was the only one of the kind in Canada; and it is probable that the two are the only cases in the world.

The Experience of one of the Leading Tailoring Houses in Hamilton.

When the average man requires garments such as will give satisfaction to the wearer, he generally patronizes a house whose reputation for dealing honorably with its customers has given it a prominent position among the trading houses of the city where it is situated. During our business career of many years, we have always represented our goods to be just what they are, and we adhere to a rule not to practice any deception by accepting a lower figure than we ask for making clothing, presuming to the patron that he will get a first-class article for a second class price. The result is that to-day we carry one of the largest and best stock of cloths; we do a business of such dimensions as testifies to our ability in our line; we receive the support of some of the most influential people in Canada; we have the patronage of many of its best workingmen; we gain the influence of hundreds of our customers who are so well pleased that they recommend their friends to order from us. We open the Fall Trade with Novelties in every department, Novelties in Suitings, Novelties in Overcoatings, Novelties in Trouserings, Novelties such as will please the eye and satisfy the wearer. We open the Fall Trade with a determination to excel all previous efforts and guarantee our best attention to everybody.

HEROES FROM THE WAR.—Messrs. Harold Schofield and Harry Beadle returned home to Oakville from the North-west on Tuesday last. Both figured prominently in the recent rebellion there, especially Schofield, who, it will be remembered, had a very narrow escape from being scalped while voluntarily carrying mails in company with a scout. Their many friends were glad to see them and welcome them back.—Independent.

THE Salvation Army does not appear to gain any ground here, but rather the reverse. The three officers who have been in charge here for some months have been recalled, and replaced by others, in the hope probably that the latter may be more successful than their predecessors, who, we are informed, pronounced the people of Milton, before leaving, the most stiff-necked and obdurate that they ever tackled.

FILLED HER BOTTLE.—Constable Morris arrested Mary Ross on Cannon street on an early hour this morning when she was under the influence of liquor and behaving in a riotous manner. Mary in a voluble speech confessed that she came from Burlington, which she called was a Scotch town and came to Hamilton to get a black bottle filled. Not satisfied with filling the bottle, she began to fill herself until she was full. When the constable arrived several young men who attempted to rouse her ran away. The Magistrate apparently did not believe this part of the story, and he fined her $8 or ten days.—Hamilton Times, Oct. 2.

THE BALL.—The following despatch appeared in Saturday Mail:

MILTON, Oct. 2.—Yesterday a game of football was played on Brampton grounds between the Bolton Athletic club, assisted by Fitzgerald and Hall, the battery of the Guelph Maple Leaf League team. It resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 15 to 10. The match was arranged as a championship match for the counties of Halton and Peel, but as there were professionals engaged by the Acton team they refused to play except as a friendly game. They are ready and willing to play a championship game at any time, provided the Acton team will play amateur nine.

Bolton in reply a few days later made a charge of hiring outsiders, and of playing with a similar accusation against the Athletics.
